Senator William H. Smathers, of New Jersey, more than three months late in taking his seat in congress, dons top hat and tails to give official Washington its first glimpse of its newest solon. "THE PHANTOM BURGLAR," otherwise Edgar Sanderson, of Boston, who has just been arrested in New York, says that out of 1,000 house robberies in the past six years, he has profited less than $4,000.

"The Phantom Burglar" is by no means phantomesque in physical appearance. He is a stoutish man, who does not look as if he could get his hand in the Hudson river without rocking the palisades. As the the late Wilson Mizner once said in describing an inefficient pickpocket.

Moreover, "The Phantom Burglar" is 65 years old, an age at which most men sit down to cogitate their sins, and wonder how they can round themselves up with the big judge. "The Phantom" has pursued a long career at one of the most dangerous of all criminal avocations, and never made decent wages. He would have been better off on relief.

We presume they will send the old "Phantom" away to prison for a term of years, as is his just deserts, if he was as burglarious as he is said to admit. But it seems to us that they are overlooking a good bet in not utilizing a man of his experience by sending him around the country to deliver lectures to young men on the economic futility of crime.

WE ARE NO criminologist, but it seems to us that the lads who study crime, and who seek remedies for the prevention of crime, devote too much attention to stressing the moral phases of the matter, while neglecting the economic.

The average youth learns at his mother's knee that crime is all wrong.

WARMEST WEATHER OF YEAR REPORTED

If yesterday was an indication, this section of Dixie is scheduled to do plenty of perspiring when summer arrives in full blast.

The thermometer at the city hall climbed to 89 degrees, which, of course, showed the hottest days since those of last summer when the mercury soared to 100-degree marks.

Local residents who ignored the official arrival of spring and stuck by their winter raiment were glad indeed yesterday that there were such things as straw katies and lightweight suits.

Many a man bloomed forth for the first time in straw hat, linen suit and white shoes. What the ladies wore was less noticable, because they change with the wind anyhow.

Clothing merchants reported a thriving business.

Charles R. In his report of the accident Mr. Baur stated that after crossing the tracks of the A. and L. M. railroad which crosses the Loop road about three miles north of Monroe, the front wheels of his car commenced to "shimmy" and he could not steer the automobile which headed towards a ditch and overturned. Mr. Baur was thrown out of the car and rendered unconscious. A passing motorist summoned an ambulance which took the injured man to St. Francis sanitarium where he was given treatment and later he returned to his home.

$12,000 FOUND ON PATH OF TWO WHO SERIOUSLY WOUNDED G-MAN

GRAVITY OF CHARGES TO DEPEND UPON OUTCOME

Physician Leads Officers To $6,954.15 Left In Room Of Hotel

KANSAS CITY, April 17.—(AP)—Federal and city officers back-tracked tonight a trail of money left by two New York gunmen before they were captured by a country sheriff in Nebraska last night as they fled from the scene of a postoffice battle that left a young G-man gravely wounded.

Nearly $12,000, equal to about two-thirds of the amount stolen in a bank robbery at Katonah, N. Y., March 17, was found on the trail of Robert Suhay and Alfred Power, New York gangsters brought here after their bloodless arrest at Plattsmouth, Neb., last night.

On the outcome of bullet wounds suffered by Wayne W. Baker, 27, federal bureau of investigation agent, will depend the gravity of charges to be brought against Suhay and Power, District Attorney Alexander said at Topeka.

Baker's condition early tonight was reported unchanged. His intestines perforated by bullets as he attempted to make his first major arrest, his recovery was said to be doubtful.

Dwight Brantley, in charge of the Kansas City division of the federal bureau of investigation, disclosed that a Kansas doctor, presumed to be Dr. S. M. Hibbard, Sabetha, led officers to $6,954.15 left by the two men in a hotel room here.

Brantley said Power and Suhay, who captured Dr. Hibbard in their flight from Topeka yesterday, gave a "Kansas doctor" keys to a Kansas City hotel room in which they told him there was "a lot of money and he could have it."

The keys, Brantley said, were turned over to authorities by the doctor, whom he declined to name, and as a result Kansas City officers found the money at the hotel.

Dr. Hibbard was captured by the fugitives at Sabetha and forced to treat one of them.

Homer Sylvester, 5-foot, 4-inch sheriff, who arrested the men without a struggle, after they lost their way through the streets of Plattsmouth, a town of 3,700, said they had about $4,800 concealed in their clothing.

Brantley declined to say which of the two men fired the shots in the

TELEPHONE BRINGS WOMAN TWIN BOYS

CHICAGO, April 17.—(AP)—Twin boys born today to Mrs. Emma Nelson, 40, won't be told when they grow up that the stork brought them. Instead, their mother plans to inform them she got them by telephone and she did.

Mrs. Nelson telephoned the Chicago Maternity Center when she discovered she wouldn't have time to get to a hospital for the birth of her expected baby. An obstetrician dispatched immediately a physician, an interne and a nurse to the Nelson home, five miles away, and then began giving the woman full instructions by telephone.

Eight minutes later Mrs. Nelson reported the birth of a boy, and was about to hang up the receiver when she notified the obstetrician another baby was being born. Again he gave her instructions and after five minutes a second boy was reported.

The doctor, interne and nurse arrived a minute later to find mother and sons quite well. Mrs. Nelson has two other boys, six and seven years old.

He observed his 12-year-old stepson, Danny, in one of their twin beds and thought he was "another man," officers said.

New Orleans And Lake Charles Enter Bids For 1938 Convention

SHREVEPORT, La., April 17.—(AP)—New Orleans and Lake Charles put in a bid for the 1938 state convention of the Louisiana Parent-Teacher association, which today concluded its fourteenth annual convention here.

The invitations extended by the two cities were accepted by Mrs. Albert L. Smith, state president, and will be referred to the executive committee to decide which shall be accepted.

A brief business session here this morning brought the convention, which began Thursday, to a conclusion, except for a post-convention meeting of the official board this afternoon.

Attendance at the three day meeting, it was said, was the largest at any convention held in recent years. Approximately 500 delegates were on hand for today's session, many of them being teachers, who were privileged to attend the final session because of no school session.

Officers of the association who were elected Friday were officially installed today by Mrs. [illegible], third vice president of the national congress, P.-T. A., of Austin, Tex. They were Mrs. J. E. Rooks, Shreveport, and Mrs. H. F. Felts, Monroe.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—(AP)—The senate judiciary committee avoided a test of sentiment on the Roosevelt court bill today by working out a compromise plan to end its hearings on or before April 29.

Unanimously, it decided to continue the hearings for another ten days, with a possibility that they would be closed at the end of next week. No further progress can be made with the bill until testimony is concluded.

CHAPTER VII

Someone turned on the radio and the sound of jazz blared through the big room. Hilda Blanchard held out her arms to someone—was it Tom?—and began to dance.

Hilda was in red—flame red, and her little black curls, feathering all over her small head, gave her a slightly Grecian air. She, like Lila, affected an unearthly pallor and her lips were like a geranium slash in her pallid face. She hung on Tom. She was, Gypsy observed, almost as tall as he: while she, Gypsy, was smaller, reached only to his shoulder.

Under her laughter, her civilized air of casualness, the most primitive of all emotions began to stir—that of jealousy. It was unreasoning, she admitted it. It was mad. It was utterly without foundation. Why, she had never laid eyes on this girl before in her life, and neither had Tom. Yet, from the first moment of entering the room, she had felt a wholly foolish and feminine sensation of distrust. Hilda had liked Tom at sight, that much was certain.

"You can tell. A wife can tell," said Gypsy to herself with all the wisdom of her 22 years. Meanwhile she chattered and nodded her head: said "absolutely!" with emphasis, although she hadn't the faintest notion what Derek wanted her to agree with. Her head was in a whirl. It was all very well, she thought, for Tom to behave nicely to this girl: that was part of being a guest. But he needn't act as though she were the only person in the room. He didn't even glance to see if she (Gypsy) were having a good time: how she was faring. And they had been married only a little more than two months! Why it was monstrous! It was unbelievable!

Gypsy thought that Derek glanced at her rather oddly. She tried to collect her thoughts, to attend to what he was saying.

". . . I beg your pardon. I'm afraid I didn't hear that. The music is so loud. . . ."

"Awful," agreed Derek. "Can't hear yourself think. I'll turn it down. I just said it was time for Marko to be here, if he's coming at all."

* * *

He left her with a murmured excuse to adjust the dial of the instrument, and Gypsy was left with the disturbing news. Marko Broughton was coming, after all

Yet somehow the thought did not seem quite so disquieting, so disagreeable, now, as it had some hours before. Marko had been in love with her a year ago—or so he had said. Marko had wanted her to marry him, ignoring the great disparity in their ages. Marko was 50, very rich, commanding. He was that character of stage and drama and downtown life, a financier. The thought of marrying Marko had seemed preposterous to Gypsy, and she had said as much to Lila, who had introduced him to her.

"Why, you little goose, he's worth millions," she remembered Lila had said indulgently. "What on earth are you thinking of!"

Yes, there had been, decidedly, a tone of envy in Lila's voice. Lila hadn't been able to understand Gypsy's choice of a handsome, penniless youngster like Tom Weaver. Derek was one of Marko's many young men—and Lila hoped that great things were to come of his association with Broughton & Co. This apartment, all these things (which seemed such luxury to Gypsy and Tom) were, in Lila's mind, mere stepping stones in a rich man's career.

And now Marko was coming. Gypsy would meet him for the first time since she had been Tom Weaver's wife!

For Tom's sake, she had hoped Marko would not turn up. Tom hated the very idea of the "rich old man" who had wanted Gypsy for his own. But now, looking at Hilda, at the possessive way her scarlet-tipped hand curled itself around Tom's black collar, Gypsy decided she was glad he was coming. Let Tom worry! Let him be jealous, too.

The orchestra music came to a pause, and the announcer's voice, disagreeably nasal, came through:

"Now I want to tell all our friends about the wonderful prize offer the Blank Soap company is making . . . a sterling silver spoon ab-so-lutely free. . . ."

"Shut it off. . . . Isn't that dreadful . . . stop dancing, you two, I can't bear it. . . ."

Simultaneously with Derek's clicking off of the music, a slight commotion ensued. Koto, bowing and smiling as a slave before a potentate, ushered Marko into the room!

Marko had made a good entrance. Trust him for that! Gypsy smiled to herself at the thought. Hilda, one of those predatory looking, scarlet-tipped hands of hers still clinging to her partner's coafst sleeve, stared at him interestedly. Lila greeted the great man prettily. Her manner was deft blend of respect and comradliness.

"You know everybody but Hilda Blanchard, I think, Marko. And, oh yes, Tom Weaver."

Marko's bright steel-gray eyes, under their commanding brows, went from face to face.

"Gypsy!" He was all cordiality. "They didn't tell me I was to see you. But how splendid!"

He shook hands with Tom, after a keen glance. Marko was not in the least the "old man" young Mr. Weaver had pictured to himself. He carried his 50 years well. Handball and swimming kept him in the pink of condition. He was a decidedly attractive man in middle life. No one in his senses could have called him old, and Tom's frown attested to this thought.

"Give Marko a drink, darling, while we get our things," Lila cried, marshaling the womenfolk up the stairway. "We're going on to the Cotton club, darling, you knew that?"

The latter endearment was directed at the great visitor. Gypsy was amused. Apparently "darling" meant nothing on earth to Lila. She called her friends, her husband, her husband's boss, all by the same affectionate term. The fine old Anglo-Saxon word, sacred to lover down the ages, was the merest scrap of courtesy.

Hilda sat on a pouf in Lila's room and smoked a hasty cigaret while the others renewed makeup and talked in the vague fashion women affect when they are absorbed in their personal appearances.

Young Mrs. Wiltford Gyspy thought eminently likeable. She was a rosy young woman with prematurely gray hair and bright blue eyes. She turned cordially to Gypsy.

"My dear, you must come to see me. I should love it. Come in for tea next week, won't you?"

Gypsy explained lightly that she had a job.

"Oh, you write or paint or something, isn't that it?"

"No, it's kindergarten work, at a settlement," Gypsy explained. She felt self-conscious, with Hilda's critical eyes upon her. Hilda was measuring her frankly and coolly, in a disconcerting fashion.

"How very int'resting!" Hilda contributed, in a drawling voice, at this juncture of the conversation. She rubbed her half-smoked cigaret out in an alabaster tray and stood up, stretching herself in feline fashion.

"Come along," Lila interposed. "They'll be shouting for us, we're dawdling so."

* * *

She took Gypsy's arm. As they went downstairs, she said in a low voice: "Don't pay any attention to her. She's a bit of a cat, Hilda is."

Gypsy held her head high, fastening the collar of creamy fur around her throat. The jibe had made her dark eyes brighter than ever. Marko crossed the room to stand at her side.

"You're lookin' sweet, my child," he said, in a throaty undertone. "How's life treatin' you?"

Gypsy could see Tom watching her. She smiled at Marko dazzlingly and said softly that life was splendid, thanks so very much. And how was he? Tom could not hear the words, but he saw the smile and saw, too, the warm clasp Marko maintained on Gypsy's small, ungloved hand.

"Let him see how he likes it," thought Gypsy, exultingly.

There were two cars downstairs—Marko's—and a limousine ordered by Derek. Somehow—Gypsy never knew how it happened—she was in Marko's and Tom was helping Hilda into the other. The Wiltfords rode in that, and Lila and Derek and Bobby came with Marko. Gypsy's heart beat thickly with jealousy and resentment. Why, Tom had hardly said a word to her when she'd come into the room.

What on earth had happened to him? He acted as though he were bewitched. Gypsy was fairly sick with fury. She had never known such a feeling of helplessness and anger. She hadn't known—hadn't dreamed or guessed—that being married made you feel like this!

Meanwhile, here was Marko at her side.

"You beautiful thing," he was saying, lightly. "Isn't she a beautiful thing?" he demanded of them all.

(To Be Continued)

'TURTLE SHELL STOMACH' DISCOVERED IN CROAKER GIGGED BY MONROE MAN

A frog with a "turtle-shell stomach" was captured in a bayou near Monroe recently by McDonald Wilkerson, local young man.

Wilkerson, who is an expert at gigging frogs and who makes that sport one of favorite pastimes, captured the frog along with 19 others, and did not learn about the "turtle shell stomach" until he was preparing the particular frog for the family dinner table.

Examination of the frog's peculiar stomach showed that the croaker had swallowed a turtle some time ago, possibly two years ago. The shell of the turtle, about three inches in diameter, was all that remained to tell the story of the frog's big mouthful—and his subsequent stomachful. In time, all portions of the turtle except the shells were digested.

The shells became firmly attached to the stomach walls, actually giving the frog a turtle-shell-lined stomach.

Welfare Department Tells Who Can Receive State Aid

In order that everyone may understand clearly just who is able to get help in Ouachita parish from the department of public welfare which was established here in accordance with the social security act, the following information has been made available in a bulletin released by A. R. Johnson of Baton Rouge, commissioner of public welfare for the state:

The state department of public welfare works through the parish departments of public welfare and has assumed the duty of seeing that aged people of 65 and over are provided with the necessities of life. In order for a person to get this help from the state there are certain requirements which must be met.

First of all the applicant for old age assistance must be 65 years of age or older. Then he must have lived in Louisiana for at least five years during the past nine years before he applies for assistance. The year just previous to applying must have been lived continuously in Louisiana and he must apply for assistance at the parish welfare department in the parish where he actually resides.

It must be understood that old age assistance is not a pension which goes to everybody who is 65 years old or older. It is assistance to needy persons who have absolutely no other means of providing a living for themselves. Therefore, this rule is necessary to care for all old people who must have state help if they are to live.

The law says that the applicant must not have enough property or investments, or cash income from rents or other sources, to provide him with a living if he wants to obtain old age assistance.

For the same reason the law says that the department of public welfare must also consider the relatives who by state laws are told that they are responsible for the support of their aged parents or grandparents. Of course, this means that if the person who asks for aid has children or grandchildren earning enough money to support him, then it is the duty of these to provide for their relatives and not the duty of the state.

The law also says that the person who makes application for this assistance must not live in or be supported by any public or private institution, and must not be receiving a pension of any kind from the state or from the United States.

When an aged person applies for help at the welfare department in his parish an investigation is made and his needs are decided by a worker from the parish department who works together with the one asking aid. The parish department then decides whether the application will be approved or not, and so informs the applicant. In a few cases if application is not approved by the parish and the aged person feels that assistance is absolutely necessary and should have been given to him, the law provides that he may write to the state department of public welfare at Baton Rouge for a review of the application.

In cases of this sort the parish department will help the applicant by giving him the necessary papers to be sent in. The state department then investigates the reason for refusing assistance and renders a decision which may or may not change the parish department's decision.

The department of public welfare is also in charge of providing aid to dependent children under 15 years of age who, because they have lost one or both parents or because their parents do not make enough money to support them properly, are denied a decent and healthful existence. The department, in cases approved, makes money payments to certain relatives to be used for the benefit of the children.

In order to get this assistance the children must be in need, and must have lived in Louisiana for one year immediately before the application for assistance is made, or if the child is less than a year old it must have been born in Louisiana and its mother must have lived in the state one year immediately before he was born.

The law also says that the child or the children must live with a close relative in a place of residence maintained by one or more relatives as their own home. These relatives with whom the child is living must be unable to provide adequate care for the child without public assistance.

The amount that will be given as aid to a dependent child will be determined on a basis of providing a decent and healthful living when added to such other means of support as can be provided by the person who has charge of the child. Application for aid to dependent children must be made to the parish department of public welfare by the relatives with whom the children are living.

If an application for aid for dependent children is denied by the parish welfare department and the person who applies for the children is convinced that the assistance ought to have been given and is absolutely necessary, an appeal may be taken to the state department in the same manner as an appeal for old age assistance. The state department will conduct its own investigation and will decide whether or not assistance should be granted.

A blind person who is in need is entitled to state assistance if he has lived in the state for five years of the nine years before he applies. The last year just before he asks for aid must have been lived continuously in the state. Application must be made in the parish where the blind person is living.

The applicant must be between the age of 16 and 64 years and must not live in any municipal, state, national or private institution. Furthermore, if he receives assistance he cannot afterward publicly ask for alms; that is, he must not beg.

In order for a blind person to qualify for this assistance he must not have income or property sufficient to provide a reasonable living for himself and must not be receiving any other public assistance from the state or parish or town where he lives.

In order to get this assistance the applicant must be examined by a physician who has been qualified as an expert eye physician by the state department of public welfare.

In addition to the help granted for old age assistance, aid to dependent children, and aid to needy blind, the state department of public welfare, through the parish department, also has authority to provide for persons who are not old enough to be eligible for old age assistance and do not have children under the age of sixteen.

Through sickness or because they are crippled these people must be unable to work. In each case there are certain requirements of law to determine eligibility which will be investigated by the parish department of public welfare. It must be borne in mind that the person who asks for this help must not be able to work.

Happiness Is From Within

People who set out to make the world happy are defeated before they start. The thing can't be done—not with the grade of human souls that now inhabit this globe.

The most that can be done for the human family is to give it a square deal. Give it a chance to work under fair conditions, give it education, give it recreation, give it hospitalization, give it good food, give it good clothes, good houses. But as for giving it happiness, it can't be done.

If all the present worries were gone, other worries would take their places. Relieve a man of the worry of wondering where his next meal is coming from and he will begin to worry about the quality of the meal he gets. Relieve him of the worry of getting a job and he will begin to fuss about the job he gets.

Relieve him of the worry of getting an income for his old age and he will begin to worry about his old age, the size of the income, the way it is paid, and when it is paid. These are the things to which he is heir as a member of the imperfect human family. They are the exterior influences that go to harass him from his earliest experiences until he finally puts off the mortal coil and goes to that bourne from which no traveler returns.

Give your fellow-man justice — not because it will make him happy — it will not, except for the moment — but because he is entitled to justice and because it is good for your soul to be just. Give him kindness and consideration, because of the worries and distresses that are common to his lot and to yours. But that is not giving him happiness.

Happiness cannot be handed a man from without. It must be developed from within. Until a man has learned to be content with whatever state he is in he will stew in his own juice, whatever that state may be. No amount of money will buy a man happiness. A reasonable amount of it will buy him out of a lot of misery, but that will not buy him happiness.

Happiness is not a gift to be bestowed. It is a growth to be cultivated. Every human soul has within it the possibility of creating happiness for itself. But it is not given to one person to say to another, "Here is happiness; take it and make the most of it." It can't be done.

EDUCATION AND DEMOCRACY

That the relationship between education and the broader aspects of social life is of commanding importance at the present time was emphasized in the deilberations of school and college administrators at New Orleans.

John Dewey, distinguished philosopher and educator, was among those who advanced constructive views. It is the antithesis of democracy. Dewey pointed out, for schoolmen to seek to impress "upon the minds of pupils a particular set of political and economic views."

The point is that, in a democracy, the oncoming generation should be trained to think, not to accept the prejudices of a teacher or any other adult with an incrusted set of doctrines.

Free discussion is one thing. Deliberate indoctrination is something else. The schools of America should be at liberty to engage in frank and candid consideration of various politico-economic theories. But they should not become centers of partisan bias.

NOT QUITE SANE?

Dr. Donald A. Armstrong, a vice-president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, suggests in the current issue of "Safety" that serious traffic offenders be sent to a psychiatrist to determine just what makes them the way they are.

Dr. Armstrong takes the logical position that the term to "drive like mad" is not merely a figure of speech. He believes there is in fact a form of irrationalism that finds expression in wild, reckless driving along crowded highways, courting death every foot of the way.

In most states applicants for drivers' licenses are required to establish their physical fitness for the privilege of operating a car. But how many of the 36,000 annual automobile fatalities can be traced to mental aberrations? Surely, it is difficult to make out an impressive case for the complete sanity of many who now zigzag their way through traffic, flirting with death as they go.

MAKE THEM ALL PAY

Senator Arthur Capper, of Kansas, deserves to be widely supported in his drive for constitutional amendment which would eliminate the income tax exemption now enjoyed by state and municipal employes.

"There is no reason," he says, "why government employes should be exempt from taxes that apply to the taxpayers who pay the salaries of those employes. It is rank injustice, and is felt to be an injustice by all classes of our citizens."

Public officials enjoy all the benefits and services rendered by government agencies. It is reasonable to assume, accordingly, that they should help pay the operating costs.

Tax exemption is essentially a vicious form of fiscal favoritism. In the case of the income tax, it should be abolished in its entirety by the present session of congress.

RHYME AND REASON

By ANNE CAMPBELL

THE HOPEFUL SPRING

Year after year the trees put out new leaves,
Conquering every spring the fear of death.
The winter wind that battered on the eaves
Is singing now with April's fragrant breath.

The gaunt arms that have twisted helplessly
All winter long are filled with garlands now.
The buds are dreaming on the apple tree,
And beauty's hand is on the cherry bough.

What heart can be discouraged in the spring—
The sweet renewal of the lagging year—
When God walks in the orchard whispering
A word of hope that every one can hear?

CHEMISTRY WILL PROVIDE

By BRUCE CATTON

It is easy to think of more exciting things than a chemist making a speech on international trade. But when you stop to think how chemistry is remaking the world's future these days, and how the decline of international trade has us staggering around on the edge of the Dark Ages, you can see that such a talk might be worth listening to.

So it is worthwhile to have a look at remarks made recently by William J. Hale, research consultant of Washington, D. C., before a chemists' conference at Macon, Ga.

Chemistry, says Dr. Hale, is going to reduce world trade permanently, because it is teaching men how to substitute homemade commodities for the things they once had to buy abroad. When men start pulling nitrates out of the empty air, for instance, it is obvious that the old South American nitrate trade is never going to be the same again; and the atmospheric nitrogen fixation process is only a sample of the tricks of modern chemistry.

Do we, then, face a steady decline in world prosperity due to this decline in the interchange of goods? Not at all, says Dr. Hale; for chemistry has found so many ways to use the things which men produce out of the ground and the air and the water that the race will never be able to raise more things than industry is able to use.

For agriculture, as the chemist sees it, is not merely the process of raising foods for people to eat. It is becoming, or about to become, the production of raw materials for industry, as well. Industry's appetite, unlike that of a hungry man, is practically insatiable; in the end, it is limited only by the race's ability to use manufactured luxuries and necessities.

Now, what Dr. Hale is sketching out for us is nothing less than the picture of an era in which any kind of restriction on production will be looked upon as sheer insanity. Because mankind's wants are infinite, industry's markets are infinite also; and with such markets industry can never have an oversupply of raw materials.

You don't need to think very long to understand that a world organized on that basis would slough off most of the problems that are tormenting it today. Unemployment, poverty, want—they would simply disappear. Instead of dictatorships calling on their people to get along on less and less, we would have governments using every effort to increase production in every line.

It sounds like a fairy tale. But the point is that it is a fairy tale which is practically begging us to make it come true. The stage is all set. We are on thethreshold of this miraculous new age, and all we need to do is step into it.

How long will it be, do you suppose, before we get intelligent enough to take that step?

A BOOK REVIEW

DID FAMED MARSHAL NEY DIE IN U. S.?

One of those engaging historical mysteries like the fate of the lost dauphin of France is reviewed in "Marshal Ney: a Dual Life," by LeGette Blythe.

This book centers about one of Napoleon's greatest soldiers, the famous Marshal Ney who grew up in the armies of the revolution, fought valiantly for the emperor in a dozen campaigns, welcomed him on his return from Elba, and led the despairing, forlorn-hope charge of the Old Guard in the terrible closing minutes of Waterloo.

When Napoleon went to St. Helena and the Bourbons were restored in France, Ney was arrested as a traitor—for he had accepted the king's commission during Napoleon's first exile. He was tried, condemned, and—as far as the authorized histories know—was duly executed by a firing squad, in December of 1815.

It is at this point that Mr. Blythe goes to work. A tradition sprang up in Paris after the execution that Ney was not really shot; that the firing squad used blank cartridges, and that the supposedly dead marshal was smuggled away and given his liberty; that, in fact, he escaped to America and lived there for many years in peaceful obscurity.

There is, says Mr. Blythe, substantial evidence that this actually happened. In 1819 there appeared in Cheraw, S. C., one Peter Stuart Ney, claiming to be a refugee from France. He established himself in the Carolinas and became a schoolmaster. In the Carolinas he lived until 1846. He is buried in Rowan county, N. C.

This man, on his deathbed and before, claimed to be Marshal Ney. Mr. Blythe does not say that he has proved this to be true; he does say that the evidence makes it seem extremely likely, and he presents the evidence in this readable and immensely interesting book.

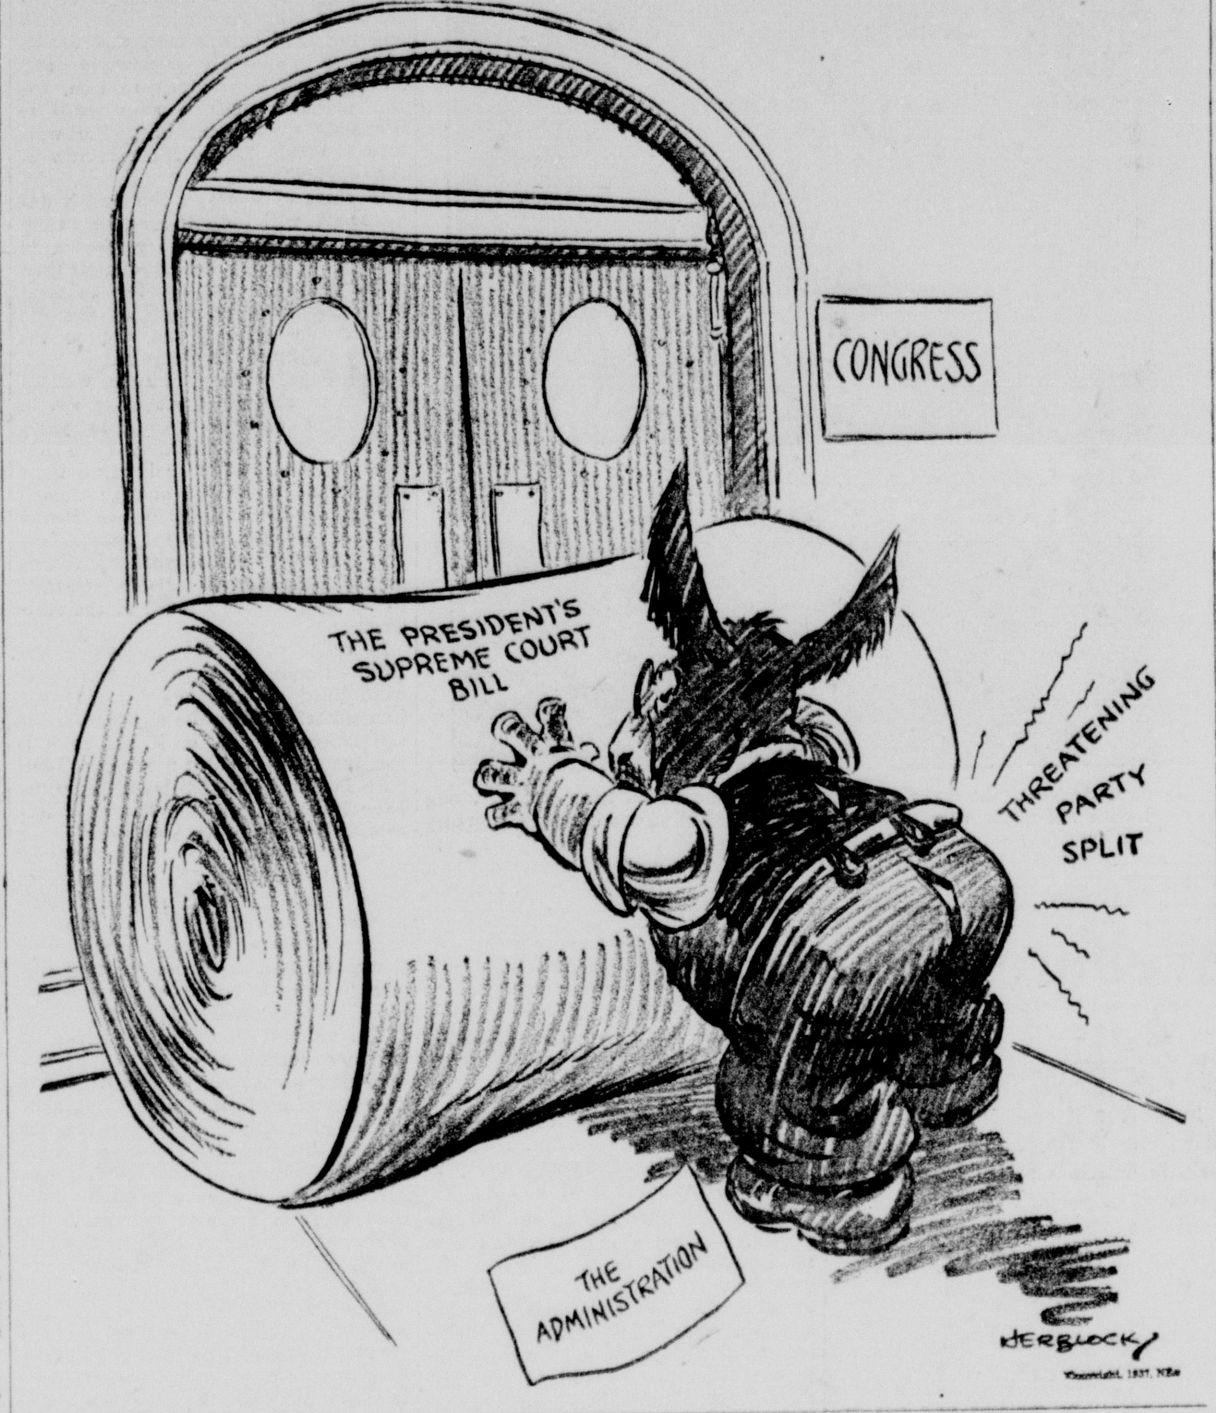
THE DIFFICULTY WITH PUSHING IT THROUGH



NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

Overwhelming disaster is invariably followed by doleful predictions. I recall when San Francisco was devastated how the boys around our Cincinnati copy desk declared the Golden Gate city was finished. No one believed it would ever be rebuilt.

Of course, it was rebuilt. And rising, as we so often editorialized, "Phoenix-like from its ashes" became bigger and better than ever and has continued its amazing progress and is an inspiration to the world. No one thinks of avoiding San Francisco for a visit or as a permanent residing place because of that calamity.

The same thing was true of Galveston in the tidal wave that almost washed it off the face of the earth and the flood that made the main streets of Dayton, O., raging torrents. So it is after the raging waters in the Ohio valley recently, there were the same old cries. The area was doomed.

There were many living there who said they would never face again such terror and destruction. Almost everybody as the waters receded wanted to chuck their homes on the market and get away from it all.

But that attitude is memory now. Homes-for-sale are not for sale. Enterprises that seemed doomed have caught their breath and are out front again fighting. They even smile at the notion that such a disaster will be repeated. After all, there was a lapse of 25 years between two record-breaking high water marks. And this time the nation has become flood conscious and likely to take protective measures.

Finally, the latest news from the stricken areas is that of unprecedented trade booms. Merchants have never known such a rush of business. A number of cities have already taken up the slack in their worrisome employment problems.

To be sure, these gains have been made at an awful sacrifice—but the whole thing proves again the ancient saw about the ill wind. Also it shows that most of our fears which seem so vivid today need only the healing touch of time—and that what seems so terrible may be after all a blessing. No philosophic bromide touches: "I've had a lot of trouble in my time, but most of it never happened."

Unjust accusations against people in the public eye usually have a favorable rebound. The screen romeo, Robert Taylor, might have been eclipsed by the widespread news he allowed an aged grandfather to become an object of charity. But there was a backwash of vigorous proof the old fellow was an eccentric who indulged a senile sense of spurious martyrdom. All his relatives, including his grandson Taylor, tried to aid him, but were spurned.

I have not yet read Wythe Williams' "Dusk of Empire," but one thing is certain, it has acquired more publicity than any other book, save "Gone With the Wind" and "Anthony Adverse" in the past few years. Williams was long a crack correspondent in Europe. Either he has a grand press agent or he has written a grand book.

Sweetness and light from Sir James Barrie: "Love, it is said, is blind; but love is not blind. It is an extra eye, which shows us what is most worthy of regard."

Somehow I got an impish chuckle out of an ad in many magazines sponsored by the Literary Guild of America. One of the pictures shows Napoleon with Madame de Pompadour. Unless my history is cockeyed—and there have been rumors—Pompadour was the sweetie of Louis Fifteenth and never met the Corsican. She was dust in a royal crypt when he came to power. The Literary Guild—of all people!

Doleful tales continue to trickle back from Paris of the droop to gaiety. Numberless sidewalk cafes on the grand boulevards are shuttered and going to ruin. Montmartre at night is like Sunday in a small town. Even the big and expensive restaurants consider a dozen customers a fairish evening. Parisians go home at six in the evening and stay there. Everybody seems to be sitting around waiting for something tremendous to happen. The old American bar crowd at the Ritz is now mostly South Americans.

The press agent of Plainview, Tex., sends a request for me to send a gavel for a young lady to kill rats at the forthcoming dairy show in his town. A catchy little event of the proceedings will be the selection of the world's champion woman rat killer. Young ladies will climb into an enclosure, armed with a gavel, and the ferocious rats will be turned loose. The ladies may slug, swing or pound—no kicking allowed—the life out of the rodents for a period of three minutes. The winner will naturally be proclaimed champion.

STAMP NEWS

WHILE fighting proceeds, the opposing forces in Spain are issuing their own stamps. Following a long series of overprinted stamps, the nationalists have produced a set of pictorials under the name of "Espana," while the Madrid government has brought forth new stamps of "Republica Espana." The "Espana" stamps include pictures of "Le Cid," famous legendary hero of Spain, and noted Moorish scenes in that country. The republican stamps include portraits of Velasquez, famous painter; Queen Isabella, who backed Columbus; and Pablo Iglesias, noted labor leader.

Bills before Congress call for a special Puerto Rico stamp, another for Gen. Thaddeus Kosciusko on the 150th anniversary of his naturalization as an American citizen, and a third for Horace Mann, great American educator. Officials in New Jersey, also, are seeking a stamp commemorating the 150th anniversary of ratification of the Constitution by that state.

Italy is issuing another set of stamps on Ethiopia, this time providing a definite type for each of the five provinces.

Mexico has created a philatelic agency, similar to that of the United States, where stamps of that country may be had at face value, plus cost of postage and registration. A list of stamps available may be had by writing to the agency in Mexico City.

YOUR HEALTH

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

(Editor Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine)

If we remember that the mucous membranes of the breathing tract are continuous, beginning with those of the nose and throat and running down into the lungs, we understand why it is possible for infections to begin in any part of this tract and then extend to other parts.

As has already been mentioned in the discussion of pneumonia, infections of these mucous membranes seem to damage them to such an extent that thereafter they appear to be more liable to additional infections.

Infections of the respiratory tract are especially common in countries in which there are rapid changes in temperature and humidity. For that reason those persons subject to repeated infections of this type should, if possible, live in regions where the climate is fairly stable.

There seems to be good evidence that the condition of these mucous membranes depends largely on the general hygiene of our bodies. If we cultivate a good hygienic condition, with sufficient rest and a good diet, we do much to strengthen the resistance of these membranes to infection.

Cold and chill, a lack of vitamins and minerals in the diet, overwork, and excess in the use of alcohol and tobacco all seem to weaken resistance of the mucous membranes in the throat and lungs.

Doctors usually classify bronchitis according to the parts of the lungs that are involved and to the nature of the infections. Acute bronchitis is fairly common in old people and in children, particularly in the latter in connection with specific infections such as measles, whooping cough, and scarlet fever.

Not infrequently, as has already been mentioned, a common cold that begins with a disturbance of the nose may extend to the throat and eventually to the lungs. In addition irritation of the mucous membranes of the bronchial tubes may be caused by inhaling irritant gases, such as ether and chlorine, and the gases or refrigerators, such as sulphur dioxide and ammonia.

The organism usually found in these mucous membranes is the pneumococcus which causes pneumonia, yet it is also possible for other germs, such as streptococci and those of influenza, to infect the membranes.

The bronchitis victim usually is slightly sick, somewhat hoarse, often short of breath, and subject to coughing spells. At first the cough is often hard, dry, and painful, but later it tends to loosen up, particularly if remedies are given that help increase the amount of secretion.

* * *

If a person with such a cough and inflammation of the bronchial tubes is immediately put to bed in a room that is well ventilated but not cold, he benefits promptly.

In his treatment the doctor prescribes sedative remedies that will help the patient rest at night, and also drugs that are valuable in the treatment of various kinds of coughs. Some of these remedies tend to loosen the cough. At the same time the action of the bowels is regulated.

Sometimes inhalations of steam, which serves to moisten the air, are prescribed. Occasionally this steam is medicated with soothing oils or with preparations such as benzoin. In general, doctors are inclined to the belief that it is primarily the steam, and secondarily the medication, that is important.

The patient should take plenty of hot liquids, such as tea and citrus fruit drinks. As he improves, his diet is supplemented with nourishing milk preparations.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

By Rodney Dutcher

WASHINGTON. — The administration's increasing concern over high prices and excessive profits must be giving a good deal of quiet satisfaction to Professor Oliver Mitchell Wentworth Sprague.

Sprague was the Harvard teacher who quit a job as adviser to the Bank of England and became financial and economic adviser in the treasury department very early in the New Deal.

Roosevelt then became charmed by the recovery theories of Professor Warren, James H. Rand and the monetary inflationists. By the end of 1933 Sprague had quit with a roar of protest. Ray Moley, Hugh Johnson and other New Dealers of that day scoffed at him.

The fruition of Sprague's prophecies of doom has been somewhat delayed. The breakdown of government credit and unrestrained inflation which he feared have not arrived. But Roosevelt, who was so strongly bent on raising prices three years ago, is now worried by fear that high prices may bring another crash.

He now has come to believe in maximum production at low prices. And it is interesting to recall some of the things which Sprague, who once taught economics to Roosevelt at Harvard, was saying and writing in December, 1933.

Might Cause Crash

Fallacious, insisted Sprague, was the view of "young liberals" in Washington, who believed recovery could come through quasi-monopolies and increasing prices. This view might cause the country to crash on the rocks of shrunken markets due to higher prices. Sprague favored low prices to stimulate markets, production and employment, urging business men to adopt this policy even though it meant sacrifices and temporary lack of profits.

Business, said Sprague, should "make a relative reduction in prices of those goods and services for which larger potential demand can be anticipated if relative prices are reduced."

And, in view of Roosevelt's promise to cut down government expenditures flowing into durable goods as a means of discouraging price inflation, it seems interesting to remember that Sprague said:

"If the primary direction of labor and capital is to be found in the production of durable goods, such as housing, then a government policy of public works that increases the cost of that sort of goods works against recovery. Recovery should be based on low production and transportation costs."

"The fundamental question that presents itself in examining trade recovery policies, whether they be those of business men or the government," Sprague wrote, "is this: Do they tend to open up and increase demand for those products for which, we may reasonably presume, a large potential demand exists that can be made actual by relatively lower prices—lower prices, I may add, made possible by improved methods and larger volume, and not by unreasonably low rates in wages."

Heads For Other Goal

Doubtless there will be those to say that Sprague was wrong then and that it was imperative to raise prices at once. But those were the days when Roosevelt was first comparing the New Deal to a football team trying out attacks. And perhaps there will be those to suggest that it's a very flexible game when the quarterback can suddenly turn his team around and start carrying the ball in the opposite direction.

It is pleasant to be able to report, however, that players on the local team come nearer unanimity in supporting the present Roosevelt trend of thought than they ever did before.

All through the NRA days business men were coming here to arrange price-fixing and price-raising agreements to the end that even the most inefficient producers might be allowed to profit while the most efficient cleaned up in a big way. Then there were economists under General Johnson who kept insisting the best road to recovery was in unrestricted production, free competition and low prices.

Roosevelt seems to be coming around to that viewpoint. At least, according to insiders, he is convinced that excessive profits mean concentration of wealth, drying up of markets and purchasing power and resultant depression.

The president, it is understood, has secretly ordered a survey of ways and means to encourage mass production at lower prices. This correlates with his study of methods by which prices can be kept from rising to a point of disastrous inflation.

DINNERS HELD IN BISHOPS' CRUSADE

The first church dinners in cooperation with the Bishops' Crusade of the Southern Methodist church held in the Monroe district were given on Friday night, April 16, at Claiborne Methodist church, in Ouachita parish, and at Union Methodist church, in Richland parish. Rev. H. W. Ledbetter is pastor of Claiborne church.

Scheduling their fellowship dinners one week prior to the regular date, because of circuit schedules, the two dinners held last Friday evening were reported to be highly successful.

W. B. Clarke, of Monroe, district lay leader, made the principal address at the Claiborne dinner. More than $20 was realized for the missionary fund there.

At Union church, practically every member of the church was present, and with a program led by Rev. D. W. Pool, pastor, contributons of $39 were received.

The Monroe district will cooperate 100 per cent in the Bishops' Crusade, and the coming week will see numerous dinners, barbecues, and get-together occasions throughout this section.

MAKE THEM ALL PAY

Senator Arthur Capper, of Kansas, deserves to be widely supported in his drive for constitutional amendment which would eliminate the income tax exemption now enjoyed by state and municipal employes.

"There is no reason," he says, "why government employes should be exempt from taxes that apply to the taxpayers who pay the salaries of those employes. It is rank injustice, and is felt to be an injustice by all classes of our citizens."

Public officials enjoy all the benefits and services rendered by government agencies. It is reasonable to assume, accordingly, that they should help pay the operating costs.

Tax exemption is essentially a vicious form of fiscal favoritism. In the case of the income tax, it should be abolished in its entirety by the present session of congress.

RHYME AND REASON

By ANNE CAMPBELL

THE HOPEFUL SPRING

Year after year the trees put out new leaves,
Conquering every spring the fear of death.
The winter wind that battered on the eaves
Is singing now with April's fragrant breath.

The gaunt arms that have twisted helplessly
All winter long are filled with garlands now.
The buds are dreaming on the apple tree,
And beauty's hand is on the cherry bough.

What heart can be discouraged in the spring—
The sweet renewal of the lagging year—
When God walks in the orchard whispering

By BRUCE CATTON

It is easy to think of more exciting things than a chemist making a speech on international trade. But when you stop to think how chemistry is remaking the world's future these days, and how the decline of international trade has us staggering around on the edge of the Dark Ages, you can see that such a talk might be worth listening to.

So it is worthwhile to have a look at remarks made recently by William J. Hale, research consultant of Washington, D. C., before a chemists' conference at Macon, Ga.

Chemistry, says Dr. Hale, is going to reduce world trade permanently, because it is teaching men how to substitute homemade commodities for the things they once had to buy abroad. When men start pulling nitrates out of the empty air, for instance, it is obvious that the old South American nitrate trade is never going to be the same again; and the atmospheric nitrogen fixation process is only a sample of the tricks of modern chemistry.

* * *

Do we, then, face a steady decline in world prosperity due to this decline in the interchange of goods? Not at all, says Dr. Hale; for chemistry has found so many ways to use the things which men produce out of the ground and the air and the water that the race will never be able to raise more things than industry is able to use.

For agriculture, as the chemist sees it, is not merely the process of raising foods for people to eat. It is becoming, or about to become, the production of raw materials for industry, as well. Industry's appetite, unlike that of a hungry man, is practically insatiable; in the end, it is limited only by the race's ability to use manufactured luxuries and necessities.

Now, what Dr. Hale is sketching out for us is nothing less than the picture of an era in which any kind of restriction on production will be looked upon as sheer insanity. Because mankind's wants are infinite, industry's markets are infinite also; and with such markets industry can never have an oversupply of raw materials.

You don't need to think very long to understand that a world organized on that basis would slough off most of the problems that are tormenting it today. Unemployment, poverty, want—they would simply disappear. Instead of dictatorships calling on their people to get along on less and less, we would have governments using every effort to increase production in every line.

* * *

It sounds like a fairy tale. But the point is that it is a fairy tale which is practically begging us to make it come true. The stage is all set. We are on thethreshold of this miraculous new age, and all we need to do is step into it.

How long will it be, do you suppose, before we get intelligent enough to take that step?

A BOOK REVIEW

DID FAMED MARSHAL NEY DIE IN U. S.?

One of those engaging historical mysteries like the fate of the lost dauphin of France is reviewed in "Marshal Ney: a Dual Life," by LeGette Blythe.

This book centers about one of Napoleon's greatest soldiers, the famous Marshal Ney who grew up in the armies of the revolution, fought valiantly for the emperor in a dozen campaigns, welcomed him on his return from Elba, and led the despairing, forlorn-hope charge of the Old Guard in the terrible closing minutes of Waterloo.

When Napoleon went to St. Helena and the Bourbons were restored in France, Ney was arrested as a traitor—for he had accepted the king's commission during Napoleon's first exile. He was tried, condemned, and—as far as the authorized histories know—was duly executed by a firing squad, in December of 1815.

It is at this point that Mr. Blythe goes to work. A tradition sprang up in Paris after the execution that Ney was not really shot; that the firing squad used blank cartridges, and that the supposedly dead marshal was smuggled away and given his liberty; that, in fact, he escaped to America and lived there for many years in peaceful obscurity.

There is, says Mr. Blythe, substantial evidence that this actually happened. In 1819 there appeared in Cheraw, S. C., one Peter Stuart Ney, claiming to be a refugee from France. He established himself in the Carolinas and became a schoolmaster. In the Carolinas he lived until 1846. He is buried in Rowan county, N. C.

This man, on his deathbed and before, claimed to be Marshal Ney. Mr. Blythe does not say that he has proved this to be true; he does say that the evidence makes it seem extremely likely, and he presents the evidence in this readable and immensely interesting book.

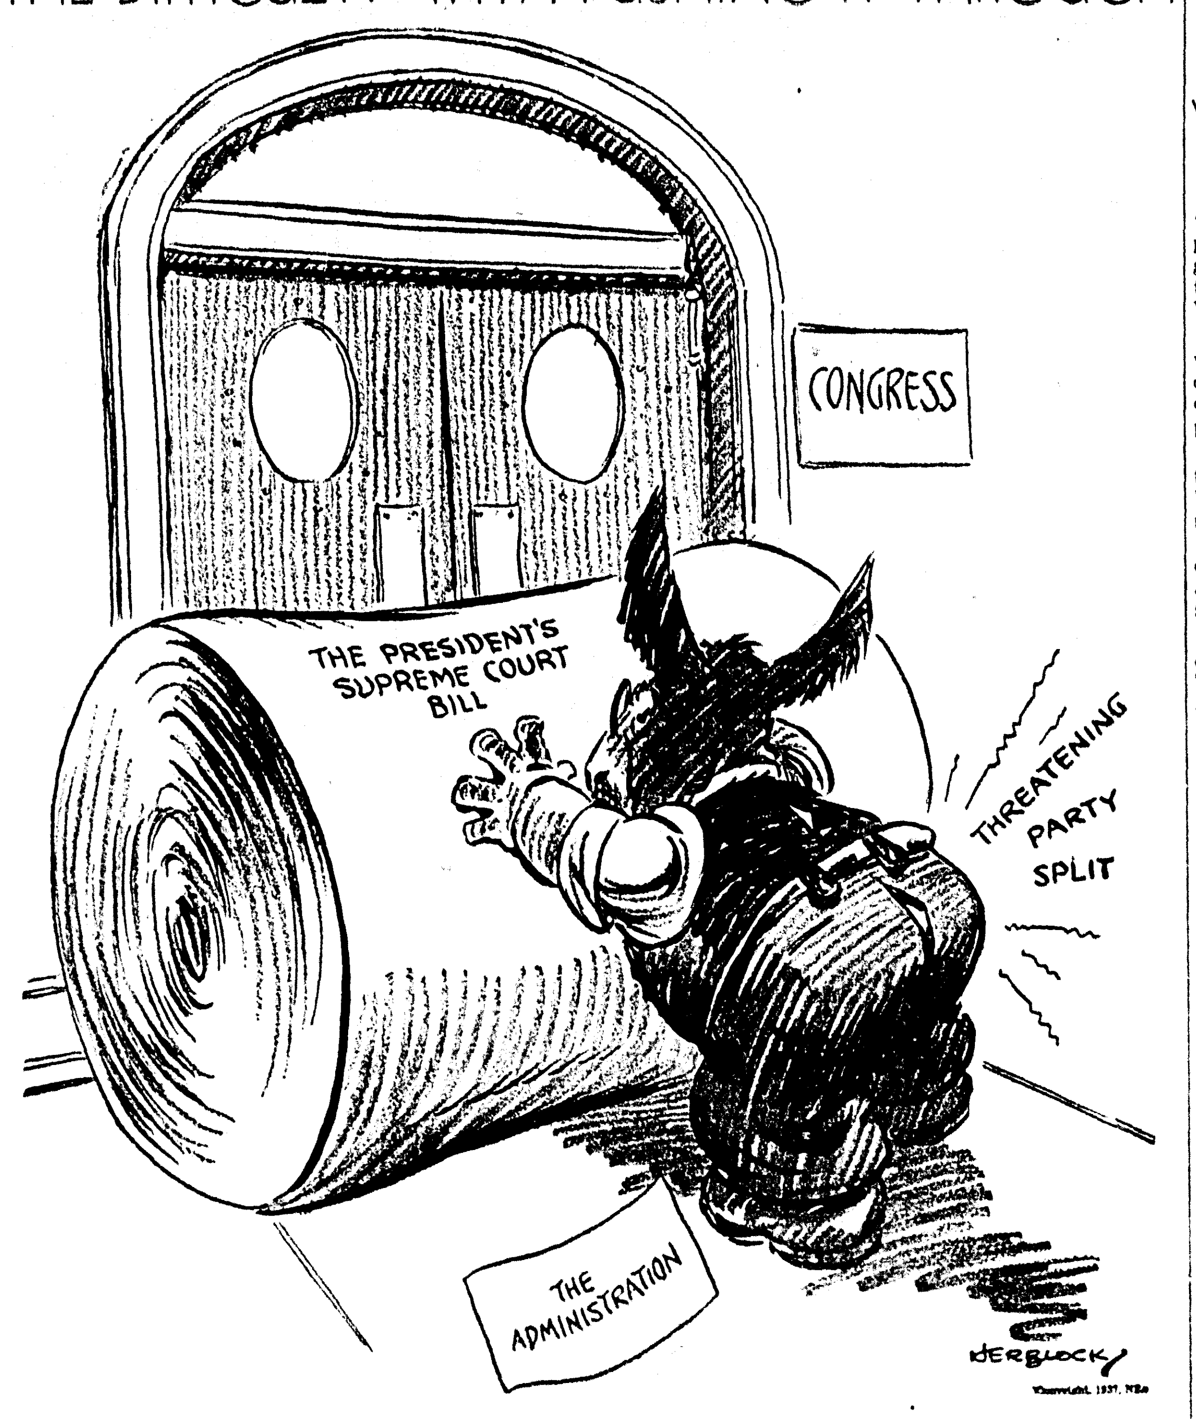
THE DIFFICULTY WITH PUSHING IT THROUGH



NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

Overwhelming disaster is invariably followed by doleful predictions. I recall when San Francisco was devastated how the boys around our Cincinnati copy desk declared the Golden Gate city was finished. No one believed it would ever be rebuilt.

Of course, it was rebuilt. And rising, as we so often editorialized, "Phoenix-like from its ashes" became bigger and better than ever and has continued its amazing progress and is an inspiration to the world. No one thinks of avoiding San Francisco for a visit or as a permanent residing place because of that calamity.

The same thing was true of Galveston in the tidal wave that almost washed it off the face of the earth and the flood that made the main streets of Dayton, O., raging torrents. So it is after the raging waters in the Ohio valley recently, there were the same old cries. The area was doomed.

There were many living there who said they would never face again such terror and destruction. Almost everybody as the waters receded wanted to chuck their homes on the market and get away from it all.

But that attitude is memory now. Homes-for-sale are not for sale. Enterprises that seemed doomed have caught their breath and are out front again fighting. They even smile at the notion that such a disaster will be repeated. After all, there was a lapse of 25 years between two record-breaking high water marks. And this time the nation has become flood conscious and likely to take protective measures.

Finally, the latest news from the stricken areas is that of unprecedented trade booms. Merchants have never known such a rush of business. A number of cities have already taken up the slack in their worrisome employment problems.

To be sure, these gains have been made at an awful sacrifice—but the whole thing proves again the ancient saw about the ill wind. Also it shows that most of our fears which seem so vivid today need only the healing touch of time—and that what seems so terrible may be after all a blessing. No philosophic bromide touches: "I've had a lot of trouble in my time, but most of it never happened."

Unjust accusations against people in the public eye usually have a favorable rebound. The screen romeo, Robert Taylor, might have been eclipsed by the widespread news he allowed an aged grandfather to become an object of charity. But there was a backwash of vigorous proof the old fellow was an eccentric who indulged a senile sense of spurious martyrdom. All his relatives, including his grandson Taylor, tried to aid him, but were spurned.

I have not yet read Wythe Williams' "Dusk of Empire," but one thing is certain, it has acquired more publicity than any other book, save "Gone With the Wind" and "Anthony Adverse" in the past few years. Williams was long a crack correspondent in Europe. Either he has a grand press agent or he has written a grand book.

Sweetness and light from Sir James Barrie: "Love, it is said, is blind; but love is not blind. it is an extra eye, which shows us what is most worthy of regard."

Somehow I got an impish chuckle out of an ad in many magazines sponsored by the Literary Guild of America. One of the pictures shows Napoleon with Madame de Pompadour. Unless my history is cockeyed—and there have been rumors—Pompadour was the sweetie of Louis Fifteenth and never met the Corsican. She was dust in a royal crypt when he came to power. The Literary Guild—of all people!

Doleful tales continue to trickle back from Paris of the droop to gaiety. Numberless sidewalk cafes on the grand boulevards are shuttered and going to ruin. Montmartre at night is like Sunday in a small town. Even the big and expensive restaurants consider a dozen customers a fairish evening. Parisians go home at six in the evening and stay there. Everybody seems to be sitting around waiting for something tremendous to happen. The old American bar crowd at the Ritz is now mostly South Americans.

The press agent of Plainview, Tex., sends a request for me to send a gavel for a young lady to kill rats at the forthcoming dairy show in his town. A catchy little event of the proceedings will be the selection of the world's champion woman rat killer. Young ladies will climb into an enclosure, armed with a gavel, and the ferocious rats will be turned loose. The ladies may slug, swing or pound—no kicking allowed—the life out of the rodents for a period of three minutes. The winner will naturally be proclaimed champion.

STAMP NEWS

By I. S. Klein

WHILE fighting proceeds, the opposing forces in Spain are issuing their own stamps. Following a long series of overprinted stamps, the nationalists have produced a set of pictorials under the name of "Espana," while the Madrid government has brought forth new stamps of "Republica Espana." The "Espana" stamps include pictures of "Le Cid," famous legendary hero of Spain, and noted Moorish scenes in that country. The republican stamps include portraits of Velasquez, famous painter; Queen Isabella, who backed Columbus; and Pablo Iglesias, noted labor leader.

Bills before Congress call for a special Puerto Rico stamp, another for Gen. Thaddeus Kosciusko on the 150th anniversary of his naturalization as an American citizen, and a third for Horace Mann, great American educator. Officials in New Jersey, also, are seeking a stamp commemorating the 150th anniversary of ratification of the Constitution by that state.

Italy is issuing another set of stamps on Ethiopia, this time providing a definite type for each of the five provinces.

YOUR HEALTH

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

(Editor Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine)

If we remember that the mucous membranes of the breathing tract are continuous, beginning with those of the nose and throat and running down into the lungs, we understand why it is possible for infections to begin in any part of this tract and then extend to other parts.

As has already been mentioned in the discussion of pneumonia, infections of these mucous membranes seem to damage them to such an extent that thereafter they appear to be more liable to additional infections.

Infections of the respiratory tract are especially common in countries in which there are rapid changes in temperature and humidity. For that reason those persons subject to repeated infections of this type should, if possible, live in regions where the climate is fairly stable.

* * *

There seems to be good evidence that the condition of these mucous membranes depends largely on the general hygiene of our bodies. If we cultivate a good hygienic condition, with sufficient rest and a good diet, we do much to strengthen the resistance of these membranes to infection.

Cold and chill, a lack of vitamins and minerals in the diet, overwork, and excess in the use of alcohol and tobacco all seem to weaken resistance of the mucous membranes in the throat and lungs.

Doctors usually classify bronchitis according to the parts of the lungs that are involved and to the nature of the infections. Acute bronchitis is fairly common in old people and in children, particularly in the latter in connection with specific infections such as measles, whooping cough, and scarlet fever.

Not infrequently, as has already been mentioned, a common cold that begins with a disturbance of the nose may extend to the throat and eventually to the lungs. In addition irritation of the mucous membranes of the bronchial tubes may be caused by inhaling irritant gases, such as ether and chlorine, and the gases or refrigerators, such as sulphur dioxide and ammonia.

The organism usually found in these mucous membranes is the pneumococcus which causes pneumonia, yet it is also possible for other germs, such as streptococci and those of influenza, to infect the membranes.

The bronchitis victim usually is slightly sick, somewhat hoarse, often short of breath, and subject to coughing spells. At first the cough is often hard, dry, and painful, but later it tends to loosen up, particularly if remedies are given that help increase the amount of secretion.

* * *

If a person with such a cough and inflammation of the bronchial tubes is immediately put to bed in a room that is well ventilated but not cold, he benefits promptly.

In his treatment the doctor prescribes sedative remedies that will help the patient rest at night, and also drugs that are valuable in the treatment of various kinds of coughs. Some of these remedies tend to loosen the cough. At the same time the action of the bowels is regulated.

Sometimes inhalations of steam, which serves to moisten the air, are prescribed. Occasionally this steam is medicated with soothing oils or with preparations such as benzoin. In general, doctors are inclined to the belief that it is primarily the steam, and secondarily the medication, that is important.

The patient should take plenty of hot liquids, such as tea and citrus fruit drinks. As he improves, his diet is supplemented with nourishing milk preparations.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

By Rodney Dutcher

WASHINGTON. — The administration's increasing concern over high prices and excessive profits must be giving a good deal of quiet satisfaction to Professor Oliver Mitchell Wentworth Sprague.

Sprague was the Harvard teacher who quit a job as adviser to the Bank of England and became financial and economic adviser in the treasury department very early in the New Deal.

Roosevelt then became charmed by the recovery theories of Professor Warren, James H. Rand and the monetary inflationists. By the end of 1933 Sprague had quit with a roar of protest. Ray Moley, Hugh Johnson and other New Dealers of that day scoffed at him.

The fruition of Sprague's prophecies of doom has been somewhat delayed. The breakdown of government credit and unrestrained inflation which he feared have not arrived. But Roosevelt, who was so strongly bent on raising prices three years ago, is now worried by fear that high prices may bring another crash.

He now has come to believe in maximum production at low prices. And it is interesting to recall some of the things which Sprague, who once taught economics to Roosevelt at Harvard, was saying and writing in December, 1933.

* * *

Might Cause Crash

Fallacious, insisted Sprague, was the view of "young liberals" in Washington, who believed recovery could come through quasi-monopolies and increasing prices. This view might cause the country to crash on the rocks of shrunken markets due to higher prices. Sprague favored low prices to stimulate markets, production and employment, urging business men to adopt this policy even though it meant sacrifices and temporary lack of profits.

Business, said Sprague, should "make a relative reduction in prices of those goods and services for which larger potential demand can be anticipated if relative prices are reduced."

And, in view of Roosevelt's promise to cut down government expenditures flowing into durable goods as a means of discouraging price inflation, it seems interesting to remember that Sprague said:

"If the primary direction of labor and capital is to be found in the production of durable goods, such as housing, then a government policy of public works that increases the cost of that sort of goods works against recovery. Recovery should be based on low production and transportation costs."

"The fundamental question that presents itself in examining trade recovery policies, whether they be those of business men or the government," Sprague wrote, "is this: Do they tend to open up and increase demand for those products for which, we may reasonably presume, a large potential demand exists that can be made actual by relatively lower prices—lower prices, I may add, made possible by improved methods and larger volume, and not by unreasonably low rates in wages."

Heads For Other Goal

Doubtless there will be those to say that Sprague was wrong then and that it was imperative to raise prices at once. But those were the days when Roosevelt was first comparing the New Deal to a football team trying out attacks. And perhaps there will be those to suggest that it's a very flexible game when the quarterback can suddenly turn his team around and start carrying the ball in the opposite direction.

It is pleasant to be able to report, however, that players on the local team come nearer unanimity in supporting the present Roosevelt trend of thought than they ever did before.

All through the NRA days business men were coming here to arrange price-fixing and price-raising agreements to the end that even the most inefficient producers might be allowed to profit while the most efficient cleaned up in a big way. Then there were economists under General Johnson who kept insisting the best road to recovery was in unrestricted production, free competition and low prices.

Roosevelt seems to be coming around to that viewpoint. At least, according to insiders, he is convinced that excessive profits mean concentration of wealth, drying up of markets and purchasing power and resultant depression.

The president, it is understood, has secretly ordered a survey of ways and means to encourage mass production at lower prices. This correlates with his study of methods by which prices can be kept from rising to a point of disastrous inflation.

DINNERS HELD IN BISHOPS' CRUSADE

The first church dinners in cooperation with the Bishops' Crusade of the Southern Methodist church held in the Monroe district were given on Friday night, April 16, at Claiborne Methodist church, in Ouachita parish, and at Union Methodist church, in Richland parish. Rev. H. W. Ledbetter is pastor of Claiborne church.

Scheduling their fellowship dinners one week prior to the regular date, because of circuit schedules, the two dinners held last Friday evening were reported to be highly successful.

W. B. Clarke, of Monroe, district lay leader, made the principal address at the Claiborne dinner. More than $20 was realized for the missionary fund there.

At Union church, practically every member of the church was present, and with a program led by Rev. D. W. Pool, pastor, contributons of $39 were received.

The Monroe district will cooperate 100 per cent in the Bishops' Crusade, and the coming week will see numerous dinners, barbecues, and get-together occasions throughout this section.

LIFE STORY OF GIPSIES GIVEN

Evangelist Tells Thrilling Tale Of Conversion And Life Of Noted Father

Gipsy Smith, Jr., famed evangelist, gave his most noted sermon, "From a Gipsy Tent to the Pulpit," before a huge audience at the First Baptist church, West Monroe, Friday night. He took for his theme that of the Prodical Son from the 15th chapter of St. Luke. The story he related was that of the life of his father, Gipsy Smith, Sr., who at 76 years of age is rounding out 60 years of evangelism.

Starting at 16 years of age, with inability to read and write, he acquired just four weeks schooling which is all he has ever had in his lifetime but thousands of people have been converted by his preaching and he has preached to vast audiences in many continents.

For his distinguished services in the World war trenches, he was offered knighthood by the king of England which he declined. He was, however, bestowed with the highest decoration that the king is able to accord. He participated in the coronation of King George V, and will participate in similar exercises next month when George VI is similarly crowned.

The speaker said in part: "I was speaking on this subject at one time and I asked children in the audience to tell what a Gipsy was. One designated him as a wild man; another as a wanderer; another as a fortune teller; another as a loafer and the last one, a man who 'swipes kids.'

"There are as near as we know, between three and four million Gipsies in the world today. In England there are betwene thirty and forty thousand. Think of a community with forty thousand people with no Bibles, no schools, no preachers, no teachers That was the condition of Gipsies in England up to a few years ago.

"Where do Gipsies come from? Nobody knows. Some seem to think they came originally from Egypt, or from India. But proof is lacking. We believe that the Gipsies are one of the lost tribes of Israel. One of the leading reasons for this belief is found in the fact that 85 per cent of names are those found in the Bible. Again, the Gipsies have no religion, yet they believe that back of the world is a first cause that controls the universe. A Gipsy will not take a horse to water on the Sabbath day for he would put in a supply the night before. He gathers firewood to last him over the Sabbath.

"If a Gipsy dies, all the bedding and clothing are put on a camp fire and burned.

"Up to 85 years ago, we knew in England no marriage. A boy and girl had to be 21 years of age when they could be given in marriage much as Isaac took Rebecca in marriage.

"And there are some fine points about Gipsy life. You never read of a Gipsy murder in Great Britain. I have never heard of a Gipsy suicide, a Gipsy bank-breaker; a Gipsy girl who peddled her virtue. Gipsy men respect womanhood. When you in America instil into your youth who attends high school to regard the girl who sits next to him as he would his own sister, then you will raise the moral standard of the country.

"One of the worst sins of Gipsies is profanity. But women swear today like the men so with all your breeding you are no better off than the Gipsies. Why do you get so excited when a remark is uttered that reflects on your mother, when you will stand and laugh when a profane remark is uttered against the man who created you, the Lord of all the earth?

Gipsy women earn much of their living telling fortunes. When they accept Christ they can't go on in this way telling lies. Gipsies peddle goods, make and sell clothes—pins and trade horses as well as tell fortunes. In March 1860, my father was born, wild as the birds and as sweet as the flowers. He has lived closer to Christ than anyone of whom I know.

"One bad habit is that of drinking; another that of pilfering. I have a better name for the last bad habit of the Gipsies,—I would call them "good finders." They never buy anything when they can find it, be it a garden full of vegetables or a rope with a mule on the end."

The speaker then told how his grandfather, with his wife and one child victims of smallpox, found that he had to be father and mother to the remaining large brood left in the Gipsy wagon which was their home. In groping around he became converted and at 17, without being able to read and write to any extent, and with but four weeks schooling, he set out with William Booth who later founded the Salvation Army, to do evangelistic work in and about London.

From this start, Gipsy Smith, Sr., has preached in the past 60 years on every English speaking continent in the world and has converted thousands of persons, and even despite the fact that he is advanced in age, he is showing no let-up of activities. As stated he will participate actively in the forthcoming coronation ceremonies in England.

Gipsy Smith, Jr., will close his series of services at the First Baptist church, West Monroe, today, preaching at 10:50 a.m. and at 7:30 p.m. Even larger audiences that have been present during the past two weeks are expected to attend today.

Mr. Sloan is worried because late Friday night, while leaving a saloon on Hall street, he discovered that he had either lost or been robbed of his wallet, which contained his social security card.

He reported the loss to the police Saturday morning and asked that every effort be made to recover his card so that he could qualify for his pension when he reaches the prescribed age limit.

Besides the social security card, Mr. Sloan reported that the wallet contained a 1937 fishing license and a receipt signed by Frank Tarver.

LIFE STORY OF GIPSIES GIVEN

Evangelist Tells Thrilling Tale Of Conversion And Life Of Noted Father

Gipsy Smith, Jr., famed evangelist, gave his most noted sermon, "From a Gipsy Tent to the Pulpit," before a huge audience at the First Baptist church, West Monroe, Friday night. He took for his theme that of the Prodical Son from the 15th chapter of St. Luke. The story he related was that of the life of his father, Gipsy Smith, Sr., who at 76 years of age is rounding out 60 years of evangelism.

Starting at 16 years of age, with inability to read and write, he acquired just four weeks schooling which is all he has ever had in his lifetime but thousands of people have been converted by his preaching and he has preached to vast audiences in many continents.

For his distinguished services in the World war trenches, he was offered knighthood by the king of England which he declined. He was, however, bestowed with the highest decoration that the king is able to accord. He participated in the coronation of King George V, and will participate in similar exercises next month when George VI is similarly crowned.

The speaker said in part: "I was speaking on this subject at one time and I asked children in the audience to tell what a Gipsy was. One designated him as a wild man; another as a wanderer; another as a fortune teller; another as a loafer and the last one, a man who 'swipes kids.'

"There are as near as we know, between three and four million Gipsies in the world today. In England there are betwene thirty and forty thousand. Think of a community with forty thousand people with no Bibles, no schools, no preachers, no teachers. That was the condition of Gipsies in England up to a few years ago.

"Where do Gipsies come from? Nobody knows. Some seem to think they came originally from Egypt, or from India. But proof is lacking. We believe that the Gipsies are one of the lost tribes of Israel. One of the leading reasons for this belief is found in the fact that 85 per cent of names are those found in the Bible. Again, the Gipsies have no religion, yet they believe that back of the world is a first cause that controls the universe. A Gipsy will not take a horse to water on the Sabbath day for he would put in a supply the night before. He gathers firewood to last him over the Sabbath.

"If a Gipsy dies, all the bedding and clothing are put on a camp fire and burned.

"Up to 85 years ago, we knew in England no marriage. A boy and girl had to be 21 years of age when they could be given in marriage much as Isaac took Rebecca in marriage.

"And there are some fine points about Gipsy life. You never read of a Gipsy murder in Great Britain. I have never heard of a Gipsy suicide, a Gipsy bank-breaker; a Gipsy girl who peddled her virtue. Gipsy men respect womanhood. When you in America instil into your youth who attends high school to regard the girl who sits next to him as he would his own sister, then you will raise the moral standard of the country.

"One of the worst sins of Gipsies is profanity. But women swear today like the men so with all your breeding you are no better off than the Gipsies. Why do you get so excited when a remark is uttered that reflects on your mother, when you will stand and laugh when a profane remark is uttered against the man who created you, the Lord of all the earth?

Gipsy women earn much of their living telling fortunes. When they accept Christ they can't go on in this way telling lies. Gipsies peddle goods, make and sell clothes-pins and trade horses as well as tell fortunes. In March 1860, my father was born, wild as the birds and as sweet as the flowers. He has lived closer to Christ than anyone of whom I know.

"One bad habit is that of drinking; another that of pilfering. I have a better name for the last bad habit of the Gipsies,—I would call them "good finders." They never buy anything when they can find it, be it a garden full of vegetables or a rope with a mule on the end."

The speaker then told how his grandfather, with his wife and one child victims of smallpox, found that he had to be father and mother to the remaining large brood left in the Gipsy wagon which was their home. In groping around he became converted and at 17, without being able to read and write to any extent, and with but four weeks schooling, he set out with William Booth who later founded the Salvation Army, to do evangelistic work in and about London.

From this start, Gipsy Smith, Sr. has preached in the past 60 years on every English speaking continent in the world and has converted thousands of persons, and even despite the fact that he is advanced in age, he is showing no let-up of activities. As stated he will participate actively in the forthcoming coronation ceremonies in England.

Gipsy Smith, Jr., will close his series of services at the First Baptist church, West Monroe, today, preaching at 10:50 a.m. and at 7:30 p.m. Even larger audiences that have been present during the past two weeks are expected to attend today.

SOCIAL SECURITY NUMBER MISSING

Edward Sloan of Swartz is wondering what will happen to him if, and when, he reaches the age of 65 years, at which time Uncle Sam will be ready to pay him a pension. Mr. Sloan is worried because late Friday night, while leaving a saloon on Hall street, he discovered that he had either lost or been robbed of his wallet, which contained his social security card.

He reported the loss to the police Saturday morning and asked that every effort be made to recover his card so that he could qualify for his pension when he reaches the prescribed age limit.

Besides the social security card, Mr. Sloan reported that the wallet contained a 1937 fishing license and a receipt signed by Frank Terver.

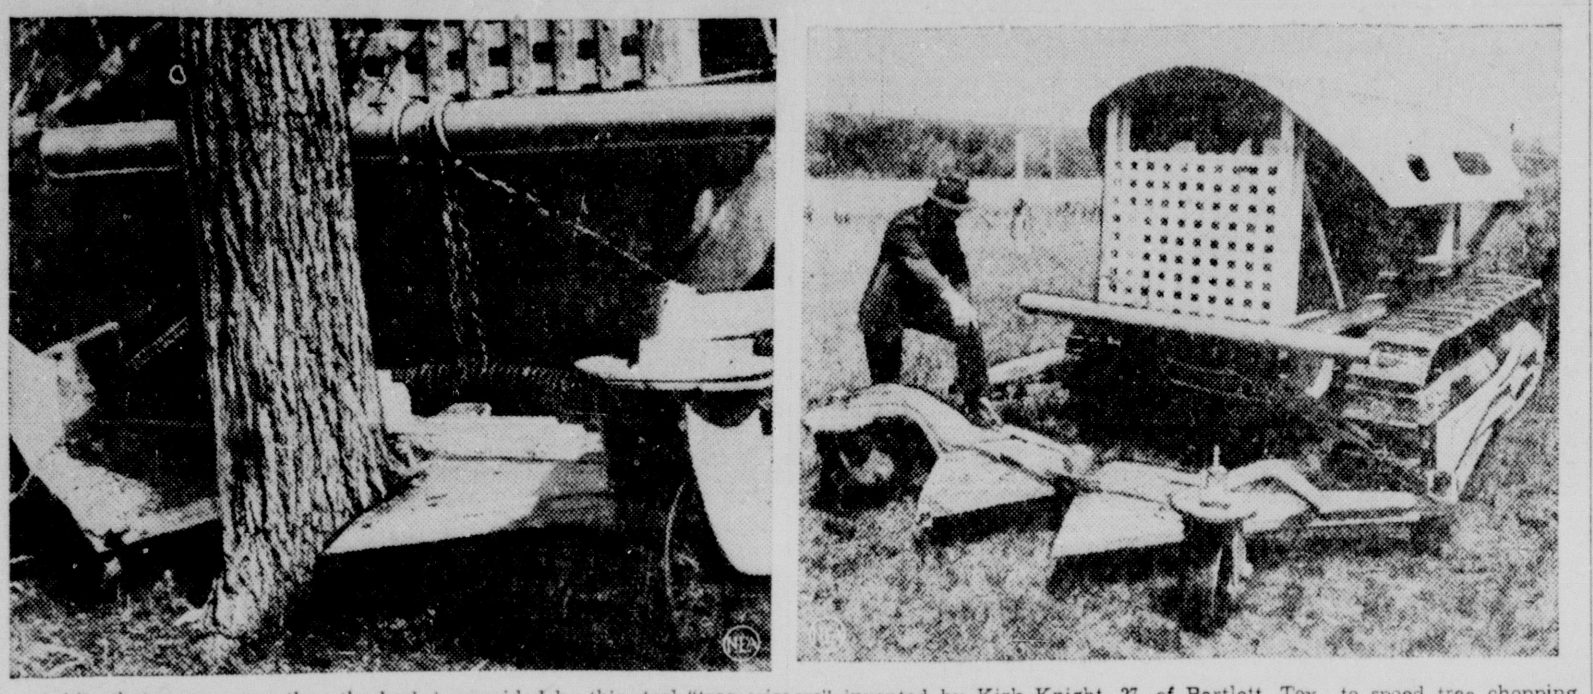
STEEL SCISSORS COMPETING WITH TREE CHOPPERS



A bite that means more than the bark is provided by this steel "tree-scissors" invented by Kirk Knight, 27, of Bartlett, Tex., to speed tree chopping. In photo at right, Knight points to the steel cutting jaws attached to the front of a shielded tractor. When the blades make contact with a tree, as at left, the scissors close and the bar across the front of the machine pushes the severed tree forward, leaving a short, smooth stump. Knight says the machine can average two trees a minute, doing the work of 200 woodchoppers. The largest tree it has cut, he says, was 22 inches across. He said he got the idea from cutting matches with ordinary scissors.

Services for the third Sunday after Easter are as follows: The Holy Eucharist will be celebrated at 7:30 a.m., and the church school will meet at 9:30 a.m. The 11 o'clock service will consist of shortened Matins, and the rector will give the second address in the series on the subject of "The Great Forty Days." Evensong will be said and sermon preached at Saint David's, Rayville, at 4:30 p.m. The sacrament of holy baptism will be administered at 4 p.m. Last Sunday we considered our Lord as our example and prayed for grace to follow His most holy life. Today we are reminded that we are called to be examples; the world should see in us something of the life of Christ—the same kind of life. St. Francis of Assisi, you remember, was possessed with the idea of becoming a mirror of Jesus Christ and that few have succeeded in doing this as well as he did was not due to any personal endowment or advantage, but solely to the fact that he was in dead earnest and was willing to pay the price. Right living comes from right thinking. If we call ourselves Christians and are not living in this way, we are in error—self deceived—and need the light of truth to bring us back to rightness. The church is opened daily from 7:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. Come in, rest, pray, give thanks, meditate.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

L. T. Hastings, Pastor
D. C. Black, Director of Education and Music

We are looking forward with great faith and hope to another great day in all departments Sunday. God is blessing us and onward we intend to go where He leads. Progress is being made in plans for renewal of building operations; also in taking the special offering for Louisiana college. The pastor will preach Sunday morning on "But Prayer," from Acts 12:5—"But prayer was made without ceasing of the church unto God." The church will be asked to spend Wednesday of next week in fasting and prayer for the building enterprise. "More things are wrought by prayer than this world dreams of." The evening service will be evangelistic. The B. T. U. and Brotherhood meet at 6:10 p.m. In the absence of Mr. Black, who is at Glenmora in a meeting, Mr. Dallas Goss will have charge of the morning music and Mr. Fletcher Nelson will conduct congregational singing at the evening service.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Grammont at Catalpa Street
Ernest Holloway, Minister

An urgent invitation is extended to attend the Sabbath school. The attendance is satisfactory, and yet with your presence the goal will be reached. Classes have been organized, led and taught by sincere folk, looking to your nurture and spiritual growth. Why not enroll in the class of your choice today? The women's classes meet in the church; the men's class in the Paramount theater. The hour is 9:45 a.m. "All that I am today I owe to my religious training as a boy. Of course much of this came from my parents, but a good deal of it came through the Sunday schools which I attended."—James Cash Penney, founder and chairman of the board of the J. C. Penney company. "Religion's Contribution to Mental Soundness" and "The Mastery of Fear," are the subjects to be considered this Lord's day. If you are unable to worship with us, you may hear the message and service by radio. Our worship programs are broadcast through the local radio station KMLB. It is our belief and contention the Apostle Paul's word is basic, indispensable and effective—"For God hath not given us the spirit of fear; but of power, and of love, and of a sound mind." Fear can be conquered, and man is nonplussed, impotent, possessed of an inferiority complex and unable to render a good account of himself until he has met and defeated fear. Will you worship with us that we may together seek the truth? The door of the Presbyterian congregation is open. A hearty welcome awaits you. Our purpose is to offer suggestions that will stimulate, strengthen, sustain and cheer. "Man does not live by bread alone." Will you worship with us this Sabbath day?

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST

Corner Auburn Ave and N. Second St.

Sunday services 11 a.m., Sunday school 9:30 a.m., Wednesday evening testimony meetings 8 o'clock. Reading room, 602 Ouachita National Bank building, open daily except Sunday and holidays, 11:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The public is welcome to all services and the use of the reading room. "Doctrine of Atonement" is the subject of the lesson sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, April 18, 1937. Among the citations which comprise the lesson sermon is the following from the Bible: "I came forth from the Father, and am come into the world; again, I leave the world, and go to the Father." (John 16). The lesson sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Atonement is the exemplification of man's unity with God, whereby man reflects divine truth, life and love. Jesus of Nazareth taught and demonstrated man's oneness with the Father, and for this we owe him endless homage." (p. 18).

CENTRAL BAPTIST CHURCH

3400 Lee Avenue
D. D. Cantrell, Pastor

The Sunday school opens promptly at 9:45 a.m., the B. T. U., 6:45 p.m. We are prepared now to receive larger groups in all departments, and invite all people of our district to be present on time. The morning services will be one of great interest and instruction to all who come. Dr. James Edward Brakefield, head of the Bible department of Louisiana college, will speak at this time. This great preacher and eminent teacher has a message that will warm the heart. We covet for you the privilege to hear him. April is the time appointed by the Louisiana Baptist convention for the campaign for funds to make "A Greater Louisiana Baptist College." Central Baptists are asked to make a special contribution representative of our love to Him who gave all for us, and of our appreciation of this, the only Baptist college of our great state to give out the truth and fundamental teaching of the Bible as Baptist in the field of Christian education. Mr. Dallas Goss is expected back with us again at the evening hour to have charge of our worship in gospel music. The pastor will bring the message in sermon. April is the month of refreshing showers. Let us make it refreshing showers of service to our Lord. We covet your cooperation and unity in this, the great work for God. Baptists and friends of Central church, we solicit your best interest and whole hearted support. It's your home, your family, your city, your church and your duty. "Come for all things are now ready."

THE CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

George H. Dierlamm, Minister

(From Luke 16:19-31) Remember that thou in thy lifetime receiveth thy good things, and likewise Lazarus evil things: but now he is comforted, and thou art tormented.

The rich man had noticed the sick beggar laid at his gate. He recognizes him too late, and even knows his name. Now that their positions are reversed he asks a favor of Lazarus, to whom he never showed kindness. Must we all, sooner or later, learn what it is to suffer? And what it is to need a friend? Somehow, somewhere the iniquities of life are to be righted. That does not mean that we should rest contented with present conditions in the assurance of future adjustment. It means rather a condemnation of present conditions. Those who selfishly enjoy their present plenty are making a terrible mistake. Now is the time to right these things, if the Kingdom of God is to come.

Services Sunday at Pleasant Hill at 10:00 a.m. At Linville at 7:00 p.m.

MRS. H. S. CHILTON WILL HEAD P.-T. A.

Elected President For Another Year At Central Grammar

Officers elected for the ensuing year by the P.-T. A. of Central Grammar school, at the regular meeting Wednesday were as follows: Mrs. H. S. Chilton, president, re-elected; Mrs. E. G. Courtney, vice-president; Mrs. Frank McCoy, treasurer; Mrs. W. R. Moseley, secretary.

Delegates to the state convention were named as follows: Mrs. E. G. Courtney, Mrs. H. S. Chilton and Mrs. H. S. Wilkie.

H. A. Dickard, local engineer, gave a talk on the matter of safeguarding the lives of pupils and teachers in public schools. He called attention to the catastrophe that occurred in New London, Tex., recently and said that proper checking and re-checking of heating appliances in schools would prevent the occurrence of such a tragedy as that in a neighboring state recently.

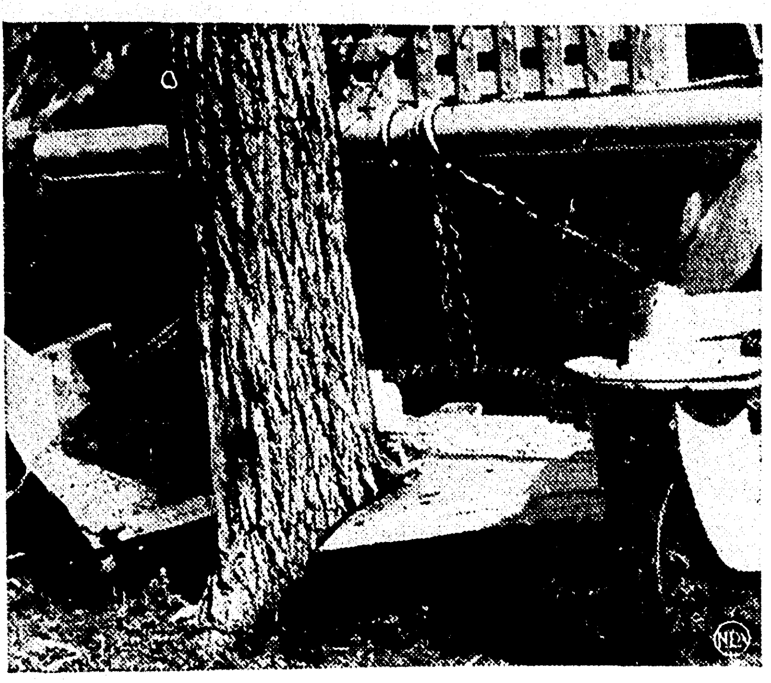
Puils of Miss Cliffie Olmstead in the first grade gave an excellent program of songs, while those in Mrs. Kate Henry's room demonstrated rhythm music successfully.

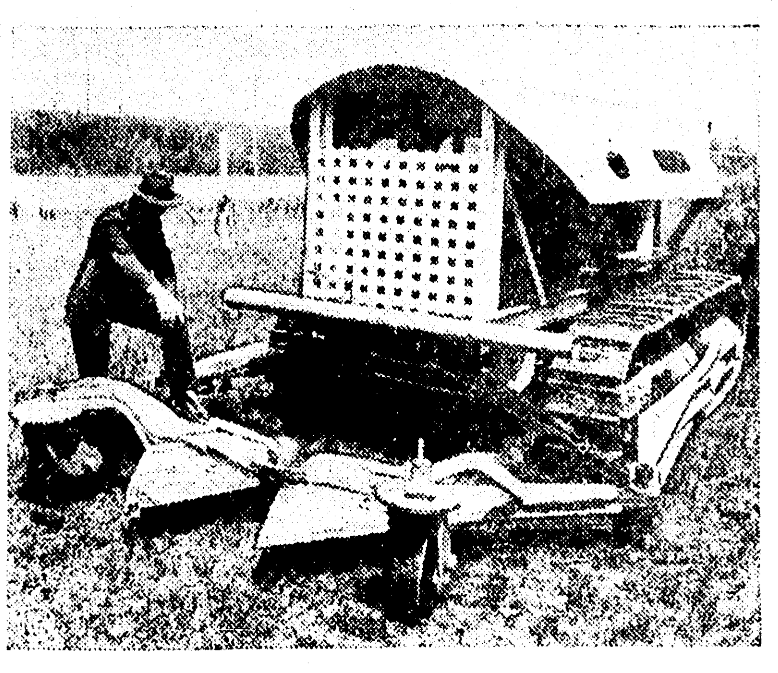
The attendance record of mothers was established by parents of Miss Eulalia McCoy's room in the second grade.

WILL ATTEND MEETING

The Red River Presbyterial will be held in Shreveport on April 22 and 23. The following Monroe residents will attend: Mrs. A. M. Wills, Mrs. R. H. Carpenter, Mrs. Sid Walker, Mrs. John T. Richardson and Mrs. R. M. Arseneau.

STEEL SCISSORS COMPETING WITH TREE CHOPPERS





A bite that means more than the bark is provided by this steel "tree-scissors" invented by Kirk Knight, 27, of Bartlett, Tex., to speed tree chopping. In photo at right, Knight points to the steel cutting jaws attached to the front of a shielded tractor. When the blades make contact with a tree, as at left, the scissors close and the bar across the front of the machine pushes the severed tree forward, leaving a short, smooth stump. Knight says the machine can average two trees a minute, doing the work of 200 woodchoppers. The largest tree it has cut, he says, was 22 inches across. He said he got the idea from cutting matches with ordinary scissors.

At present, we are treating the book of Genesis. The epistle lesson for this Sunday is found in I Peter 2:21-25. These verses tell us that Christ is not only a teacher, but is also the shepherd of the flock. Everyone is cordially invited to attend the Bible class, Sunday school and services.

GRACE CHURCH
Fourth and Glenmar Streets
Edward Farren Hayward, Rector

Services for the third Sunday after Easter are as follows: The Holy Eucharist will be celebrated at 7:30 a.m., and the church school will meet at 9:30 a.m. The 11 o'clock service will consist of shortened Matins, and the rector will give the second address in the series on the subject of "The Great Forty Days." Evensong will be said and sermon preached at Saint David's, Rayville, at 4:30 p.m. The sacrament of holy baptism will be administered at 4 p.m. Last Sunday we considered our Lord as our example and prayed for grace to follow His most holy life. Today we are reminded that we are called to be examples; the world should see in us something of the life of Christ—the same kind of life. St. Francis of Assisi, you remember, was possessed with the idea of becoming a mirror of Jesus Christ and that few have succeeded in doing this as well as he did was not due to any personal endowment or advantage, but solely to the fact that he was in dead earnest and was willing to pay the price. Right living comes from right thinking. If we call ourselves Christians and are not living in this way, we are in error—self deceived—and need the light of truth to bring us back to rightness. The church is opened daily from 7:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. Come in, rest, pray, give thanks, meditate.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH
L. T. Hastings, Pastor
D. C. Black, Director of Education and Music

We are looking forward with great faith and hope to another great day in all departments Sunday. God is blessing us and onward we intend to go where He leads. Progress is being made in plans for renewal of building operations; also in taking the special offering for Louisiana college. The pastor will preach Sunday morning on "But Prayer," from Acts 12:5—"But prayer was made without ceasing of the church unto God." The church will be asked to spend Wednesday of next week in fasting and prayer for the building enterprise. "More things are wrought by prayer than this world dreams of." The evening service will be evangelistic. The B. T. U. and Brotherhood meet at 6:10 p.m. In the absence of Mr. Black, who is at Glenmora in a meeting, Mr. Dallas Goss will have charge of the morning music and Mr. Fletcher Nelson will conduct congregational singing at the evening service.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Ernest Holloway, Minister

An urgent invitation is extended to attend the Sabbath school. The attendance is satisfactory, and yet with your presence the goal will be reached. Classes have been organized, led and taught by sincere folk, looking to your nurture and spiritual growth. Why not enroll in the class of your choice today? The women's classes meet in the church; the men's class in the Paramount theater. The hour is 9:45 a.m. "All that I am today I owe to my religious training as a boy. Of course much of this came from my parents, but a good deal of it came through the Sunday schools which I attended."—James Cash Penney, founder and chairman of the board of the J. C. Penney company. "Religion's Contribution to Mental Soundness" and "The Mastery of Fear," are the subjects to be considered this Lord's day. If you are unable to worship with us, you may hear the message and service by radio. Our worship programs are broadcast through the local radio station KMLB. It is our belief and contention the Apostle Paul's word is basic, indispensable and effective—"For God hath not given us the spirit of fear; but of power, and of love, and of a sound mind." Fear can be conquered, and man is nonplussed, impotent, possessed of an inferiority complex and unable to render a good account of himself until he has met and defeated fear. Will you worship with us that we may together seek the truth? The door of the Presbyterian congregation is open. A hearty welcome awaits you. Our purpose is to offer suggestions that will stimulate, strengthen, sustain and cheer. "Man does not live by bread alone." Will you worship with us this Sabbath day?

"Doctrine of Atonement" is the subject of the lesson sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, April 18, 1937. Among the citations which comprise the lesson sermon is the following from the Bible: "I came forth from the Father, and am come into the world; again, I leave the world, and go to the Father." (John 16). The lesson sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Atonement is the exemplification of man's unity with God, whereby man reflects divine truth, life and love. Jesus of Nazareth taught and demonstrated man's oneness with the Father, and for this we owe him endless homage." (p. 18).

CENTRAL BAPTIST CHURCH
3400 Lee Avenue
D. D. Cantrell, Pastor

The Sunday school opens promptly at 9:45 a.m., the B. T. U., 6:45 p.m. We are prepared now to receive larger groups in all departments, and invite all people of our district to be present on time. The morning services will be one of great interest and instruction to all who come. Dr. James Edward Brakefield, head of the Bible department of Louisiana college, will speak at this time. This great preacher and eminent teacher has a message that will warm the heart. We covet for you the privilege to hear him. April is the time appointed by the Louisiana Baptist convention for the campaign for funds to make "A Greater Louisiana Baptist College." Central Baptists are asked to make a special contribution representative of our love to Him who gave all for us, and of our appreciation of this, the only Baptist college of our great state to give out the truth and fundamental teaching of the Bible as Baptist in the field of Christian education. Mr. Dallas Goss is expected back with us again at the evening hour to have charge of our worship in gospel music. The pastor will bring the message in sermon. April is the month of refreshing showers. Let us make it refreshing showers of service to our Lord. We covet your cooperation and unity in this, the great work for God. Baptists and friends of Central church, we solicit your best interest and whole hearted support. It's your home, your family, your city, your church and your duty. "Come for all things are now ready."

THE CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH
George H. Dierlamm, Minister

(From Luke 16:19-31) Remember that thou in thy lifetime receiveth thy good things, and likewise Lazarus evil things: but now he is comforted, and thou art tormented.

The rich man had noticed the sick beggar laid at his gate. He recognizes him too late, and even knows his name. Now that their positions are reversed he asks a favor of Lazarus, to whom he never showed kindness. Must we all, sooner or later, learn what it is to suffer? And what it is to need a friend? Somehow, somewhere the iniquities of life are to be righted. That does not mean that we should rest contented with present conditions in the assurance of future adjustment. It means rather a condemnation of present conditions. Those who selfishly enjoy their present plenty are making a terrible mistake. Now is the time to right these things, if the Kingdom of God is to come.

PLOT DENIED BY FORMER PRINCE

Nicholas Repudiates Reported Efforts To Create Political Disturbance

BUCHAREST, April 18 (Sunday).—(AP)—Former Prince Nicholas early today repudiated efforts to create a political disturbance because of his ouster from the royal family.

The demoted prince, in a letter to Premier George Tararescu, said he was not associated with the militant Iron Guard, secret Rumanian Fascist society, and he expressed concern that reports he was cooperating with some opposition group might injure the state.

His statement, issued early today by the government press bureau, was expected by officials to take the fire out of the opposition movement which for several days has worried the cabinet.

The letter said:

"Reports have reached me that it is rumored throughout the country I am associated with a political movement which, were I indeed involved, might damage the state.

"I am not associated with any such movement and I protest against such reports. I beg of you, Mr. President, to take measures to stamp out such rumors."

Officials said an effort to give the impression Nicholas was associated with encouraging the revolutionary guard was started by a student organization.

Premier Tararescu's firm precautions against a possible Nazi coup already last night seemingly had cowed the Iron Guard.

The Iron Guardists, who have been banned as such, would like to have Rumania run by a dictatorship like Germany's. Their leader is General Zizi Cantacuzino, who, after the ban, formed a new party, which he says is legal, with himself as the president. It is called "All for the Fatherland."

This group, some thought, sought to take advantage—for its own purposes—of King Carol's order banishing his brother, Nicholas. Nicholas was banished because he would not give up his commoner wife. The guardists said their new party was not given a part in the crown council which decreed Nicholas' banishment, although Rumanian law provides all recognized parties shall have a voice in the council.

ROSE LONG LEADS OTHER CANDIDATES

BATON ROUGE, La., April 17.—(AP)—Rose Long, pretty young daughter of the late United States Senator Huey P. Long, today made an auspicious debut in politics.

She led two other candidates in a close race for president of the Women Students' association, Louisiana State university coed governmental body.

Voting was so close, however, that a run-off election will have to be held next week, when coeds will choose between Miss Long and Miss Ruth Dyer, Baton Rouge.

In initial voting, Miss Long received 303 votes, Miss Dyer 241, and Miss Catherine Cross, 168. All are presidents of campus sororities.

BILL'S PROGRESS

The result had been a situation in which the pro-administration forces, claiming enough votes to close the hearings, have said they hesitated to exercise the votes, lest charges of "gagging" the opposition should follow.

Thus, the forces favoring the bill have taken a policy, followed in today's meeting, of letting the opposition go ahead, and seeking to end the hearings by agreement.

At today's session, with nearly all of the committee's eighteen members present, each was asked to express his views on when the hearings should end. It became apparent the opposition wanted another week and this was agreed to, with the understanding that the presentation of opposition witnesses would end next Friday. Both sides may present written statements of ten individuals.

The office of Senator Burke, Democrat, Nebraska, an opponent of the bill, announced one witness would appear Monday, Alan Linburg, a New York attorney.

Another opponent, Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, protesting a proposed increase in the land bank interest rate, said it was not "necessary to pack the supreme court or to change the constitution in order to help the farmers of this country get out from under the load of debt they have been carrying."

From Catherine Curtis, chairman of the women's national committee for hands off the supreme court, came a protest that she had twice requested an opportunity to appear against the bill, and had had no reply. Ashurst made no comment.

RUNYON

What he does not learn there, and what the seekers for remedies for the prevention of crime do not sufficiently emphasize, is that crime is a bad business proposition. Probably the seekers themselves do not understand to what extent crime is a bad business proposition.

When they use that well worked truism, crime does not pay, they mean morally. They mean that it leads to a felon's cell, or a felon's grave. The fact that crime, especially among the young, is increasing in this country from year to year, gives rise to the thought that the youth of the land is not being impressed by moral preachment.

It may be that a few learned discourses on the economic aspects of the situation from learned savants in crime on the order of Professor "Phantom," would have more weight with the youth of the land. At least it could not have less.

YOUTH IS PRETTY much interested in business nowadays. A fellow like Professor "Phantom" could probably hold the attention of youth by explaining to his eager young hearers why crime is the poorest business in the world.

His own case would prove his point. He may have gathered in loot in his 1,000 robberies worth a great deal of money. But he had to take what he could get for it from the "fences," or receivers of stolen goods, and that was probably a very small part of the actual value.

The weakness of a criminal business like Professor "Phantom's" is that a man cannot pick and choose his market, or set his own prices. He is absolutely at the mercy of the buyers. Whatever time, or industry, or energy he puts into his business counts for nothing, though all that sort of thing in a legitimate pursuit has a definite value.

The bigger the haul in any criminal enterprise, the wider the "spread," or distribution, of the proceeds. Often a gob goes for the "fix," meaning for assistance, official or unofficial. It depends on the nature of the job. We regret to say we have heard it rumored that sometimes, in some cities, the cops join in the feast.

BUT IN THE END, the fellows who are likely to get the lion's chunk of the criminal's money are the latitats, or lawyers. A criminal sooner or later requires a lawyer. The lawyer invariably requires money.

So the upshot of it all is, the criminal winds up broke. He has nothing to show for his work. He is a social outcast. That is why crime, considered solely from an economic standpoint, and without reference to the moral aspects, is no good.

We note that the able and industrious Mr. J. Edgar Hoover, head of the government's criminal grabbers, is a great hand for going around delivering lectures on crime. We have read some of these lectures, and we find that Mr. Hoover, like the other students of crime, misses the economic phase entirely, especially as a crime deterrent to youth.

We do not know how Mr. Hoover draws on the public rostrum, but we guarantee he would pack the halls with youth if he would summon to his assistance some of the lads he has locked up in the various hoozgows of the land to tell the customers what a punk business crime is.

It might be a trifle inconvenient to carry around a speaker in Oregon boots, but we are inclined to think Professor Machine Gun Kelly would be quite a hit in the role of lecturer. Professor Kelly, who now resides on Alcatraz Island, once got hold of quite a bit of money in criminal pursuits. He is broke now, and is reported fully converted to the theory that honesty is the best policy, not on moral grounds, but as an economic proposition.

might cause an "incident" before the international patrol ships take their stations.

Independent British labor leaders disclosed they had an option on a food ship and were trying to finance a dash through the insurgent blockade before Tuesday, to relieve the besieged city's food crisis and to dispute the British government's assertions that Bilbao's harbor is dangerously mined.

The British government had refused to let its warships protect British freighters seeking to enter Bilbao.

SEVERAL ALLEGED MONKS ARRESTED

MADRID, April 17.—(AP)—Several men whom the Madrid defense junta asserted were monks financed by religious organizations in Italy were arrested here today and accused of taking part in an insurgent plot to turn the city over to General Francisco Franco.

Agents of the junta's public security section made two raids. They seized a reputed "fifth column" outpost within signal distance of the insurgent lines on the city's outskirts and uncovered what they called the largest spy ring found in the capital since the war started.

Shells fell all along the Gran Via as insurgent artillery pounded the center of Madrid in one of the most severe bombardments in months.

Explosives tore gaping new holes in buildings on the city's principal business streets. Semi-official sources placed total casualties at 18 killed and 60 wounded. One shell which fell on a queue of shoppers killed seven women.

After a noon lull Madrilenos, who have come almost to ignore the cannonadings, were caught in another burst of missiles and dodged from doorway to doorway to find safety.

On the siege front, however, there were no important changes. Government troops, communiques said, maintained their positions dominating the Manzanares river "corridor" between the main Franco forces in Casa de Campo park and 3,000 isolated insurgents in University City.

The insurgent garrison in the devastated model educational center, hemmed in for days by a siege-within-a-siege, were said to have exhausted their drinking water and to be holding their outpost with difficulty.

A number of alleged "monks in disguise" and about 12 women were reported taken among 55 persons arrested when police raided meeting places of the insurgent conspirators and seized plans for their intrigues.

The ring, police officials said, was organizing secret troops within the city to attack the defense barricades from the rear.

Copies of a manifesto signed by the "Madrid Junta of the Jons Fascio," which were seized, were to have been distributed if the insurgents entered the city, police declared. A quantity of bracelets inscribed with the Fascist emblem were confiscated.

A Mexican woman, whose name was given as Carmen Gabuccio Sanchez-Mamot, charged with being a go-between for the insurgents with sympathetic refugees in foreign embassies and legations, also was arrested. She was described as a well known figure in Madrid's literary and art circles.

Official reports said the government troops met fierce resistance as they strove to encircle Teruel, about 150 miles east of Madrid and some 75 miles northwest of Valencia. That is the most easterly point of the insurgent advance across Spain and constitutes a menace to government communications between Barcelona and Valencia.

The attack, then, was an attempt to prevent the insurgents from driving through to the Mediterranean shore, 60 miles from Teruel, cutting off the temporary Spanish capital of Valencia from Barcelona, seat of the autonomous Catalan administration which is loyal to the main government.

Government planes bombed and machine-gunned insurgent positions within Teruel and at towns nearby.

BOND DENIED TO LOUIS M'DOWELL

Three Others Accused In Slaying On Plantation Allowed Bail

SHREVEPORT, La., April 17.—(AP)—Louis McDowell, 47, Webster parish farmer who testified in a preliminary hearing in district court here that he fatally shot T. C. Davis, negro plantation worker, on April 9, was ordered held without bail today by Judge T. F. Bell.

Three others, jointly accused with the slaying of Davis, were allowed bonds of $2,000 each. They are Alton McDowell, nephew of Louis and Milton McDowell, both farmers, and Earl W. Campbell, night marshal at Doyline and a special Webster parish deputy sheriff.

In his decision, Judge Bell said, "I cannot see anything in this case but murder, but I am not a jury and am not able to say what a jury would do."

Referring to testimony that the men went to a negro house on the J. C. Powell plantation, near Blanchard, on the afternoon of the killing allegedly to effect a reconciliation between a negro man and wife, Judge Bell said:

"Just what was the extent of their purpose in going to that house I cannot say. I am sure they didn't go there just to persuade the negro woman to return to her husband. Maybe they intended to 'bluff' the woman, and evidence shows they might have attempted kidnaping."

The judge's decision came after Milton McDowell testified this afternoon.

He testified that Davis, the negro who was killed, grabbed Alton McDowell while the men were in the house of James Doston and shook the white man.

"Alton stumbled backward, then Louis McDowell fired a pistol," Milton McDowell said.

GOVERNOR LECHE MADE HONORARY MEMBER

NEW ORLEANS, April 17.—(AP)—Thirty-three airplanes were being warmed up at Shushan airport this morning to resume a four-day tour of Louisiana cities.

The squadron was scheduled to go from here to Covington and thence to Baton Rouge, where Governor Richard W. Leche was to be made an honorary member of the Louisiana department of the American Aeronautic association, which is sponsoring the tour.

After a visit to Alexandria, the planes will stay overnight at Monroe and then return to Shreveport, where the flight was begun Thursday.

Ninety civilian fliers, mostly from Louisiana, Texas and Arkansas, and including six women, are in the party. Several famous names are among them.

Glen (Flash) Jones of Lafayette, is in charge of the tour. He is flying with H. S. Jones, Reg Robbins and Earl B. Matthews, all of Fort Worth, Tex. Robbins and H. S. Jones made two attempts in 1931 to make a non-stop flight from the United States to Japan, and two years earlier Robbins broke an endurance flying record.

Sixteen-year-old Miss Larnie Bowman, who has been soloing since she was 12, is piloting a plane with her parents, Les Bowman, Dallas distributor, and Mrs. Bowman, in another. Also on the tour is Mrs. Blanche Noyes, co-winner of the Bendix trophy race from New York to Los Angeles in 1936 which set a new flight record.

Friday the squadron left Lafayette and visited Avery Island, Patterson and Houma before coming here. At Patterson they paid a tribute to the late James R. (Jimmy) Wedell, famous racing pilot, and his associate, the late Harry P. Williams.

Purpose of the tour is to stimulate interest in flying.

TVA FIGHT GOES TO NEW ORLEANS

Alabama Power Company Attorneys Appeal To Federal Circuit Court

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 17.—(AP)—The fight of the Alabama Power company against the "yardstick" power program of the Tennessee valley authority moved today to the federal circuit court at New Orleans.

Attorneys for the utility filed an appeal from the decision of Federal District Judge David J. Davis enjoining the company from participation in the suit of 19 utilities contesting TVA's constitutionality.

Judge Davis, on petition of TVA, held the issues in the pending case of the Tennessee Electric Power Co., et al vs. TVA, were decided in the Ashwander decision of the United States supreme court. The high tribunal upheld TVA on the issues in the Ashwander case.

The Alabama Power company, as intervenor, was one of 19 utilities engaged in the Tennessee Electric Power company suit. Its counsel contended only Muscle Shoals power was dealt with in the Ashwander case.

The Tennessee case was argued yesterday before the circuit court of appeals at Covington, Ky., where it was taken on appeal by the TVA after Federal District Judge John Gore enjoined the authority's power expansion program.

Newton D. Baker, wartime secretary of war, challenged constitutionality of the amended TVA act in arguing the case at Covington. He charged "TVA is spreading propaganda all through the Tennessee valley of its intention to destroy private utilities and take them over."

Sheriff Sylvester said today he couldn't understand "why they didn't shoot it out with us."

The sheriff said he stood about 15 feet from the gangsters' car when he finally decided the time was ripe for him and his brother, Cass, to make the arrests.

Sylvester said he cautioned his brother not to get too close to the gangsters' car while they were trailing it at a distance of eight miles into town.

He said the New York men knew they were being trailed during the last six miles of the chase, and that, he added, is all the more reason he can't understand why they didn't fight it out when they finally found they had lost their way.

ALLEGED CONTACT MAN ORDERED HELD

NEW YORK, April 17.—(AP)—An operator of a Brooklyn motorcycle shop, accused by federal agents of being the contact man in the recent Katonah, N. Y., bank robbery, was ordered held for the grand jury today.

The prisoner, Joseph Heckl, 28, was arrested last night by department of justice agents on a charge of conspiracy to violate the federal bank robber statute. Rhea Whitley, New York head of the criminal investigation bureau, described him as a cousin of Robert Suhay, one of the two suspects seized at Plattsmouth, Neb. Heckl waived examination today and was ordered held in $5,000 bail.

Whitely said the Brooklyn suspect admitted he had bought an automobile last February for Suhay and Alfred Power, the second man arrested in the west, and had obtained license plates for the car, using the name of Thomas Malley, an alias of Power's.

PLOT DENIED BY FORMER PRINCE

Nicholas Repudiates Reported Efforts To Create Political Disturbance

BUCHAREST, April 18 (Sunday).—(AP)—Former Prince Nicholas early today repudiated efforts to create a political disturbance because of his ouster from the royal family.

The demoted prince, in a letter to Premier George Tararescu, said he was not associated with the militant Iron Guard, secret Rumanian Fascist society, and he expressed concern that reports he was cooperating with some opposition group might injure the state.

His statement, issued early today by the government press bureau, was expected by officials to take the fire out of the opposition movement which for several days has worried the cabinet.

The letter said:

"Reports have reached me that it is rumored throughout the country I am associated with a political movement which, were I indeed involved, might damage the state.

"I am not associated with any such movement and I protest against such reports. I beg of you, Mr. President, to take measures to stamp out such rumors."

Officials said an effort to give the impression Nicholas was associated with encouraging the revolutionary guard was started by a student organization.

Premier Tararescu's firm precautions against a possible Nazi coup already last night seemingly had cowed the Iron Guard.

The Iron Guardists, who have been banned as such, would like to have Rumania run by a dictatorship like Germany's. Their leader is General Zizi Cantacuzino, who, after the ban, formed a new party, which he says is legal, with himself as the president. It is called "All for the Fatherland."

This group, some thought, sought to take advantage—for its own purposes—of King Carol's order banishing his brother, Nicholas. Nicholas was banished because he would not give up his commoner wife. The guardists said their new party was not given a part in the crown council which decreed Nicholas' banishment, although Rumanian law provides all recognized parties shall have a voice in the council.

ROSE LONG LEADS OTHER CANDIDATES

BATON ROUGE, La., April 17.—(AP)—Rose Long, pretty young daughter of the late United States Senator Huey P. Long, today made an auspicious debut in politics.

She led two other candidates in a close race for president of the Women Students' association, Louisiana State university coed governmental body.

Voting was so close, however, that a run-off election will have to be held next week, when coeds will choose between Miss Long and Miss Ruth Dyer, Baton Rouge.

In initial voting, Miss Long received 303 votes, Miss Dyer 241, and Miss Catherine Cross, 168. All are presidents of campus sororities.

The result had been a situation in which the pro-administration forces, claiming enough votes to close the hearings, have said they hesitated to exercise the votes, lest charges of "gagging" the opposition should follow.

Thus, the forces favoring the bill have taken a policy, followed in today's meeting, of letting the opposition go ahead, and seeking to end the hearings by agreement.

At today's session, with nearly all of the committee's eighteen members present, each was asked to express his views on when the hearings should end. It became apparent the opposition wanted another week and this was agreed to, with the understanding that the presentation of opposition witnesses would end next Friday. Both sides may present written statements of ten individuals.

The office of Senator Burke, Democrat, Nebraska, an opponent of the bill, announced one witness would appear Monday, Alan Linburg, a New York attorney.

Another opponent, Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, protesting a proposed increase in the land bank interest rate, said it was not "necessary to pack the supreme court or to change the constitution in order to help the farmers of this country get out from under the load of debt they have been carrying."

From Catherine Curtis, chairman of the women's national committee for hands off the supreme court, came a protest that she had twice requested an opportunity to appear against the bill, and had had no reply. Ashurst made no comment.

What he does not learn there, and what the seekers for remedies for the prevention of crime do not sufficiently emphasize, is that crime is a bad business proposition. Probably the seekers themselves do not understand to what extent crime is a bad business proposition.

When they use that well worked truism, crime does not pay, they mean morally. They mean that it leads to a felon's cell, or a felon's grave. The fact that crime, especially among the young, is increasing in this country from year to year, gives rise to the thought that the youth of the land is not being impressed by moral preachment.

It may be that a few learned discourses on the economic aspects of the situation from learned savants in crime on the order of Professor "Phantom," would have more weight with the youth of the land. At least it could not have less.

YOUTH IS PRETTY much interested in business nowadays. A fellow like Professor "Phantom" could probably hold the attention of youth by explaining to his eager young hearers why crime is the poorest business in the world.

His own case would prove his point. He may have gathered in loot in his 1,000 robberies worth a great deal of money. But he had to take what he could get for it from the "fences," or receivers of stolen goods, and that was probably a very small part of the actual value.

The weakness of a criminal business like Professor "Phantom's" is that a man cannot pick and choose his market, or set his own prices. He is absolutely at the mercy of the buyers. Whatever time, or industry, or energy he puts into his business counts for nothing, though all that sort of thing in a legitimate pursuit has a definite value.

The bigger the haul in any criminal enterprise, the wider the "spread," or distribution, of the proceeds. Often a gob goes for the "fix," meaning for assistance, official or unofficial. It depends on the nature of the job. We regret to say we have heard it rumored that sometimes, in some cities, the cops join in the feast.

BUT IN THE END, the fellows who are likely to get the lion's chunk of the criminal's money are the latitats, or lawyers. A criminal sooner or later requires a lawyer. The lawyer invariably requires money.

So the upshot of it all is, the criminal winds up broke. He has nothing to show for his work. He is a social outcast. That is why crime, considered solely from an economic standpoint, and without reference to the moral aspects, is no good.

We note that the able and industrious Mr. J. Edgar Hoover, head of the government's criminal grabbers, is a great hand for going around delivering lectures on crime. We have read some of these lectures, and we find that Mr. Hoover, like the other students of crime, misses the economic phase entirely, especially as a crime deterrent to youth.

We do not know how Mr. Hoover draws on the public rostrum, but we guarantee he would pack the halls with youth if he would summon to his assistance some of the lads he has locked up in the various hoozgows of the land to tell the customers what a punk business crime is.

It might be a trifle inconvenient to carry around a speaker in Oregon boots, but we are inclined to think Professor Machine Gun Kelly would be quite a hit in the role of lecturer. Professor Kelly, who now resides on Alcatraz Island, once got hold of quite a bit of money in criminal pursuits. He is broke now, and is reported fully converted to the theory that honesty is the best policy, not on moral grounds, but as an economic proposition.

The sheriff said he stood about 15 feet from the gangsters' car when he finally decided the time was ripe for him and his brother, Cass, to make the arrests.

Sylvester said he cautioned his brother not to get too close to the gangsters' car while they were trailing it at a distance of eight miles into town.

He said the New York men knew they were being trailed during the last six miles of the chase, and that, he added, is all the more reason he can't understand why they didn't fight it out when they finally found they had lost their way.

ALLEGED CONTACT MAN ORDERED HELD

NEW YORK, April 17.—(AP)—An operator of a Brooklyn motorcycle shop, accused by federal agents of being the contact man in the recent Katonah, N. Y., bank robbery, was ordered held for the grand jury today.

The prisoner, Joseph Heckl, 28, was arrested last night by department of justice agents on a charge of conspiracy to violate the federal bank robber statute. Rhea Whitley, New York head of the criminal investigation bureau, described him as a cousin of Robert Suhay, one of the two suspects seized at Plattsmouth, Neb. Heckl waived examination today and was ordered held in $5,000 bail.

Whitely said the Brooklyn suspect admitted he had bought an automobile last February for Suhay and Alfred Power, the second man arrested in the west, and had obtained license plates for the car, using the name of Thomas Malley, an alias of Power's.

COLUMBIA CLUB GIVEN CHARTER

High Kiwanis Officials Participate In Notable Gathering Friday

COLUMBIA, April 17.—(Special)—Elaborate ceremonies, conducted by high Kiwanis officials and attended by 150 Kiwanians and Kiwanettes representing eight clubs of north Louisiana, marked the presentation of its charter to the Columbia Kiwanis club at the Caldwell parish high school Friday night.

The Columbia club which was organized two months ago, is one of 30 Kiwanis groups in the Louisiana-Mississippi district and is one of three instituted in Louisiana since the beginning of the year.

District Governor Harry O. Hoffman of Jackson, Miss., officiated at the formal charter presentation. The new club, he said, had become a member of a family of Kiwanians represented by more than 1,900 clubs in the United States and Canada with a membership of approximately 100,000. The total membership in the Louisiana-Mississippi district had increased from slightly more than 1,000 at the beginning of the year to 1,156.

The Columbia club is sponsored by the Rayville club, 20 members of which were present at Friday night's ceremonies. Immediate Past Lieutenant-Governor W. D. Cotton, of the Rayville club, made the principal address of the occasion, outlining the principles and objectives of the Kiwanis organization, which is devoted to helpful service in the various communities served by Kiwanis groups.

Russell Cummings, president of the Columbia club, in receiving the charter, told of the club's inception and reviewed some of the activities of the organization since its beginning. The club has accepted sponsorship in cooperation with the Methodist church of a boy scout troop and has raised a fund to send a scout to the national jamboree in Washington in June. Recently the membership sponsored a successful track meet and has begun plans for dental and eptical clinics on behalf of underprivileged children. It has aided in establishing a garbage collection service in Columbia, the first of its kind in the community, and is preparing to help in the plans for construction of a protecting levee on the banks of the Ouachita river.

Telegrams of congratulation to the new club were read from International President A. Copeland Callen, Urbana, Ill., International Secretary Fred C. W. Parker, Chicago; W. A. Killam, Chicago, assistant international secretary; Faber A. Bollinger, Atlanta, international trustee.

Mayor J. H. McQuerry of Columbia, extended an official welcome on behalf of the community and predicted a period of noteworthy public service for the new organization.

"Birthday gifts" to the new club were a feature of the program. M. (Fesser) Hull, president of the Rayville club, presented a gong and gavel to be used in the club sessions. Fred Williamson, former lieutenant-governor of north Louisiana division, presented on behalf of the Monroe and West Monroe clubs, the official United States and Canadian flags which signify the international aspect of Kiwanis activities.

The program included vocal duets by Miss Virginia Cooksey and J. D. Caldwell. Club singing was led by Hugh W. Bankston.

Charter members of the Columbia club are: George L. Shipp, Russell Cummings, Guy M. Alford, Louie A. West, Hugh W. Bankston, Wayne Blanks, Dr. Tom Burk, Dr. E. L. Carroll, Archie Coates, George Erskine, Frank Gartman, Ed L. Saucier, Ellis Herring, C. O. Hopkins, S. G. Jarrell, Hans W. Kern, W. H. Mecom, Monor Riser, M. Lee Mecom, Cam C. Minard, Virgil Morris, Vinson Mouser, Lacy C. Nunn, Boatner Jarrell, Bowen Reitzell, George E. Rogers, Alden A. Webb, H. Ted Woods. New members include J. E. McClanahan, Robert Lee, C. C. Sheppard, H. O. Cooksey.

The charter meeting was attended by delegations from Monroe, West Monroe, Rayville, Bastrop, Shreveport, Alexandria, and Ruston clubs. William K. Hinds, Shreveport, lieutenant-governor of the north Louisiana division, presided at the gathering.

GROUP OF TEXANS VIEWS DRILLING

Five Members Of Game And Fish Subcommittee Come To Louisiana

NEW ORLEANS, April 17.—(AP)—Five members of the game and fish subcommittee of the Texas house of representatives, studying methods of drilling wells in coastal areas without polluting the water, were favorably impressed with Louisiana drillings they saw today.

The legislators visited Texas company wells at Lake Barre and Caillow island, near Houma, La. Considerable opposition has arisen to the drilling of wells in Texas waters on the contention that escaping oil would cause loss to fishermen, harm beaches and hamper navigation.

The bill before the Texas legislature proposes that concrete wells be built around all oil wells drilled in tidal waters. A less costly method of piping and storage tanks is used in Louisiana.

The legislators are Raglin Jones, Waco; Howard Hartzog, Port Lavaca; J. H. Shell, Gregory; Conde Hoskins, Gonzalez, and Fres Felty, San Antonio. They arrived in Houma this morning from Houston, Tex., made their inspection trip and then motored to New Orleans. They left tonight to return to Texas.

Consensus among the visitors was that oil wells could be drilled in Texas waters with little danger of pollution, even without the pollution-prevention wells called for in the bill, which has been referred to them.

Following the group's inspection at Lake Barre and Caillou island, Jones, nominal author of the bill under consideration, said that he was "agreeably surprised at the little amount of pollution of water, even though no such concrete wells as proposed in the Texas bill are used." He added that he believed if Texas oil companies used the same precautionary methods of pollution prevention that are used in Louisiana, "everything will be all right."

Texans who oppose the "well" bill argue that it would make drilling so costly as to render it unprofitable.

Real Estate Transfers

The following real estate transactions were recorded in the clerk's office Saturday:

Lloyd W. Surghnor sold to M. S. Blankenship, the west half of southeast quarter of northwest quarter, section 5-17-3 east, reserving half the minerals, for $225.

Margueritte Welch Butler sold to Edd Peoples, lot 14 of square five of Miller's second addition to Monroe, for $150.

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Feazell of West Monroe announce the birth of a daughter, Ruby Ann, who arrived at their home on Sunday, April 4.

FHA IS PERMANENT

The national housing act does not expire next April or next July as some seem to think. The act is permanent legislation, and the federal housing administration is a permanent governmental agency. The modernization credit plan expired April 1, 1937. Treasury guarantees of housing administration insurance fund debentures continues until July, 1939, but insurance of home mortgages continues with a fund that now totals $15,000,000. This fund is increasing at the rate of $500,000 each month.

AS FLYNN GAVE HIS COURT VIEWS

The proposed supreme court reorganization is dangerous, economist and writer John T. Flynn told the senate judiciary committee as the above picture was made. Flynn argued that to attain a present objective, however laudable, a long chance is being taken that in future the same course may lead to concentration of power along the lines of the European "totalitarian state." NRA-type laws, made possible by changing the personnel of the court, have this "totalitarian" tendency, Flynn suggested.

PUBLISHERS BEGIN ARRIVING FOR MEET

More than 600 reservations already have been made for the annual luncheon of the Associated Press. The luncheon speaker will be Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper.

The remainder of the day will be devoted to business sessions. NEW ORLEANS, April 17.—(AP)—Five members of the game and fish subcommittee of the Texas house of representatives, studying methods of drilling wells in coastal areas without polluting the water, were favorably impressed with Louisiana drillings they saw today.

The legislators visited Texas company wells at Lake Barre and Caillow island, near Houma, La. Considerable opposition has arisen to the drilling of wells in Texas waters on the contention that escaping oil would cause loss to fishermen, harm beaches and hamper navigation.

The bill before the Texas legislature proposes that concrete wells be built around all oil wells drilled in tidal waters. A less costly method of piping and storage tanks is used in Louisiana.

The legislators are Raglin Jones, Waco; Howard Hartzog, Port Lavaca; J. H. Shell, Gregory; Conde Hoskins, Gonzalez, and Fres Felty, San Antonio. They arrived in Houma this morning from Houston, Tex., made their inspection trip and then motored to New Orleans. They left tonight to return to Texas.

Consensus among the visitors was that oil wells could be drilled in Texas waters with little danger of pollution, even without the pollution-prevention wells called for in the bill, which has been referred to them.

Following the group's inspection at Lake Barre and Caillou island, Jones, nominal author of the bill under consideration, said that he was "agreeably surprised at the little amount of pollution of water, even though no such concrete wells as proposed in the Texas bill are used." He added that he believed if Texas oil companies used the same precautionary methods of pollution prevention that are used in Louisiana, "everything will be all right."

Texans who oppose the "well" bill argue that it would make drilling so costly as to render it unprofitable.

Real Estate Transfers

FHA IS PERMANENT

The national housing act does not expire next April or next July as some seem to think. The act is permanent legislation, and the federal housing administration is a permanent governmental agency. The modernization credit plan expired April 1, 1937. Treasury guarantees of housing administration insurance fund debentures continues until July, 1939, but insurance of home mortgages continues with a fund that now totals $15,000,000. This fund is increasing at the rate of $500,000 each month.

AS FLYNN GAVE HIS COURT VIEWS

The proposed supreme court reorganization is dangerous, economist and writer John T. Flynn told the senate judiciary committee as the above picture was made. Flynn argued that to attain a present objective, however laudable, a long chance is being taken that in future the same course may lead to concentration of power along the lines of the European "totalitarian state." NRA-type laws, made possible by changing the personnel of the court, have this "totalitarian" tendency, Flynn suggested.

STEEL HARD FOR RUSSIA TO FIND

Some Manufacturers Too Busy Filling Domestic Orders

MOSCOW, April 17.—(AP)—Soviet Russia's purchases of materials for warships ran into difficulties today because, she learned, some steel manufacturers are too busy filling domestic orders to bother with foreign ones.

Nikolai Bogomoloff, Soviet trade delegate to Great Britain, returned to Moscow with the news that British firms are "swamped," handling huge orders for that nation's rearmament program.

United States circles here heard that Amtorg, Russian trading corporation, was unable to renew a steel order with one company in the United States because of heavy domestic demands. The company was said to have offered a premium to be released from delivering a previous order.

The Soviet commissariat of defense declined to comment on a state department announcement in Washington that two American firms had asked permission to fill Russian orders for battleship materials.

The talk here is that Russia wants to build new warships because of the rapid development of her merchant marine and recent evidence that the present navy cannot protect that merchant marine in such waters as those off Spain.

Bogomoloff, in an interview with the newspaper Pravda, expressed concern over the possibility of getting orders from British firms. He warned Russians they might not fully utilize the ten million sterling credit (about $50,000,000) granted them by England on July 31, 1936, unless "normal conditions prevail."

Up to April 1, the Russian government had placed orders totaling 65,000 sterling (about $325,000), but will not get some of them delivered for 24 months. The Russians refused to place orders with many British firms, it was said, because prices were considered exorbitant.

Industrial recovery and neutrality legislation in the United States, and the Soviet's difficult political relations with Germany were cited as obstacles in the way of materials purchased abroad.

(In Washington, the state department said representatives of two unidentified firms had been told licenses for export of battleship parts to fill Russian orders probably would be issued upon request. The government objected, however, to any contractual clause providing that United States navy officials test guns before delivery. Officials also said specifications for 16-inch guns would need clarifying as to whether they were intended for an expanded Soviet naval program.)

CLARENCE DARROW DECRIES LYNCHING

CHICAGO, April 17.—(AP)—Clarence Darrow decried lynching as "the rankest vengeance" in a statement today on the eve of his 80th birthday.

As much a philosopher as lawyer, Darrow has criticized many things in the world—he once said "it should never have been made"—"but worst of all," he declared, "are the horrible punishments, tortures and injustices inflicted."

His most difficult task has been "to help overcome the cruelties of the world," he said, and his greatest and most lasting satisfaction came from efforts to help unfortunates.

Darrow shielded himself from the public because of poor health. His comments, in reply to questions, were written.

In the late autumn of his life, having sacrificed rich prospects as a corporation lawyer to devote his great talents to defending tolerance and "the minority," Darrow remains firm in the conviction "that the earth is the home, and the only home, of man."

"Whatever he is to get out of his existence," Darrow wrote, "he must get while he is here."

The aging barrister said he was "fairly well satisfied with the way I have lived and acted."

NURSERY SCHOOL FOR PARENTS

Avoiding the latest wrinkle is just one of the ways the expected addition to the family can be made more comfortable and healthy. This and lots of other details of mothercraft are taught expectant mothers in New York's Maternity Center association.

On the theory that the far-famed "maternal instinct" doesn't make up entirely for expert knowledge, a young mother learns from a nurse-teacher how to sterilize rubber nipples and other equipment for baby's feeding, bathing, and sleeping.

If Little Blessed isn't properly inserted into his (or her) crib, maybe Little Blessed won't go bye-bye with the sandman, but will make night hideous with unseemly bellowing. To avoid such an event, the expectant mother practices with a life-sized doll.

But mother-to-be can't expect all the fun of caring for baby. Daddy might have to lend a hand some time. So, when better ways of folding and pinning a diaper are invented, he can learn them, too, in the interests of fathercraft. He practices on pain-proof dolls.

ORLEANS MAY GET PERMANENT OPERA

Establishment Of Resident Company In Louisiana's Chief City Planned

NEW ORLEANS, April 17.—(AP)—New Orleans, once famed as the operatic center of the new world, may soon regain its place in classical music and song.

Walter L. Loubat, president of the newly formed New Orleans Civic Opera association, said today the association planned to establish a resident opera company here.

R. V. Steele of New York and Chicago has been named general manager of the group's first season.

Many famous stars of a past generation appeared in the old French Opera house here, which burned down in 1919.

Steele said that the association plans only first-class productions and that singers, ballet and orchestra would include notable artists. Some who Steele said were already contracted for or under option, are Dr. Eric DeLamarter, musical director; Vladimir Rosing, stage manager, and a member of the DeBasil troupe as director of the ballet.

A roster or the prospective singers revealed by Mr. Steele includes Richard Bonelli, baritone of the Chicago and Metropolitan opera groups; Armand Tokatyan, tenor of the Metropolitan, Chicago and Vienna operas; Josephine Anotine, Colotura soprano of the Metropolitan; Suzanne Fisher, soprano of the Metropolitan; Mark Love, bass of the Chicago opera and concert artist; Sidney Rayner, New Orleans tenor who is now with the Metropolitan; Maria Matyas, American-Hungarian mezzo-soprano; Joseph Bentonelli, American tenor of the Metropolitan, and Helen Jepson, dramatic soprano of the same institution.

"The chorus," Steele said, "will be made up of young, fresh voices and as many members of the group as possible will be recruited in New Orleans and Louisiana."

AGED COVINGTON RESIDENT DIES

Joseph Mather, Ice Cream Manufacturer For Many Years, Succumbs

NEW ORLEANS, April 17.—(AP)—Joseph Shiloh Mather, 76, a native of Louisiana who became an ice cream manufacturer in Toledo, O., died in Touro infirmary today after an illness of about 10 days. His home for the past few years had been in Covington, La., where he resided in retirement.

Mather was the great grandson of the third mayor of New Orleans, James Mather. He was the son of James S. Mather, St. James parish sugar planter, and Mary Lyons of St. Francisville, daughter of a sugar planter.

After spending his early years in St. Francisville, his family moved to New Orleans, where he attended school and joined the firm of Flash, Preston and company, sugar brokers. Mather married Miss Natalie Wiendahl of New Orleans when he was 23. They moved to St. Louis, Mo., where he became sales manager for the Timken Roller Bearing company.

He was instrumental in founding the Ohio Toledo Ice Cream company a few years later and for 20 years was secretary-treasurer of that firm. He retired 10 years ago, summering at a home in Covington, where he moved permanently three years ago.

He is survived by his widow, Natalie Weindahl, New Orleans; three daughters, Mrs. A. Warren Aylesworth, New Orleans, Mrs. Burt T. Ryan, Toledo, and Miss Lucy Mather, New Orleans; a son, Joseph S. Mather, Jr., New Orleans; a brother, Gordon A. Mather, Toledo, and two sisters, Mrs. A. C. Bell and Mrs. Charles Ziegler, New Orleans.

90 AT MEMPHIS

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 17.—(AP)—The mercury soared to 90 degrees today, equalling the all-time record for an April day here. The United States weather bureau reported a similar reading was recorded for April 30, 1901.

One million trucks in service in the United States, it is estimated, haul 1,430,000,000 tons of freight annually; 134,400,000 tons of this represents farm produce.

JUDGE CONSIDERS MOTIONS TO QUASH

DONALDSONVILLE, La., April 17.—(AP)—Judge Henry L. Himel took under consideration today motions to quash murder indictments returned against three young men and two women in the death last January 25 of Genevieve Legnon, 26.

Judge Himel postponed ruling on the motions, made by Defense Counsel George R. Blum, until Monday. Named in the indictments, returned by the Ascension parish grand jury Tuesday, are Cleo Miller, 24; Louis Wilson, 31; Lorenzo Milano, 27; Ralph Falsetto, 25, and Elmo Melancon, 21. They are held in the parish jail.

The Legnon girl died in a doctor's clinic. Officers said she was taken there by the defendants, who asserted she had been struck by a hit-and-run driver after walking from a night club party on the Napoleonville road.

Charges were filed against the defendants after the girl's father, of New Iberia, demanded an investigation following an autopsy by Coroner D. C. Brumfield.

TWO STUDENTS KILLED

CHARLOTTE, N. C., April 17.—(AP)—An automobile failed to make a curve on a highway near here today and two Davidson college seniors, Archie Campbell Cline, Jr., of Concord, and Hoxie H. Thompson, Jr., of Houston, Tex., were killed. Another student in the car, David McMillan, of Norfolk, Va., was badly injured.

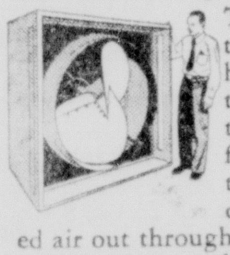
Gives Remarkable Cool Comfort in Homes

Engineers, working with all the tools known to modern science, have proved conclusively that the best, quickest and most economical method of getting relief from heat in the home is to remove it by means of attic ventilation. American Blower engineers, after years of scientific research, have designed and built a special Ventura Home Conditioner unit for this purpose.

No Refrigeration Required. Endorsed by Utility Engineers



This great new unit has a tremendous capacity for handling air. Placed in the attic it is so powerful that it draws the cool, fresh air from outside in through all the open windows and forces the heated air out through louvers in the attic. No refrigerating machine or coils required—a snap of the switch starts and stops the unit. Endorsed by the leading public utility engineers everywhere as a practical, economical means for comfort cooling in the home.

Costs Only A Few Cents A Day

Thousands of these new conditioners are already in operation. Owners report a remarkably low operating cost of only a few cents a day average for the entire summer months. Why swelter when you can have lasting relief in your home with the new Ventura Home Conditioner, installed in an out-of-the-way place in your attic? Don't delay. Write or phone us today.

Prevents Packed Up Heat

The sun's rays heat only objects which absorb them, thus highly transparent objects like air derive little heat by being shined upon. Your home acts as an absorbing substance, destroying the sun's rays and converting their energy of vibration into heat. Your attic often hits a temperature of 130° or more. The Ventura Home Conditioner removes this heat in a jiffy and creates a cool constant breeze of night air in your home. Phone for details. There is no obligation.

STEEL HARD FOR RUSSIA TO FIND

Some Manufacturers Too Busy Filling Domestic Orders

MOSCOW, April 17.—(AP)—Soviet Russia's purchases of materials for warships ran into difficulties today because, she learned, some steel manufacturers are too busy filling domestic orders to bother with foreign ones.

Nikolai Bogomoloff, Soviet trade delegate to Great Britain, returned to Moscow with the news that British firms are "swamped," handling huge orders for that nation's rearmament program.

United States circles here heard that Amtorg, Russian trading corporation, was unable to renew a steel order with one company in the United States because of heavy domestic demands. The company was said to have offered a premium to be released from delivering a previous order.

The Soviet commissariat of defense declined to comment on a state department announcement in Washington that two American firms had asked permission to fill Russian orders for battleship materials.

The talk here is that Russia wants to build new warships because of the rapid development of her merchant marine and recent evidence that the present navy cannot protect that merchant marine in such waters as those off Spain.

Bogomoloff, in an interview with the newspaper Pravda, expressed concern over the possibility of getting orders from British firms. He warned Russians they might not fully utilize the ten million sterling credit (about $50,000,000) granted them by England on July 31, 1936, unless "normal conditions prevail."

Up to April 1, the Russian government had placed orders totaling 65,000 sterling (about $325,000), but will not get some of them delivered for 21 months. The Russians refused to place orders with many British firms, it was said, because prices were considered exorbitant.

Industrial recovery and neutrality legislation in the United States, and the Soviet's difficult political relations with Germany were cited as obstacles in the way of materials purchased abroad.

(In Washington, the state department said representatives of two unidentified firms had been told licenses for export of battleship parts to fill Russian orders probably would be issued upon request. The government objected, however, to any contractual clause providing that United States navy officials test guns before delivery. Officials also said specifications for 16-inch guns would need clarifying as to whether they were intended for an expanded Soviet naval program.)

CLARENCE DARROW DECRIES LYNCHING

CHICAGO, April 17.—(AP)—Clarence Darrow decried lynching as "the rankest vengeance" in a statement today on the eve of his 80th birthday.

As much a philosopher as lawyer, Darrow has criticized many things in the world—he once said "it should never have been made"—"but worst of all," he declared, "are the horrible punishments, tortures and injustices inflicted."

His most difficult task has been "to help overcome the cruelties of the world," he said, and his greatest and most lasting satisfaction came from efforts to help unfortunates.

Darrow shielded himself from the public because of poor health. His comments, in reply to questions, were written.

In the late autumn of his life, having sacrificed rich prospects as a corporation lawyer to devote his great talents to defending tolerance and "the minority," Darrow remains firm in the conviction "that the earth is the home, and the only home, of man."

"Whatever he is to get out of his existence," Darrow wrote, "he must get while he is here."

The aging barrister said he was "fairly well satisfied with the way I have lived and acted."

VIEWED TWICE DAILY

CALLANDER, Ont., April 17.—(Canadian Press)—The Dionne quintuplets will be on public view twice daily this summer, Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe, their physician, announced today. During the winter they could be seen only once daily.

NURSERY SCHOOL FOR PARENTS

Avoiding the latest wrinkle is just one of the ways the expected addition to the family can be made more comfortable and healthy. This and lots of other details of mothercraft are taught expectant mothers in New York's Maternity Center association.

On the theory that the far-famed "maternal instinct" doesn't make up entirely for expert knowledge, a young mother learns from a nurse teacher how to sterilize rubber nipples and other equipment for baby's feeding, bathing, and sleeping.

If Little Blessed isn't properly inserted into his (or her) crib, maybe Little Blessed won't go bye-bye with the sandman, but will make night hideous with unseemly bellowing. To avoid such an event, the expectant mother practices with a life-sized doll.

But mother-to-be can't expect all the fun of caring for baby. Daddy might have to lend a hand some time. So, when better ways of folding and pinning a diaper are invented, he can learn them, too, in the interests of fathercraft. He practices on pain-proof dolls.

JUDGE CONSIDERS MOTIONS TO QUASH

DONALDSONVILLE, La., April 17.—(AP)—Judge Henry L. Himel took under consideration today motions to quash murder indictments returned against three young men and two women in the death last January 25 of Genevieve Legnon, 26.

Judge Himel postponed ruling on the motions, made by Defense Counsel George R. Blum, until Monday. Named in the indictments, returned by the Ascension parish grand jury Tuesday, are Cleo Miller, 24, Louis Wilson, 31; Lorenzo Milano, 27; Ralph Falsetto, 25, and Elmo Melancon, 21. They are held in the parish jail.

The Legnon girl died in a doctor's clinic. Officers said she was taken there by the defendants, who asserted she had been struck by a hit-and-run driver after walking from a night club party on the Napoleonville road.

Charges were filed against the defendants after the girl's father, of New Iberia, demanded an investigation following an autopsy by Coroner D. C. Brumfield.

TWO STUDENTS KILLED

CHARLOTTE, N. C., April 17.—(AP)—An automobile failed to make a curve on a highway near here today and two Davidson college seniors, Archie Campbell Cline, Jr., of Concord, and Hoxie H. Thompson, Jr., of Houston, Tex., were killed. Another student in the car, David McMillan, of Norfolk, Va., was badly injured.

ORLEANS MAY GET PERMANENT OPERA

Establishment Of Resident Company In Louisiana's Chief City Planned

NEW ORLEANS, April 17.—(AP)—New Orleans, once famed as the operatic center of the new world, may soon regain its place in classical music and song.

Walter L. Loubat, president of the newly formed New Orleans Civic Opera association, said today the association planned to establish a resident opera company here.

R. V. Steele of New York and Chicago has been named general manager of the group's first season.

Many famous stars of a past generation appeared in the old French Opera house here, which burned down in 1919.

Steele said that the association plans only first-class productions and that singers, ballet and orchestra would include notable artists. Some who Steele said were already contracted for or under option, are Dr. Eric DeLamarter, musical director; Vladimir Rosing, stage manager, and a member of the DeBasil troupe as director of the ballet.

A roster or the prospective singers revealed by Mr. Steele includes Richard Bonelli, baritone of the Chicago and Metropolitan opera groups; Armand Tokatyan, tenor of the Metropolitan, Chicago and Vienna operas, Josephine Anotine, Colotura soprano of the Metropolitan; Suzanne Fisher, soprano of the Metropolitan; Mark Love, bass of the Chicago opera and concert artist; Sidney Rayner, New Orleans tenor who is now with the Metropolitan; Maria Matyas, American-Hungarian mezzo-soprano; Joseph Bentonelli, American tenor of the Metropolitan, and Helen Jepson, dramatic soprano of the same institution.

"The chorus," Steele said, "will be made up of young, fresh voices and as many members of the group as possible will be recruited in New Orleans and Louisiana."

AGED COVINGTON RESIDENT DIES

Joseph Mather, Ice Cream Manufacturer For Many Years, Succumbs

NEW ORLEANS, April 17.—(AP)—Joseph Shiloh Mather, 76, a native of Louisiana who became an ice cream manufacturer in Toledo, O., died in Touro infirmary today after an illness of about 10 days. His home for the past few years had been in Covington, La., where he resided in retirement.

Mather was the great grandson of the third mayor of New Orleans, James Mather. He was the son of James S. Mather, St. James parish sugar planter, and Mary Lyons of St. Francisville, daughter of a sugar planter.

After spending his early years in St. Francisville, his family moved to New Orleans, where he attended school and joined the firm of Flash, Preston and company, sugar brokers. Mather married Miss Natalie Wiendahl of New Orleans when he was 23. They moved to St. Louis, Mo., where he became sales manager for the Timken Roller Bearing company.

He was instrumental in founding the Ohio Toledo Ice Cream company a few years later and for 20 years was secretary-treasurer of that firm. He retired 10 years ago, summering at a home in Covington, where he moved permanently three years ago.

He is survived by his widow, Natalie Weindahl, New Orleans; three daughters, Mrs. A. Warren Aylesworth, New Orleans, Mrs. Burt T. Ryan, Toledo, and Miss Lucy Mather, New Orleans; a son, Joseph S. Mather, Jr., New Orleans; a brother, Gordon A. Mather, Toledo, and two sisters, Mrs. A. C. Bell and Mrs. Charles Ziegler, New Orleans.

Gives Remarkable Cool Comfort in Homes
Engineers, working with all the tools known to modern science, have proved conclusively that the best, quickest and most economical method of getting relief from heat in the home is to remove it by means of attic ventilation. American Blower engineers, after years of scientific research, have designed and built a special Ventura Home Conditioner unit for this purpose.
No Refrigeration Required. Endorsed by Utility Engineers

This great new unit has a tremendous capacity for handling air. Placed in the attic it is so powerful that it draws the cool, fresh air from outside in through all the open windows and forces the heated air out through louvers in the attic. No refrigerating machine or coils required—a snap of the switch starts and stops the unit. Endorsed by the leading public utility engineers everywhere as a practical, economical means for comfort cooling in the home.
Costs Only A Few Cents A Day
Thousands of these new conditioners are already in operation. Owners report a remarkably low operating cost of only a few cents a day average for the entire summer months. Why swelter when you can have lasting relief in your home with the new Ventura Home Conditioner, installed in an out-of-the-way place in your attic? Don't delay. Write or phone us today.

COTTON STATES OPENS CAMPAIGN WEDNESDAY

GEORGE V. LOFTON, SPORTS EDITOR

MONROE, LOUISIANA, SUNDAY, APRIL 18, 1937

SPORTS CHATTER

By George V. Lofton

PROSPECTUS

The Cotton States league schedule gets under way next Wednesday afternoon. There are seven other clubs in the circuit, of course, but only one concerns us at the moment.

The Monroe Twins, returning to the Cotton States league after an absence of four years, will have plenty of power this year, if nothing else.

The infield is an experiment and will have to prove that it can keep pace in fast Class C company. The pitching staff has only two hurlers whose capabilities are known. But Manager Eddie Hock has nothing to worry about when he considers his outfield.

The three gardeners who should constitute the best outfield in the circuit are Clary Hack, Cully Rikard and Kirk Haynes. All have demonstrated that they can hit well over .300 and each is a fast and dependable fielder. Hack hit 24 home runs with the Gladewater club last year and there's no reason why he should lose any of his slugging power against Cotton States league pitching. Rikard, who was rated among the best outfielders in the circuit at Cleveland in 1936, has been pounding the ball hard this spring. And Haynes has topped 'em all in exhibition games so far.

Second base and shortstop are the question marks in the Monroe infield. Eddie Zelinske has been holding down the keystone sack but it is doubtful if he will do. Owner Dick Burnett is angling for a season second sacker and hopes to land him before the season opens. Pete Belko, bespectacled shortstop, has been acceptable in spring games and if he keeps up the good work, both afield and with his bat, there may be no worries at short. Pete, however, is playing his first year of professional ball and he's yet to be tested under fire. Manager Hock holds down thrid base, and how! Eddie was the best fielding third baseman in the East Texas league last year, and the old boy is as smooth as ever at the hot corner. And he'll hit above .300. The Twins have Clair Bates, a .300 hitter last year and rated the best first baseman in the Northeast Arkansas league, so there's no doubt that the initial sack will be well guarded.

The catching situation is in capable hands with Walter Butler, with Gladewater last year, and David Brownlee, a strapping youngster who was discovered in a CCC camp near here, doing the receiving.

It remains to be seen how the pitching staff will stack up in Cotton States baseball. The staff is built around two proven performers, Jack Van Orsdol and Bill Kent. Both were members of the Gladewater champions last season and each won 15 games. Gould Powers, a transfer from the Cleveland club, is the third veteran of the corps. Powers won 13 games while losing 14 with the lowly A's in 1936 but he should improve on that record with the Twins. However, his spring showing has been none too impressive. Britton Horton and John Hardin, a pair of southpaws, have pitched creditable ball in exhibition games and Horton, at least, is certain to start the season with the club. Charley Robinson and "Skip" Messina are two other rookies who have been taking regular turns on the mound in spring games. Robinson looks good enough for a longer trial.

The club as a whole looks good enough to hold its own in Cotton States company but if it doesn't, Owner Burnett has promised he'll plug any holes that develop. Club officials and fans who have seen the team in action are confident that the Twins at least will finish in the first four.

TAKE YOUR PICK

Twenty years ago this month a sports writer in France got a tip. This sports writer happened to be packing a rifle up in the front line trenches and the tip he got was good news indeed. His joy was unrestrained—or unrefined, or something—and he leaped to his feet and shouted, "The Yanks are coming!"

And that, children, is how it all started.

Yea, each year thereafter at this time every sports writer in the land—and every baseball fan, too—has foisted his selections on the innocent public.

It makes no difference that the Yanks finished down in the lower regions in 1917. The sports writer in France, of course, had a good alibi. He laughed it off by explaining that by Yanks he meant American soldiers. But he didn't fool anybody.

And so we join the annual pastime of climbing out on a limb.

It looks like the Yanks and the Giants again to us.

You can eliminate two teams right off the bat. Cleveland and Pittsburgh will NOT win in their respective leagues. Add Lefty Grove, Schoolboy Rowe, Red Ruffing, Luke Appling, Lou Gehrig and anybody else you can think of to the Cleveland roster and still they won't win. The Indians seem to contact some kind of homesickness the moment they leave town, and that is that. The Pirates, no matter how good they look on paper before the season starts, always manage to gum things up in mid-season, and that fixes 'em up for a nice comfortable berth in third or fourth place.

In the American race, we like Washington to finish behind the Yankees, the Red Sox in third place, and the Detroit Tigers lucky to tail-end the first division. The Indians should stagger into fifth place, the White Sox are our choice for the juicy sixth position, the Browns should finish

CHAMPION UPSET AT SHREVEPORT

McGonagill Beaten By Edwin McClure In Invitation Golf Tourney

SHREVEPORT, La., April 17.—(AP)—In a day of startling upsets that featured the elimination of Jimmy McGonagill, the defending champion, three golfers from Louisiana and a Texas sharpshooter emerged in front of the field to advance to the semi-finals of the fourth annual invitation tournament at the Shreveport Country club.

McGonagill, who was trying for his third consecutive title, fell before Edwin McClure, local star, 2 and 1, after McClure had won from Collins Gaines, Texarkana City champion, in the morning and McGonagill had taken the measure of J. C. Jackson of Baton Rouge, 5 and 4.

Jack Munger, Southern Amateur titleholder from Dallas, came through in the morning round to win from Rube' Albaugh, also of Dallas, 4 and 3, but could not stand the steady golf of Bill Clark in the afternoon, and Clark won at the sixteenth green, 4 and 2.

The darkhorse of the meet is Edwin Moore, former country club champion, who won from Vance Liddell in the morning and came through in the afternoon to put out Ross McDade, the favorite to go to the finals in the lower half. Moore takes on Leroy Ward of Baton Rouge in the morning, while McClure plays Clark.

Ward, a finalist in the Louisiana state championship in 1927 won his opening match from H. C. Winberry on the home green and played steady golf to put out J. K. Wadley, veteran Arkansas golfer, 5 and 4.

Semi-final matches in all flights will be played Sunday morning and final matches Sunday afternoon.

SOUTHERN LEAGUE

ROCKS RALLY TO WIN

NEW ORLEANS, April 17.—(AP)—Little Rock rallied to score three runs in the ninth inning and beat New Orleans, 7 to 6, in a wild see-saw game here today.

Both teams used three pitchers, all apparently ineffective, and Manager Larry Gilbert of New Orleans and "Doc" Prothro of Little Rock kept busy protesting the decisions of the umpires.

A fluky three-bagger by Chapman and a wild pitch accounted for Little Rock's three runs in the ninth.

Score by innings:

Little Rock ......010 020 103— 7 10 3
New Orleans ....000 010 230— 6 11 3

Rogers, Midkiff, Porter and Thompson; Wells, Humphries, Capdeville and George.

CHICKS EVEN SERIES

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 17.—(AP)—The Memphis Chicks slammed the offerings of three Baron pitchers here today to win, 7 to 2, and even their series with the Birmingham club at one victory each.

Vic Frazier, who went the first seven innings, held the home club to four hits. Benton gave none in the final two frames. Dixie Howell led the Memphis attack with two singles and a double.

Score by innings:

Memphis ....003 110 002—7 13 2
Birmingham ......000 100 100—2 4 3

SMOKIES WHIP LOOKOUTS

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., April 17.—(AP)—The Knoxville Smokies slammed out an 18-6 victory over the Chattanooga Lookouts in a wild and woolly game today.

Ray White, shortstop, set the pace for the Smokies with four hits, driving in five runs. Blair, Knoxville first baseman, collected three hits. The amazing part of the affair was that the Lookouts outhit the Smokies 14 to 12.

Score by innings:

Knoxville ....050 100 570—18 12 2
Chattanooga .....001 000 401— 6 14 6

McClure, Graham and Warren; Phebus, Haynes and Holbrook, Early.

VOLS DOWN CRACKERS

ATLANTA, April 17.—(AP)—The Nashville Vols turned the tables on Atlanta 5 to 3 in the second game of the season today.

The Crackers scored three runs in the first inning and were unable to put across another tally. The Vols, trailing 2 to 3 at the beginning of the eighth, cut loose with a three-run scoring attack.

Alexander had singled and Moore was walked. Murray bunted and Hooks threw the ball wild to third. Moore and Alexander scored, Blakely finally scored Murray for the third run of the inning for Nashville.

Score by innings:

Nashville ....000 101 030—5 12 3
Atlanta ....300 000 000—3 8 2

BASEBALL'S GRAND OLD MAN

Connie Mack, with the duties of president added to his managerial worries, is still going strong after 51 years in organized baseball and 37 seasons as manager of the Philadelphia Athletics. Baseball's grand old man was struck by a thrown ball during spring training and it was feared that he would not be able to be on hand when his Athletics opened up the season in Washington, but Connie responded to treatment and was back on the bench with his boys in a few days, wigwagging his score card as smartly and spryly as ever.

FELLER DIDN'T NEED CLEVELAND COACHING

NEW YORK, April 17.—(AP)—George Uhle, Cleveland Indian coach who used to be a good pitcher himself, confessed today that he and Coach Wally Schang "haven't taught Bob Feller much."

"But I'd no more think of tampering with the style of a kid like that than I'd think of teaching Dempsey how to box," Uhle said.

"We have tried to improve his control—not too much, because a fast ball pitcher who is just wild enough to keep the batters footloose has an extra advantage."

"For one thing," interposed Schang, who was a catcher in the days of Eddie Plank and Chief Bender, "we've shown Bob how to keep his eye on the batter all through his delivery. Last year he turned his head with his body, so that he didn't actually look where he was throwing until the moment of delivery.

"Then there is the change of pace he's developed just this spring. When he controls that pitch a little better, it will be a sure strike every time he throws it. No batter expecting that fast ball can change his stance in time to hit a slow one.

"There was never any one like him. Mark my word—he'll go down in history as the greatest pitcher who ever lived."

And Uhle, who shares with Schang and Manager Steve O'Neill the duty of worrying over the Cleveland Indians' 18-year-old strikeout artist, concluded:

"I almost get dizzy when I think about that kid."

TULANE TENNIS SQUAD DEFEATS TEXAS, 4 TO 2

TWO NEW CLUBS JOIN SEMI-PRO LOOP THIS YEAR

Opening Games To Be Played At Brown Paper Mill, Swartz And Bastrop

The six clubs of the Ouachita Valley league swing into action today in the first games of 1937 campaign. Prospects for a successful season are better than at any time in the fast semi-pro league's history, according to T. O. Dent, president of the circuit.

Two new clubs are in the league this season. The Crossett, Ark., team replaced Sterlington and Bastrop took over the franchise held by Winnfield last season.

Today's openers find Hodge at Brown Paper mill, Ruston at Swartz and Crossett at Bastrop.

In the game at Brown's new park, which boasts an elaborate new concrete and steel grandstand, the starting lineups have been announced as follows:

The two news clubs in the circuit will meet at Bastrop, with the two probable starting lineups as follows:

Bastrop—J. Love, shortstop; Ashcraft, third base; Thaxton, second base; Lowe, center field; Nolan or Mosley, right field; Carnahan or Arant, first base; B. Love, catcher, and Fontenot, Robinson, Richbourg or Murray, pitcher.

"The clubs in the league appear to be well balanced," President Dent said last night," and I predict a close race for the championship. We are glad to have Crossett and Bastrop, two good baseball towns, with us this year and I'm sure the fans in those two towns will see some interesting baseball this season."

The Bastrop club has been allowed 15 additional days in which to complete its roster but all other clubs are "set" for the first half, it was said.

CROSSETT READY

CROSSETT, April 17.—(Special)—Crossett's Ouachita Valley league baseball team will start their first season of league baseball Sunday when they go to Bastrop, La., for the opening game.

At the conclusion of a stiff workout yesterday afternoon, Captain Cortez "Tex" Moore, catcher, said the team was in good condition physically and that the morale of the entire squad was at a high pitch. He was uncertain who would start on the mound but indicated it would be either Rob Roy McGregor, formerly of the Portland, Ore., team of the Pacific Coast league, or Clarence "Lefty" Butler, former

By William Harridge
(President of the American League)

CHICAGO, April 17.—(AP)—Honestly, the American league race has me up in the air this year and I am mighty glad. Two or three weeks ago it was my opinion that the New York Yankees, world's champions, might make a runaway race of it again, but now I am not so sure.

Having won the 1936 pennant by nineteen and a half games, New York naturally believed it could stand pat with the same players who have overpowered their opposition and crashed their way to two championships.

The other seven clubs, however, have not been asleep. Each has made strenuous efforts to strengthen. Detroit, which finished second, even without Manager Mickey Cochrane and First Baseman Greenberg, who led the league in 1935 in driving in runs, has these two players back in the game and the Tigers appear to be a far better team with them in the lineup.

Cleveland made a three-player deal with St. Louis which the Cleveland management believes will improve the Indians in speed on the bases and defensively at short field. In addition, it has Whitehill, veteran southpaw; Heath, a hard hitting outfielder, and Bob Feller the youthful pitching sensation.

Chicago has practically the same hustling aggregation that finished third last season, but is thought to have strengthened its pitching staff materially with the addition of Rigney and Lee, and the return of Stratton to the game.

Washington, one of the best clubs in the league in 1936, is stronger. It has Myer, the batting champion of 1935, back in the lineup. It has added Al Simmons, great batter, who has driven in 100 or more runs each year, and expects better things of infielders Travis and Lewis because of the experience they acquired in 1936. There is no reason to believe that the Washington pitching staff will be any less effective.

With Manager Joe Cronin himself again, with Pitcher Marcum in far better shape than a year ago, and with the addition of Second Baseman Doerr, the Boston Red Sox shape up much stronger than a year ago.

The Philadelphia Athletics needed pitching in 1936. I believe they have it this year. At any rate, their games with other major league clubs this spring indicate that Connie Mack has every reason to see great improvement in his club. In fact, there are well qualified critics who believe Mack has one of the best pitching staffs in the league.

We have a new ownership at St. Louis. Rogers Hornsby, one of the greatest players of all time, is returning to the game as an active player and I certainly expect the Browns to play better ball this year because of the inspiration provided by those aggressive new owners who plan on making their club one of the pennant contenders each year.

One of their first acts was to make a three-player trade with Cleveland, a trade that gave St. Louis another starting pitcher, a hard hitting shortstop and one of the best outfielders in the game.

I have every reason to expect that the American league season of 1927 will be one of its best financially as well as from a competitive standpoint.

NATIONAL WIDE OPEN

By Ford G. Frick

NEW YORK, April 17.—(AP)—It looks like a wide open race in the National league this season.

Most of the baseball experts predict four clubs will battle it out for the pennant. I am going a bit farther and give five clubs a chance.

To the champion New York Giants, the St. Louis Cardinals, the Chicago Cubs and the Pittsburgh Pirates, who made up the first division last year, I am going to add the Cincinnati Reds as pennant possibilities.

The Reds are young, ambitious and full of fight and hustle. Maybe they do not rate an even chance with the so-called "big four," but you can not count them out—I can't, at any rate.

It looks like a year in which anything can happen. All of the five clubs in my pennant book are stronger than last season, but they have their weaknesses, too. These add to the uncertainty.

The other three teams—Boston, Brooklyn and Philadelphia—have improved in spots but hardly enough to crash their way into the upper bracket. They will have their fun trying to blast the hopes of the clubs that are contenders.

The team having the most luck may emerge the winner. An injury or two can wreck the chances of what now may shape up as the strongest outfits in the league.

No matter what the outcome, we are going to see plenty of good, fast, hard fought baseball between now and the ringing down of the curtain next September.

Without exception the National league clubs have returned to their home bases from the training grind in excellent physical condition. They will be ready to throw their full strength on the field when the umpires call "play ball" Monday and Tuesday of next week.

TWINS TO MEET VICKSBURG CLUB IN FIRST GAME

Local Opening To Be Held Friday; Morris Sees Successful Season

The Cotton States league opens its 1937 campaign Wednesday with two new cities and prospects for its most successful season in history, according to J. Walter Morris, president of the league.

UMPIRES ASSIGNED

J. Walter Morris, president of the Cotton States league, yesterday announced assignment of umpires for the opening games next Wednesday.

Umpires J. C. Fisher and Frank Wilson will work at Clarksdale, James Wilder and Arthur Pasarilla have been assigned to El Dorado, Pat Yoakum and James Droham will officiate at Greenwood, and W. C. Merritt and Leonard Rowe will handle the game at Vicksburg.

"Improved conditions and renewed interest in baseball, plus the addition of two live baseball towns, Monroe and Vicksburg, give a rosy hue to Cotton States league prospects," Mr. Morris said here yesterday. "Last year the Cotton Staes furnished the closest race in organized baseball. This year it looks like it will be even closer, with eight well balanced clubs seeking the championship."

Monroe will replace Cleveland, Miss., and Vicksburg takes over the Jackson franchise. Cleveland has dropped out of professional baseball and Jackson has joined the reorganized Southeastern league.

Opening day finds Monroe at Vicksburg, Greenville at Greenwood, Helena at Clarksdale and Pine Bluff at El Dorado.

Next Friday the clubs will reverse their positions for four more "home town" openings.

Managers of the eight clubs are Eddie Hock, Monroe; Lena Styles, Greenville; Ray Brubaker, Vicksburg; L. L. "Cowboy" Jones, Pine Bluff; Frank O'Rourke, El Dorado; Rod Whitney, Helena; "Red" Barnes Clarksdale, and Frank Brazil, Greenwood.

President Morris has offered a trophy to the town which turns out the largest opening day attendance and all eight clubs are making a drive to "cop the cup." Plans are being made to close all stores in every twon in the circuit except Monroe and El Dorado, according to word received here. El Dorado will play its opening game at night.

The Monroe Twins will wind up their exhibition series with a game at Longview of the East Texas league today and Manager Hock and his charges probably will leave for Monroe as soon as the game is over. The Twins will work out at the home park Monday and Tuesday and then leave for the opener at Vicksburg Wednesday morning.

Monroe returns to organized baseball after an absence of more than four years. The Twins held a franchise in the Cotton States league in 1932. The league disbanded in mid-season.

The city returns to baseball under far more advantageous conditions than during the "depression era." For one thing, the admission price will be 40 cents, whereas in the old days 75 cents was the cost. A salary limit has been set and is enforced. R. W. Burnett, owner of the Monroe club, has placed a team here without asking for financial assistance, a different procedure than the "pass-the-hat" methods of former years.

Plans are being made to get out a large opening day crowd. A parade will be held before the game and the usual ceremonies will be carried out at the park. An admission charge of 50 cents, plus federal tax, will be made for the opening game and a percentage of the proceeds will be donated to the Ouachita Tuberculosis association.

The American Legion is conducting a ticket sales campaign and Bill Perhamus, chairman of the ticket committee, reported last night that several hundred admissions already have been sold. Tickets have been placed on sale at numerous places downtown and individuals also are engaged in the campaign.

President Morris said last night that he did not know where he would spend opening day. The Rotary, Lions and Kiwanis clubs have wired him an invitation to see the first game at Vicksburg, assuring him that the town would be "closed tight and everybody will be at the ball park."

TODAY DEADLINE FOR M'GUIRE QUALIFYING

Today is the deadline for qualifying in the McGuire Park Golf club's championship tournament and Jim McKenzie, McGuire pro said last night that he expects a big crowd at the West Monroe links today.

A number of golfers already have posted their qualifying scores but at least 25 more are expected to play their rounds today. The tournament is attracting more interest than in the past and a record entry list is expected.

Bun Beasley is the defending champion.

By John J. Romano

Joe McCarthy is highly pleased with the condition of the world champion Yankees and confidently expects them to repeat their 1936 triumphs. The return to form of Lefty Gomez has taken some of the bitterness away from Red Ruffing's failure to report for spring training. The status of Bump Hadley, Monte Pearson and Johnny Broaca as starting pitchers has been definitely established. To young Johnny Murphy and the veteran Pat Malone rest the burden of relief roles.

The infield with Lou Gehrig, Frank Crosetti, Tony Lazzeri, and Red Rolfe was a foregone conclusion last month even though a group of youngsters were brought south for examination. Crosetti has improved with experience and is friskier than ever. Lazzeri has slowed a bit. His handling of ground balls is as certain as ever and the power of the bat gives him the call over Don Heffner who can be sent in on a moment's notice.

Little need be said about the outfielders. It is stronger and better balanced than last year when both Jake Powell and Joe DiMaggio were question marks. Selkirk and Hoag are playing with more aplomb and confidence, with the former getting the best of assignments over Hoag because of a better throwing arm.

Will They Miss Ruffing?

Bill Dickey is a catching department in himself, but is always assured of able replacements. No worry on that score.

The fly in the ointment of McCarthy's pre-season prognostication is how he figures a starting quartet which won 58 games while losing 25 last year can match, or make up, the 20 games Ruffing turned in. Big Red had a big year and those 20 games look formidable. Especially if Gomez does a tailspin and Broaca's tendency to wildness causes his removal and lowered status. Hadley pitched in spots last year and is a year older now. Will he be as good this year? And will Pearson continue his mastery of rival batters?

These are the things McCarthy must guard against before assuming that he can do without Ruffing's pitching and timely hitting in the pinches.

Where then comes the real opposition?

Cleveland will furnish that if young Bob Feller continues the pace he set in training camp exhibitions. Lyn Lary and Julius Solters will provide another spark the Indians lacked last year.

Feller, teamed up with Johnny Allen, offer as nice a pair of twirlers as any manager has warming up to start the game. Up and coming youngsters like Denny Galehouse, Al Milnar, Lloyd Brown spiced with veterans such as Mel Harder and several others will give Cleveland formidable mound strength. Frank Pytlak and Billy Sullivan are capable handlers, with the latter getting the call over Pytlak because of the latter's lighter heft and sticking power.

The big guns will be furnished by Hal Trosky, Earl Averill, Roy Weatherly and Lemons Solters. In this department Steve O'Neil figures he has sluggers to compare with the Yanks in general averages. Steve points out that his club outbatted the Yanks by four points last year and Solters is expected to boost the difference several more.

The outlook in Cleveland is much better than it was last season.

Tigers' Staff Weak

Detroit, with Mickey Cochrane and Hank Greenberg back, figures to stay in the race much longer than last year when they wilted when Cochrane was forced out with a general run-down condition. Greenberg's bat was sorely missing. The general bat work of the Tigers is not to be confused because they finished nineteen games behind the Yankees. In spite of the fact that only four regulars hit .300 or better, the team finished in a tie with the champions. Rudy York and Chet Laabs, two newcomers, are thought ready to hit big league pitching.

Detroit's main weakness is in the box. Schoolboy Rowe, Tommy Bridges and Elden Auker are the mainstays. Throw out Dizzy Trout until he proves up, and as for leftovers and newcomers Cochrane is going to use every bit of knowledge gained in the big show to bring them through.

Detroit has to count too much on the "breaks" to threaten seriously the Yanks or Indians.

Yawkeymen May Surprise

The Boston Red Sox appear the dark horses of the year. Pinky Higgins has plugged the gap at third base. Bobby Doerr seems to have placed Joe Cronin back on the bench. Otherwise, the infield remains the same and is not bad at all. It shapes up better than the 1936 edition.

Bob Grove has been showing his "smoke" ball and sharp breaking curve consistently, and looks for a good year. Wes Ferrell has promised to behave and that means a lot when Wes is on the mound with brother Rick receiving. Little need be said about the outfield and other replacements Cronin has acquired or seasoned. The club as a whole will not be carrying the burden of being figured a cinch to win the pennant, and that may make a world of difference when the men are not bearing down too hard.

The Yanks to take it again, Cleveland to furnish the competition, with the Red Sox as a constant threat is the way your observer views the American league pennant scramble.

PROSPECTUS

The Cotton States league schedule gets under way next Wednesday afternoon. There are seven other clubs in the circuit, of course, but only one concerns us at the moment.

The Monroe Twins, returning to the Cotton States league after an absence of four years, will have plenty of power this year, if nothing else.

The infield is an experiment and will have to prove that it can keep pace in fast Class C company. The pitching staff has only two hurlers whose capabilities are known. But Manager Eddie Hock has nothing to worry about when he considers his outfield.

The three gardeners who should constitute the best outfield in the circuit are Clary Hack, Cully Rikard and Kirk Haynes. All have demonstrated that they can hit well over .300 and each is a fast and dependable fielder. Hack hit 24 home runs with the Gladewater club last year and there's no reason why he should lose any of his slugging power against Cotton States league pitching. Rikard, who was rated among the best outfielders in the circuit at Cleveland in 1936, has been pounding the ball hard this spring. And Haynes has topped 'em all in exhibition games so far.

Second base and shortstop are the question marks in the Monroe infield. Eddie Zelinske has been holding down the keystone sack but it is doubtful if he will do. Owner Dick Burnett is angling for a season second sacker and hopes to land him before the season opens. Pete Belko, bespectacled shortstop, has been acceptable in spring games and if he keeps up the good work, both afield and with his bat, there may be no worries at short. Pete, however, is playing his first year of professional ball and he's yet to be tested under fire. Manager Hock holds down thrid base, and how! Eddie was the best fielding third baseman in the East Texas league last year, and the old boy is as smooth as ever at the hot corner. And he'll hit above .300. The Twins have Clair Bates, a .300 hitter last year and rated the best first baseman in the Northeast Arkansas league, so there's no doubt that the initial sack will be well guarded.

The catching situation is in capable hands with Walter Butler, with Gladewater last year, and David Brownlee, a strapping youngster who was discovered in a CCC camp near here, doing the receiving.

It remains to be seen how the pitching staff will stack up in Cotton States baseball. The staff is built around two proven performers, Jack Van Orsdol and Bill Kent. Both were members of the Gladewater champions last season and each won 15 games. Gould Powers, a transfer from the Cleveland club, is the third veteran of the corps. Powers won 13 games while losing 14 with the lowly A's in 1936 but he should improve on that record with the Twins. However, his spring showing has been none too impressive. Britton Horton and John Hardin, a pair of southpaws, have pitched creditable ball in exhibition games and Horton, at least, is certain to start the season with the club. Charley Robinson and "Skip" Messina are two other rookies who have been taking regular turns on the mound in spring games. Robinson looks good enough for a longer trial.

The club as a whole looks good enough to hold its own in Cotton States company but if it doesn't, Owner Burnett has promised he'll plug any holes that develop. Club officials and fans who have seen the team in action are confident that the Twins at least will finish in the first four.

TAKE YOUR PICK

Twenty years ago this month a sports writer in France got a tip. This sports writer happened to be packing a rifle up in the front line trenches and the tip he got was good news indeed. His joy was unrestrained—or unrefined, or something—and he leaped to his feet and shouted, "The Yanks are coming!"

And that, children, is how it all started.

Yea, each year thereafter at this time every sports writer in the land—and every baseball fan, too—has foisted his selections on the innocent public.

It makes no difference that the Yanks finished down in the lower regions in 1917. The sports writer in France, of course, had a good alibi. He laughed it off by explaining that by Yanks he meant American soldiers. But he didn't fool anybody.

And so we join the annual pastime of climbing out on a limb.

It looks like the Yanks and the Giants again to us.

You can eliminate two teams right off the bat. Cleveland and Pittsburgh will NOT win in their respective leagues. Add Lefty Grove, Schoolboy Rowe, Red Ruffing, Luke Appling, Lou Gehrig and anybody else you can think of to the Cleveland roster and still they won't win. The Indians seem to contact some kind of homesickness the moment they leave town, and that is that. The Pirates, no matter how good they look on paper before the season starts, always manage to gum things up in mid-season, and that fixes 'em up for a nice comfortable berth in third or fourth place.

In the American race, we like Washington to finish behind the Yankees, the Red Sox in third place, and the Detroit Tigers lucky to tail-end the first division. The Indians should stagger into fifth place, the White Sox are our choice for the juicy sixth position, the Browns should finish

SHREVEPORT, La., April 17.—(AP)—In a day of startling upsets that featured the elimination of Jimmy McGonagill, the defending champion, three golfers from Louisiana and a Texas sharpshooter emerged in front of the field to advance to the semi-finals of the fourth annual invitation tournament at the Shreveport Country club.

McGonagill, who was trying for his third consecutive title, fell before Edwin McClure, local star, 2 and 1, after McClure had won from Collins Gaines, Texarkana City champion, in the morning and McGonagill had taken the measure of J. C. Jackson of Baton Rouge, 5 and 4.

Jack Munger, Southern Amateur titleholder from Dallas, came through in the morning round to win from Rube' Albaugh, also of Dallas, 4 and 3, but could not stand the steady golf of Bill Clark in the afternoon, and Clark won at the sixteenth green, 4 and 2.

The darkhorse of the meet is Edwin Moore, former country club champion, who won from Vance Liddell in the morning and came through in the afternoon to put out Ross McDade, the favorite to go to the finals in the lower half. Moore takes on Leroy Ward of Baton Rouge in the morning, while McClure plays Clark.

Ward, a finalist in the Louisiana state championship in 1927 won his opening match from H. C. Winberry on the home green and played steady golf to put out J. K. Wadley, veteran Arkansas golfer, 5 and 4.

Semi-final matches in all flights will be played Sunday morning and final matches Sunday afternoon.

FELLER DIDN'T NEED CLEVELAND COACHING

NEW YORK, April 17.—(AP)—George Uhle, Cleveland Indian coach who used to be a good pitcher himself, confessed today that he and Coach Wally Schang "haven't taught Bob Feller much."

"But I'd no more think of tampering with the style of a kid like that than I'd think of teaching Dempsey how to box," Uhle said.

"We have tried to improve his control—not too much, because a fast ball pitcher who is just wild enough to keep the batters footloose has an extra advantage."

"For one thing," interposed Schang, who was a catcher in the days of Eddie Plank and Chief Bender, "we've shown Bob how to keep his eye on the batter all through his delivery. Last year he turned his head with his body, so that he didn't actually look where he was throwing until the moment of delivery.

"Then there is the change of pace he's developed just this spring. When he controls that pitch a little better, it will be a sure strike every time he throws it. No batter expecting that fast ball can change his stance in time to hit a slow one.

"There was never any one like him. Mark my word—he'll go down in history as the greatest pitcher who ever lived."

And Uhle, who shares with Schang and Manager Steve O'Neill the duty of worrying over the Cleveland Indians' 18-year-old strikeout artist, concluded:

"I almost get dizzy when I think about that kid."

TULANE TENNIS SQUAD DEFEATS TEXAS, 4 TO 2

Opening Games To Be Played At Brown Paper Mill, Swartz And Bastrop

The six clubs of the Ouachita Valley league swing into action today in the first games of 1937 campaign. Prospects for a successful season are better than at any time in the fast semi-pro league's history, according to T. O. Dent, president of the circuit.

Two new clubs are in the league this season. The Crossett, Ark., team replaced Sterlington and Bastrop took over the franchise held by Winnfield last season.

Today's openers find Hodge at Brown Paper mill, Ruston at Swartz and Crossett at Bastrop.

The two news clubs in the circuit will meet at Bastrop, with the two probable starting lineups as follows:

Bastrop—J. Love, shortstop; Ashcraft, third base; Thaxton, second base; Lowe, center field; Nolan or Mosley, right field; Carnahan or Arant, first base; B. Love, catcher, and Fontenot, Robinson, Richbourg or Murray, pitcher.

"The clubs in the league appear to be well balanced," President Dent said last night," and I predict a close race for the championship. We are glad to have Crossett and Bastrop, two good baseball towns, with us this year and I'm sure the fans in those two towns will see some interesting baseball this season."

The Bastrop club has been allowed 15 additional days in which to complete its roster but all other clubs are "set" for the first half, it was said.

CROSSETT READY

CROSSETT, April 17.—(Special)—Crossett's Ouachita Valley league baseball team will start their first season of league baseball Sunday when they go to Bastrop, La., for the opening game.

At the conclusion of a stiff workout yesterday afternoon, Captain Cortez "Tex" Moore, catcher, said the team was in good condition physically and that the morale of the entire squad was at a high pitch. He was uncertain who would start on the mound but indicated it would be either Rob Roy McGregor, formerly of the Portland, Ore., team of the Pacific Coast league, or Clarence "Lefty" Butler, former

Harridge Thinks Yanks Will Have Competition

American Loop Prexy Sees Closer Race; Frick Looks For Wide Open Battle

By William Harridge
(President of the American League)

CHICAGO, April 17.—(AP)—Honestly, the American league race has me up in the air this year and I am mighty glad. Two or three weeks ago it was my opinion that the New York Yankees, world's champions, might make a runaway race of it again, but now I am not so sure.

Having won the 1936 pennant by nineteen and a half games, New York naturally believed it could stand pat with the same players who have overpowered their opposition and crashed their way to two championships.

The other seven clubs, however, have not been asleep. Each has made strenuous efforts to strengthen. Detroit, which finished second, even without Manager Mickey Cochrane and First Baseman Greenberg, who led the league in 1935 in driving in runs, has these two players back in the game and the Tigers appear to be a far better team with them in the lineup.

Cleveland made a three-player deal with St. Louis which the Cleveland management believes will improve the Indians in speed on the bases and defensively at short field. In addition, it has Whitehill, veteran southpaw; Heath, a hard hitting outfielder, and Bob Feller the youthful pitching sensation.

Chicago has practically the same hustling aggregation that finished third last season, but is thought to have strengthened its pitching staff materially with the addition of Rigney and Lee, and the return of Stratton to the game.

Washington, one of the best clubs in the league in 1936, is stronger. It has Myer, the batting champion of 1935, back in the lineup. It has added Al Simmons, great batter, who has driven in 100 or more runs each year, and expects better things of infielders Travis and Lewis because of the experience they acquired in 1936. There is no reason to believe that the Washington pitching staff will be any less effective.

With Manager Joe Cronin himself again, with Pitcher Marcum in far better shape than a year ago, and with the addition of Second Baseman Doerr, the Boston Red Sox shape up much stronger than a year ago.

The Philadelphia Athletics needed pitching in 1936. I believe they have it this year. At any rate, their games with other major league clubs this spring indicate that Connie Mack has every reason to see great improvement in his club. In fact, there are well qualified critics who believe Mack has one of the best pitching staffs in the league.

We have a new ownership at St. Louis. Rogers Hornsby, one of the greatest players of all time, is returning to the game as an active player and I certainly expect the Browns to play better ball this year because of the inspiration provided by those aggressive new owners who plan on making their club one of the pennant contenders each year.

One of their first acts was to make a three-player trade with Cleveland, a trade that gave St. Louis another starting pitcher, a hard hitting shortstop and one of the best outfielders in the game.

I have every reason to expect that the American league season of 1927 will be one of its best financially as well as from a competitive standpoint.

NATIONAL WIDE OPEN

By Ford G. Frick

NEW YORK, April 17.—(AP)—It looks like a wide open race in the National league this season.

Most of the baseball experts predict four clubs will battle it out for the pennant. I am going a bit farther and give five clubs a chance.

To the champion New York Giants, the St. Louis Cardinals, the Chicago Cubs and the Pittsburgh Pirates, who made up the first division last year, I am going to add the Cincinnati Reds as pennant possibilities.

The Reds are young, ambitious and full of fight and hustle. Maybe they do not rate an even chance with the so-called "big four," but you can not count them out—I can't, at any rate.

It looks like a year in which anything can happen. All of the five clubs in my pennant book are stronger than last season, but they have their weaknesses, too. These add to the uncertainty.

The other three teams—Boston, Brooklyn and Philadelphia—have improved in spots but hardly enough to crash their way into the upper bracket. They will have their fun trying to blast the hopes of the clubs that are contenders.

The team having the most luck may emerge the winner. An injury or two can wreck the chances of what now may shape up as the strongest outfits in the league.

No matter what the outcome, we are going to see plenty of good, fast, hard fought baseball between now and the ringing down of the curtain next September.

Without exception the National league clubs have returned to their home bases from the training grind in excellent physical condition. They will be ready to throw their full strength on the field when the umpires call "play ball" Monday and Tuesday of next week.

TWINS TO MEET VICKSBURG CLUB IN FIRST GAME

Local Opening To Be Held Friday; Morris Sees Successful Season

The Cotton States league opens its 1937 campaign Wednesday with two new cities and prospects for its most successful season in history, according to J. Walter Morris, president of the league.

"Improved conditions and renewed interest in baseball, plus the addition of two live baseball towns, Monroe and Vicksburg, give a rosy hue to Cotton States league prospects," Mr. Morris said here yesterday. "Last year the Cotton Staes furnished the closest race in organized baseball. This year it looks like it will be even closer, with eight well balanced clubs seeking the championship."

Monroe will replace Cleveland, Miss., and Vicksburg takes over the Jackson franchise. Cleveland has dropped out of professional baseball and Jackson has joined the reorganized Southeastern league.

Opening day finds Monroe at Vicksburg, Greenville at Greenwood, Helena at Clarksdale and Pine Bluff at El Dorado.

Next Friday the clubs will reverse their positions for four more "home town" openings.

Managers of the eight clubs are Eddie Hock, Monroe; Lena Styles, Greenville; Ray Brubaker, Vicksburg; L. L. "Cowboy" Jones, Pine Bluff; Frank O'Rourke, El Dorado; Rod Whitney, Helena; "Red" Barnes Clarksdale, and Frank Brazill, Greenwood.

President Morris has offered a trophy to the town which turns out the largest opening day attendance and all eight clubs are making a drive to "cop the cup." Plans are being made to close all stores in every town in the circuit except Monroe and El Dorado, according to word received here. El Dorado will play its opening game at night.

The Monroe Twins will wind up their exhibition series with a game at Longview of the East Texas league today and Manager Hock and his charges probably will leave for Monroe as soon as the game is over. The Twins will work out at the home park Monday and Tuesday and then leave for the opener at Vicksburg Wednesday morning.

Monroe returns to organized baseball after an absence of more than four years. The Twins held a franchise in the Cotton States league in 1932. The league disbanded in mid-season.

The city returns to baseball under far more advantageous conditions than during the "depression era." For one thing, the admission price will be 40 cents, whereas in the old days 75 cents was the cost. A salary limit has been set and is enforced. R. W. Burnett, owner of the Monroe club, has placed a team here without asking for financial assistance, a different procedure than the "pass-the-hat" methods of former years.

Plans are being made to get out a large opening day crowd. A parade will be held before the game and the usual ceremonies will be carried out at the park. An admission charge of 50 cents, plus federal tax, will be made for the opening game and a percentage of the proceeds will be donated to the Ouachita Tuberculosis association.

The American Legion is conducting a ticket sales campaign and Bill Perhamus, chairman of the ticket committee, reported last night that several hundred admissions already have been sold. Tickets have been placed on sale at numerous places downtown and individuals also are engaged in the campaign.

President Morris said last night that he did not know where he would spend opening day. The Rotary, Lions and Kiwanis clubs have wired him an invitation to see the first game at Vicksburg, assuring him that the town would be "closed tight and everybody will be at the ball park."

UMPIRES ASSIGNED

J. Walter Morris, president of the Cotton States league, yesterday announced assignment of umpires for the opening games next Wednesday.

Umpires J. C. Fisher and Frank Wilson will work at Clarksdale, James Wilder and Arthur Pasarilla have been assigned to El Dorado, Pat Yoakum and James Droham will officiate at Greenwood, and W. C. Merritt and Leonard Rowe will handle the game at Vicksburg.

TODAY DEADLINE FOR M'GUIRE QUALIFYING

Today is the deadline for qualifying in the McGuire Park Golf club's championship tournament and Jim McKenzie, McGuire pro said last night that he expects a big crowd at the West Monroe links today.

A number of golfers already have posted their qualifying scores but at least 25 more are expected to play their rounds today. The tournament is attracting more interest than in the past and a record entry list is expected.

Romano Picks Yankees To Repeat In American Race

By John J. Romano

Joe McCarthy is highly pleased with the condition of the world champion Yankees and confidently expects them to repeat their 1936 triumphs. The return to form of Lefty Gomez has taken some of the bitterness away from Red Ruffing's failure to report for spring training. The status of Bump Hadley, Monte Pearson and Johnny Broaca as starting pitchers has been definitely established. To young Johnny Murphy and the veteran Pat Malone rest the burden of relief roles.

The infield with Lou Gehrig, Frank Crosetti, Tony Lazzeri, and Red Rolfe was a foregone conclusion last month even though a group of youngsters were brought south for examination. Crosetti has improved with experience and is friskier than ever. Lazzeri has slowed a bit. His handling of ground balls is as certain as ever and the power of the bat gives him the call over Don Heffner who can be sent in on a moment's notice.

Little need be said about the outfielders. It is stronger and better balanced than last year when both Jake Powell and Joe DiMaggio were question marks. Selkirk and Hoag are playing with more aplomb and confidence, with the former getting the best of assignments over Hoag because of a better throwing arm.

Will They Miss Ruffing?

Bill Dickey is a catching department in himself, but is always assured of able replacements. No worry on that score.

The fly in the ointment of McCarthy's pre-season prognostication is how he figures a starting quartet which won 58 games while losing 25 last year can match, or make up, the 20 games Ruffing turned in. Big Red had a big year and those 20 games look formidable. Especially if Gomez does a tailspin and Broaca's tendency to wildness causes his removal and lowered status. Hadley pitched in spots last year and is a year older now. Will he be as good this year? And will Pearson continue his mastery of rival batters?

These are the things McCarthy must guard against before assuming that he can do without Ruffing's pitching and timely hitting in the pinches.

Where then comes the real opposition?

Cleveland will furnish that if young Bob Feller continues the pace he set in training camp exhibitions. Lyn Lary and Julius Solters will provide another spark the Indians lacked last year.

Feller, teamed up with Johnny Allen, offer as nice a pair of twirlers as any manager has warming up to start the game. Up and coming youngsters like Denny Galehouse, Al Milnar, Lloyd Brown spiced with veterans such as Mel Harder and several others will give Cleveland formidable mound strength. Frank Pytlak and Billy Sullivan are capable handlers, with the latter getting the call over Pytlak because of the latter's lighter heft and sticking power.

The big guns will be furnished by Hal Trosky, Earl Averill, Roy Weatherly and Lemons Solters. In this department Steve O'Neil figures he has sluggers to compare with the Yanks in general averages. Steve points out that his club outbatted the Yanks by four points last year and Solters is expected to boost the difference several more.

The outlook in Cleveland is much better than it was last season.

Tigers' Staff Weak

Detroit, with Mickey Cochrane and Hank Greenberg back, figures to stay in the race much longer than last year when they wilted when Cochrane was forced out with a general run-down condition. Greenberg's bat was sorely missing. The general bat work of the Tigers is not to be confused because they finished nineteen games behind the Yankees. In spite of the fact that only four regulars hit .300 or better, the team finished in a tie with the champions. Rudy York and Chet Laabs, two newcomers, are thought ready to hit big league pitching.

Detroit's main weakness is in the box. Schoolboy Rowe, Tommy Bridges and Elden Auker are the mainstays. Throw out Dizzy Trout until he proves up, and as for leftovers and newcomers Cochrane is going to use every bit of knowledge gained in the big show to bring them through.

Detroit has to count too much on the "breaks" to threaten seriously the Yanks or Indians.

Yawkeymen May Surprise

The Boston Red Sox appear the dark horses of the year. Pinky Higgins has plugged the gap at third base. Bobby Doerr seems to have placed Joe Cronin back on the bench. Otherwise, the infield remains the same and is not bad at all. It shapes up better than the 1936 edition.

Bob Grove has been showing his "smoke" ball and sharp breaking curve consistently, and looks for a good year. Wes Ferrell has promised to behave and that means a lot when Wes is on the mound with brother Rick receiving. Little need be said about the outfield and other replacements Cronin has acquired or seasoned. The club as a whole will not be carrying the burden of being figured a cinch to win the pennant, and that may make a world of difference when the men are not bearing down too hard.

The Yanks to take it again, Cleveland to furnish the competition, with the Red Sox as a constant threat is the way your observer views the American league pennant scramble.

Haynesville Shades Rayville For Track Honors; Delhi Girls Win

RUSTON, La., April 17.—(Special)—Track and field events Saturday afternoon and baseball finals Saturday morning at Louisiana Tech wound up the 14th annual north Louisiana High school rally, which attracted 1,065 pupils to the local college campus this week-end. Thirty-one schools competed in sports and 45 in literary events.

Haynesville nosed out Rayville, 34 points to 33 1-2, to win the Class A track title. Columbia was third with 30 points and Ruston fourth with 28 1-2.

Summerfield walked away with the Class B track championship, with 65 points. Other ranking schools in that division were Harris, 25 1-2; Athens, 24 1-2, and Gibsland, 20.

The girls' track championship was captured by Delhi with 18 points. Athens was second with 16; Bastrop third with 15, and Rayville fourth with 8. Girls' track was added to the rally for the first time last year. In the meet here Saturday, the girls set new records in all of their events.

Saturday morning, Ouachita Parish High school of Monroe swamped the baseball team of Bernice by a score of 13-1, to take the diamond title.

A'S MEET NATS AT WASHINGTON, PHILS PLAY BEES

Remainder Of Clubs In Two Circuits Swing Into Action On Tuesday

NEW YORK, April 17.—(AP)—The familiar sound of the drum beats and the base hits, the old war-cry of the clans and the crowd, draws closer for 1937 in the major panorama of American sports.

Baseball's big leagues, hopeful of a favorable nod from the weather gods and profitable results from this spring's extraordinary build-up, start the championship season Monday and Tuesday.

Notwithstanding some concession to modern times, with the American league this year following the National league's example in permitting night games, tradition still holds sway in America's national game. The playing trend is toward the "good old days" of pitching battles.

President Roosevelt will throw out the first ball Monday for the American league's solo opener in Washington. Meantime, the Boston Bees and the Philadelphia Nationals will celebrate Patriots' day by playing two games in Boston. This novelty will be followed on Tuesday by a seven-game program, rounding out the getaway festivities.

If there's a fair break in the weather, close to 250,000 fans may witness the double barrelled openings. The world champion Yankees entertaining Washington on Tuesday in their home bailiwick, should draw the biggest turnout, perhaps 50,000. Capacity or near-capacity crowds likely will witness the openings at Cincinnati, Detroit and Brooklyn, where the National league champion Giants renew an ancient baseball feud with the Dodgers.

There is one striking difference to be noted however, after exhaustive study of reports from the spring training fronts as well as views expressed in the annual Associated Press pennant poll. The newspaper railbirds believe the National league's dog-fight will, as formerly, involve the champion. They figure the superheated struggle in the American league will be strictly confined to second place.

Despite the bad breaks that have hit them prior to the start of the season and which actually may be warning signals of disaster ahead—including holdout trouble climaxed by Charley Ruffing, the club's only 20-game pitching winner of 1936, and tonsil trouble for jarring Joe DiMaggio—baseball writers agree with betting men that the world champion Yankees are in a class by themselves, as odds-on choices.

The Yankees are favored by 87 out of 106 experts to repeat their pennant parade. The Tigers, in the poll, are rated the best of five potential challengers. Yet the most intriguing factor in the forthcoming championship chase, by all odds, revolves around the pitching wizardry of the youthful Bob Feller and the effect he will wield, not alone upon the box office, but also upon the pennant prospects of a Cleveland club that has for years had a habit of disappointing its supporters.

No amount of pre-season speculation can anticipate what will happen, if, for instance, Feller exerts the same electrifying influence upon the Clevelands that DiMaggio did upon the Yankees, as a freshman outfield sensation, last year. It is well to bear in mind that at this time a year ago, the Tigers were heavy choices to repeat and the Yankees rated nowhere in particular. Inasmuch as New York romped off with the pennant, by a margin of only 19 1-2 games, it can be seen that the pre-season forecasts can be anything but prophetic.

If the Yankees, in baseball parlance, "come back;" in other words if they help close last season's gap by folding in certain vital places, the American league race may well turn into a free-for-all. Outside of the St. Louis Browns and the Philadelphia Athletics, all the clubs have ambitions to land in the first division, at least.

On the National league side, the St. Louis Cardinals top the champion Giants by a substantial margin in first-place votes in the Associated Press poll—62 to 28. As was the case a year ago, the Cardinals also are the choice of so-called "wise money" to finish on top.

There's no doubt the addition of Lonnie Warneke, erstwhile right-handed ace of the Chicago Cubs, has fortified the Cardinals on the main firing line, but they will need another big year by Dizzy Dean, along with a comeback by brother Paul Dean, to show the strength they need in the box. The Red Birds have dash and color, a great outfield, but an uncertain inner defense.

Analysis of all the evidence, in fact, fails to indicate any pronounced edge for the celebrated "Gas House" gang in a field embracing not only the strongly-equipped, well-organized Giants, but the revamped Chicago Cubs, the improved Pittsburgh Pirates and the hustling Cincinnati Reds. The Reds, a consistent fifth place club, now loom as a "dark horse" in the flag chase.

Many baseball men minimize the Giants' prospects on the ground that the club achieved a baseball "miracle" last year, by coming from far behind to win with a late-season rush. These critics do not see how the New Yorkers can repeat, especially with a problem at first base created by the retirement of Manager Bill Terry from the active list. Yet all the spring evidence, otherwise, points to a general improvement of the team on the field, plus steadier pitching support for the one and only Carl Hubbell.

It may prove that John McCarthy and Sambo Leslie combined cannot fill the big shoes left by Terry, long the game's most polished first baseman and a batsman with a .340 lifetime average. But Lou Chiozza looks like a capable replacement at third for Travis Jackson, Hank Leiber appears due for a hitting come-back in the role of regular centerfielder, and "Prince Hal" Schumacher gives unquestioned evidence of a return to pitching form, after an erratic 1936 season.

Thus fortified in the most vital department of baseball strategy—pitching—the Giants appear to have fewer "ifs" in their lineup than either the Cardinals or any other National league contender. In short, from this corner, they look like "the team to beat," a smart, well-knit outfit that figures to pack more punch this season than at any time since Terry replaced the late John McGraw at the helm. Terry has demonstrated his talents as a master mind, on the field, and it will be interesting to note the results of his concentration upon the job from the bench.

THE OPENING SETUP

MARS SHIELD WINS RICH TEXAS DERBY

Heelfly Second And East Port Third; Black Look First At Keeneland

ARLINGTON DOWNS, Tex., April 17.—(AP)—Mars Shield, fleet Milky Way farm's filly, responded to brilliant urging in the stretch by Jockey Alfred Robertson to win the $15,000 Texas Derby before 25,000 fans here today.

A half length behind, after leading all the way, was Heelfly, the Three D stock farms Kentucky Derby hope. Mrs. V. Wyse's East Port finished in the show spot two lengths back of the winner.

The winner's time of 1:50 2-5 for the mile and an eighth was only one-fifth of a second slower than the track record established by Navanod last fall.

The winner paid $6.70, $.50 and $2.90.

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 17.—(AP)—The Eton Blue of Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney zoomed into the Kentucky Derby panorama today as Black Look, one of the three colts the New York sportsman named for the Churchill Downs classic, turned in an impressive victory at Keeneland's inaugural.

Two other members of the field which Black Look led home, Warren Wright's Gosum and H. P. Headley's Old Nassau, are eligible for the derby. Official time for the six-furlong spin was 1:13 3-5 with the Whitney colt going away. Black Look, ridden by Jockey R. (Sonny) Workman, was an even money favorite.

With ideal weather conditions prevailing, one of the largest crowds ever to attend a racing program in Lexington gathered to welcome the thoroughbreds back to Kentucky for a spring whirl of sixty-seven days. The crowd was conservatively estimated at 10,000.

DORIS BRENNAN TAKES 500-YARD SWIM TITLE

CHICAGO, April 17.—(AP)—Doris Elizabeth Brennan, of the Olneyville Boys' club, Providence, R. I., the "hard-luck" girl of the national indoor women's A. A. U. swimming championship, caught up with good luck tonight, winning the 500-yard free style championship by three yards over Miami Beach's Katy Rawls.

Miss Brennan, an auburn-haired youngster of 15 years, who was left at the mark Wednesday night in the 300-yard individual medley, considered her best event, swam a carefully planned and executed race tonight to gain her first national championship. She swam with Claudia Eckert of Chicago, the 100-yard champion, for 12 lengths of the pool, then steadily pulled away from the field.

The time, 6 minutes, 24.7 seconds, was only three and seven-tenths seconds slower than the winning performance last year of Mary Lou Petty of Seattle, who has withdrawn from competition.

Major League Schedules Open Monday With Two Games

Remainder Of Clubs In Two Circuits Swing Into Action On Tuesday

NEW YORK, April 17.—(AP)—The familiar sound of the drum beats and the base hits, the old war-cry of the clans and the crowd, draws closer for 1937 in the major panorama of American sports.

Baseball's big leagues, hopeful of a favorable nod from the weather gods and profitable results from this spring's extraordinary build-up, start the championship season Monday and Tuesday.

Notwithstanding some concession to modern times, with the American league this year following the National league's example in permitting night games, tradition still holds sway in America's national game. The playing trend is toward the "good old days" of pitching battles.

President Roosevelt will throw out the first ball Monday for the American league's solo opener in Washington. Meantime, the Boston Bees and the Philadelphia Nationals will celebrate Patriots' day by playing two games in Boston. This novelty will be followed on Tuesday by a seven-game program, rounding out the getaway festivities.

If there's a fair break in the weather, close to 250,000 fans may witness the double barrelled openings. The world champion Yankees entertaining Washington on Tuesday in their home bailiwick, should draw the biggest turnout, perhaps 50,000. Capacity or near-capacity crowds likely will witness the openings at Cincinnati, Detroit and Brooklyn, where the National league champion Giants renew an ancient baseball feud with the Dodgers.

There is one striking difference to be noted however, after exhaustive study of reports from the spring training fronts as well as views expressed in the annual Associated Press pennant poll. The newspaper tailbirds believe the National league's dog-fight will, as formerly, involve the champion. They figure the superheated struggle in the American league will be strictly confined to second place.

Despite the bad breaks that have hit them prior to the start of the season and which actually may be warning signals of disaster ahead—including holdout trouble climaxed by Charley Ruffing, the club's only 20-game pitching winner of 1936, and tonsil trouble for jarring Joe DiMaggio—baseball writers agree with betting men that the world champion Yankees are in a class by themselves, as odds-on choices.

The Yankees are favored by 87 out of 106 experts to repeat their pennant parade. The Tigers, in the poll, are rated the best of five potential challengers. Yet the most intriguing factor in the forthcoming championship chase, by all odds revolves around the pitching wizardry of the youthful Bob Feller and the effect he will wield, not alone upon the box office, but also upon the pennant prospects of a Cleveland club that has for years had a habit of disappointing its supporters.

No amount of pre-season speculation can anticipate what will happen, if, for instance, Feller exerts the same electrifying influence upon the Clevelands that DiMaggio did upon the Yankees, as a freshman outfield sensation, last year. It is well to bear in mind that at this time a year ago, the Tigers were heavy choices to repeat and the Yankees rated nowhere in particular. Inasmuch as New York romped off with the pennant, by a margin of only 19 1-2 games, it can be seen that the pre-season forecasts can be anything but prophetic.

If the Yankees, in baseball parlance, "come back;" in other words if they help close last season's gap by folding in certain vital places, the American league race may well turn into a free-for-all. Outside of the St. Louis Browns and the Philadelphia Athletics, all the clubs have ambitions to land in the first division, at least.

On the National league side, the St. Louis Cardinals top the champion Giants by a substantial margin in first-place votes in the Associated Press poll—62 to 28. As was the case a year ago, the Cardinals also are the choice of so-called "wise money" to finish on top.

There's no doubt the addition of Lonnie Warneke, erstwhile right-handed ace of the Chicago Cubs, has fortified the Cardinals on the main firing line, but they will need another big year by Dizzy Dean, along with a comeback by brother Paul Dean, to show the strength they need in the box. The Red Birds have dash and color, a great outfield, but an uncertain inner defense.

Analysis of all the evidence, in fact, fails to indicate any pronounced edge for the celebrated "Gas House" gang in a field embracing not only the strongly-equipped, well-organized Giants, but the revamped Chicago Cubs, the improved Pittsburgh Pirates and the hustling Cincinnati Reds. The Reds, a consistent fifth place club, now loom as a "dark horse" in the flag chase.

Many baseball men minimize the Giants' prospects on the ground that the club achieved a baseball "miracle" last year, by coming from far behind to win with a late-season rush. These critics do not see how the New Yorkers can repeat, especially with a problem at first base created by the retirement of Manager Bill Terry from the active list. Yet all the spring evidence, otherwise, points to a general improvement of the team on the field, plus steadier pitching support for the one and only Carl Hubbell.

It may prove that John McCarthy and Sambo Leslie combined cannot fill the big shoes left by Terry, long the game's most polished first baseman and a batsman with a .340 lifetime average. But Lou Chiozza looks like a capable replacement at third for Travis Jackson. Hank Leiber appears due for a hitting come-back in the role of regular centerfielder, and "Prince Hal" Schumacher gives unquestioned evidence of a return to pitching form, after an erratic 1936 season.

Thus fortified in the most vital department of baseball strategy—pitching—the Giants appear to have fewer "ifs" in their lineup than either the Cardinals or any other National league contender. In short, from this corner, they look like "the team to beat," a smart, well-knit outfit that figures to pack more punch this season than at any time since Terry replaced the late John McGraw at the helm. Terry has demonstrated his talents as a master mind on the field, and it will be interesting to note the results of his concentration upon the job from the bench.

RECORDS SHATTERED IN DRAKE RELAY EVENTS

Braddock Quits Wisconsin Woods, Returns To Chicago

Terry, Kuck, Francis Star In Assault On Track Records In Annual Meet

By Whitney Martin

LAWRENCE, Kas., April 17.—(AP)—A national intercollegiate record was shattered, four other meet records were broken, the great Glenn Cunningham met defeat at his pet distance, and the University of Indiana ran hog wild in the relay events as midwestern and southwestern track and field aces wrote another vivid chapter in Kansas Relay history today.

Alton Terry, tall, lithe Texan from Hardin-Simmons, hurled the javelin 229 feet 2 1-4 inches to better the national intercollegiate mark of 226 feet 2 3-4 inches he set in 1936.

The Kansas Relay record, the oldest on the books, was 206 feet 6 1-4 inches, set by John Kuck of Emporia, Kas., States Teachers college in 1926.

Sam Francis, all-American fullback from the University of Nebraska and Olympic shot putter, heaved the 16-pound ball 51 feet 6 inches to better the mark of 51 feet 3 3-8 inches set by Elwyn Dees of Kansas in 1935, and then got a daily double with a victory in the discus on a toss of 144 feet 3 3-4 inches.

The high jump, steeplechase and university mile team race marks were the others to fall. Jack Vickery, lanky University of Texas athlete, and Thomas Stevens, Pittsburg, Kas., Teachers college ace, eased over the bar at 6 feet 6 3-8 inches to better the high jump mark set by Shaw of Wisconsin in 1930 by 3-16 of an inch.

Tommy Deckard, slim, frail-appearing youngster who was a potent factor in the large afternoon enjoyed by the University of Indiana squad, accounted for the other two records.

Deckard trotted, jumped and waded his way around the 3,000-meter steeplechase course in 9:25 to better the mark of 9:30.4 he set last year, and then led the field in the university mile team race with a time of 4:23.2.

His team mate, Don Lash, set the previous record of 4:23.3 last year.

Cunningham trailed his most persistent rival, Archie San Romani of Emporia, Kas., State Teachers college, to the tape in a special mile match race. The time of 4:14.1 was 1.4 seconds slower than the meet record established by Cunningham in 1934.

The slender San Romani dogged Cunningham's footsteps the first two laps, which were covered in 2:14, then edged into the lead which he held to the finish.

While most of the record-breaking was centering about the special events, Coach E. C. (Bill) Hayes' Indiana team methodically was going about the business of all but cornering the first places in the university relay events.

The Hoosiers won the half-mile, the two-mile, the one-mile team race, the distance medley and the one-mile relay, in addition to Deckard's individual prize in the steeplechase. They did not enter any other events.

Deckard and Lash, a pair of iron men, were the shining lights of the sturdy Indiana squad. Lash participated in three races, and his sprint finish in the mile team race in which he placed second to Deckard was one of the prettiest sights of the day.

EVANGELINE LEAGUE

(By Associated Press)

Alexandria continued its winning pace in the Evangeline baseball league Saturday by hitting to advantage to beat Jeanerette, 4 to 3. The Aces have won five and lost only one game since the season started.

Narbut of Rayne smacked out a homer with two men on base but his team lost to Abbeville just the same, 9 to 6. Lake Charles hit opportunely to trounce Opelousas, 9 to 6.

Lafayette beat New Iberia, 2 to 1, in a 10-inning night game. The contest was a pitchers' battle between Weisenborn of Lafayette and Wittman of New Iberia.

CHAMPION SEEKS PERMANENT CAMP FOR TITLE MATCH

Jersey Jim To Work Out In Gym Until His Manager Reaches Chicago

By Charles Dunkley

CHICAGO, April 17.—(AP)—Weary of Wisconsin's north woods, James J. Braddock returned to Chicago today to await selection of a permanent training camp for his scheduled titular battle with Joe Louis here in June.

The world's heavyweight champion made hurried arrangements to do road work and gymnasium chores pending arrival of his manager, Joe Gould, from New York on Tuesday. Gould is considering several sites, but favors Golfmore club, near Michigan City, Ind., 60 miles from Chicago. Braddock plans to start road work tomorrow, and figures on starting his gymnasium routine Monday.

Due to the slow breaking up of winter in the northern woods, Braddock was able to get in only two or three days of road work, one of his favorite routines, and hurriedly left his woodland camp on little Lake Sissadagama. The woodland trails were ankle deep in mud because of the spring thaws, and with the danger of turning an ankle in the loose footing, he was obliged to forego actual running to develop his legs and wind, devoting most of his time to wood chopping and a bit of gymnasium exercise.

The champion weighs 199 pounds and he looks to be in fairly good condition, following his two weeks in the wilds. This is seven pounds more than he hopes to scale for the fight, if and when the bout becomes an actuality, escaping the injunction sought by the Madison Square Garden corporation to force Braddock to fight Max Schmeling in New York, June 3.

The champion's road work will consist of five miles each morning in jogging, brisk walks and sprints.

Braddock, with his sparring partners, Jack McCarthy and Charley Massera, was accompanied to Chicago by Joseph Triner, chairman of the Illinois state athletic commission.

Triner said that Braddock figured he was two weeks behind in his training program, and that his time is growing precious with the bout just two months away.

HALL BEATS SABIN TO WIN NORTH-SOUTH TITLE

PINEHURST, N. C., April 17.—(AP)—Gilbert Hall, veteran from South Orange, N. J., defeated Wayne Sabin of Hollywood, Calif., 7-5, 6-4, 8-6, today to win the singles title of the North and South tennis championships.

Eunice Dean of San Antonio, Tex., overcame Mrs. Virginia Rice Johnson of Boston for the women's singles championship, 7-5, 6-3.

Hall and Sabin teamed late in the day to win the men's doubles title from Martin Buxby of Miami and Elwood Cooke of Portland, Ore., 2-6, 9-7, 8-6, 6-2.

Hall and Mrs. Johnston defeated Miss Florence LeBoutellier of Westbury, L. I., and Cook 7-5, 6-8, 7-5 for the mixed doubles' title.

CRAWFORDS AND TIGERS IN 2 GAMES HERE TODAY

Two strong negro baseball teams, the Crawfords from Pittsburg, Pa., and the Tigers, of Cincinnati, O., will clash here this afternoon in a doubleheader at Stovall park, the first game beginning at 1:15 o'clock.

Johnny Washington, a former member of the Monroe Monarchs, is playing as a first baseman with the Crawfords, and Pepper Bassett, former Baton Rouge negro, is the catcher for the same team. As a feature of the series, Bassett will catch one entire inning while sitting in a rocking chair, it was announced.

The two teams were brought to Monroe through the efforts of Frank Johnson, former Monroe Monarch, and Haywood Jackson.

EXHIBITION SCORES

TIGERS SHADE REDS

DAYTON, O., April 17.—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers staged two big rallies in as many innings today and came from behind to defeat the Cincinnati Reds 9 to 8 in the third game of an exhibition series.

Making his first start since he was injured in an automobile accident in Florida March 27, Al Hollingsworth held Mickey Cochrane's men to six hits in four innings, while the Reds were lacing young Jakey Wade for four markers.

Mooty replaced Hollingsworth in the fifth and yielded but one blow, Greenberg smashing a home run to score Gehringer ahead of him.

Rudy York, rookie third sacker, followed with another circuit blow in the seventh, off Wild Bill Hallahan.

YANKS NOSE OUT DODGERS

BROOKLYN, April 17.—(AP)—The world champion New York Yankees, although held to five hits, evened their Ebbets' Field series with the Dodgers today by putting on a fourth-inning rally for a 2 to 1 victory.

A two-bagger by Jake Powell, singles by Babe Dahlgreen and Bill Dickey and Tony Lazzeri's long fly, all off Roy Henshaw, gave the Yanks all their runs.

Monte Pearson and Frank Makosky held the Dodgers to six hits and kept them scoreless until the ninth when Jack Winsett caught one of Makosky's slants and poled it over the right field wall for a homer.

RED SOX BEAT BEES

BOSTON, April 17.—(AP)—The Boston Red Sox opened their two-game intra-city series with the Bees with a 7-5 victory today.

Frank (Pinky) Higgins started the American leaguers on the right path in the second inning when he belted a homer into the left field pavilion. The Red Sox put on a four-run rally in the fourth and added two more tallies in the sixth.

After Jack Wilson fanned the first three Bees to face him, they piled on him for three hits which, plus a pass and two sacrifices, resulted in three runs in the second inning. Vince DiMaggio cleared the barrier in left field after Debs Garms singled in the seventh.

CHISOX SHADE CUBS

CHICAGO, April 17. — (AP) — The American league White Sox evened Chicago's spring city series at five-all today by defeating the National league Cubs, 3 to 2, on consecutive doubles by Dixie Walker and Zeke Bonura, with two out in the eighth.

The blows, sixth and seventh off Bill Lee, who went the route for the losers, broke a 2-2 tie.

Stan Hack's fourth inning home run off Vern Kennedy with Ken O'Dea on base accounted for the only two Cub tallies. Monty Stratton held the north siders to four scattered hits in the last five innings. The 11th and deciding game of the annual series will be played at Wrigley Field tomorrow.

BROWNS WALLOP CARDS

ST. LOUIS, April 17.—(AP)—Pounding Paul Dean and Bob Weiland unmercifully, the St. Louis American league Browns turned the first of a two-game "city championship series" with the National league Cardinals into a rout today, winning 17 to 5.

The Browns probably shattered Dean's hopes for a comeback, their unrelenting attack collecting seven runs during the one and two-thirds innings he was in the box. Weiland was so ineffective the American leaguers scored nine more tallies. Mike Ryba and Lon Warneke also saw service. Harlond Clift, Browns' third baseman, took slugging honors for the day, getting two homers and a double.

Score by innings:

PHILLIES TRIM A'S

PHILADELPHIA, April 17.—(AP)—The Phillies bunched 10 of their hits in the first three innings to score nine runs, then fought a belated rally by the Athletics to defeat their city rivals, 9 to 7, today.

Seven of the runs were scored off George Turbeville who lasted only two innings. Four of them were knocked in by Morrie Arnovich, rookie outfielder. Bud Thomas and Randy Gumpert shutout the Phils after the third, but Orville Jorgens, although he weakened in the closing innings, pitched effectively in the pinches.

GIANTS TRIM INDIANS

NEW YORK, April 17.—(AP)—Dick Bartell banged out two homers and Rookie Johnny McCarthy hit one today as the Giants opened their home Polo grounds with a 6 to 1 exhibition victory over the Cleveland Indians.

While Hal Schumacher and Freddy Fitzsimmons divided the Giants' hurling assignment, limiting the Tribe to half a dozen hits, the New Yorkers belted Earl Whitehill freely until he was taken out with the bases loaded in the eighth. Willis Hudlin pulled out of the hole and finished up.

The Giants' big inning came in the fourth, when they shoved four runs over, two of them on Bartell's first round-tripper with a mate on base.

Score by innings:

pitcher for Bunkie, La., last year's semi-pro state champion.

The newly organized Crossett outfit, composed largely of employes of the new pulp and paper mill which recently started operations here, finds itself starting the season without an official name. A contest is now in progress in conjunction with the Crossett theater to select a name by popular vote. The name chosen will be announced from the stage of the Crossett theater Friday night.

Performance of the club in pre-season and exhibition games points to a heavy-hitting aggregation. In their first game of the year at Camden last week they were nosed out, 4 to 3, but drove two pitchers from the mound Wednesday to defeat El Dorado's Cotton States club, 11 to 8.

MAROONS TROUNCE L. S. U. AGAIN, 13-2

STATE COLLEGE, Miss., April 17.—(AP)—Herman Woods limited Louisiana State university to three hits and the Mississippi State Maroons romped over the Tigers 13-2 to make a clean sweep of the four-game series.

An error which put Hundley on second gave Walker a chance to put the Tigers in the lead in the first frame, but the Bengals did not count again until the last frame when they added another.

Herman Woods' pitching kept the Tigers baffled, and at no time were the Maroons threatened after they got the lead in the fifth. They battered three Tiger hurlers for 12 runs in the last three innings.

about seventh and the Athletics get the call for the cellar hole.

In the National, we like the Giants because they've got the pitching. Then, too, the infield won't be so bad when Mr. Terry picks up Dolph Camilli to plug that hole at first base. The outfield will stack up with the best of 'em.

Lots of the boys are picking the Cardinals, but honestly, we can't tell why. Dizzy Dean and Lon Warneke are pretty fair chunkers but they can't work every other day. And the word is out that Charley Grimm knew something when he traded Lon to the Cards. Outside of those two, the pitching staff is nothing to brag about. The infield isn't set, the outfield is a problem and if this guy Owens doesn't click, who's Mr. Frisch going to use as a catcher?

It looks like the Cubs in second place, the Cards maybe third and the Reds horning in for a slice of the first division money. The lower bracket should consist of Pittsburgh, Brooklyn, Boston and the Phillies in that order.

If you don't like those selections, pick your own.

SHORT TAKES

The Detroit Tigers have never finished last in the American league. The Red Sox have the dubious distinction of finishing in the cellar more times than any other club, 10. The Athletics have been the tail-end club nine times.

Every club in the National has finished last at one time or another. Believe it or not, Brooklyn is the only club that has brought up the rear only once.

Cold statistics reveal that Carl Hubbell is a much better pitcher than Dizzy Dean. Hubbell's earned run average in the majors is 2.70 to Dean's 3.07. And Carl has won an even 50 more ball games than the loud-mouthed Cardinal hurler.

At least 50 fans will drive to Vicksburg Wednesday to see the Twins open the season against the Billies.

Ouachita Parish High school is making an outstanding athletic record this year. The girls won the state basketball championship, the tennis team swept all but one title at the district rally at Ruston recently and yesterday the baseball team copped the rally crown. Head coaches at the Parish school are "Lefty" Haynes, football; Mrs. Elizabeth Manhein, girls' basketball; Leo Hartman, baseball; George Riser, tennis, and Ben Rush, track.

Gaynell Tinsley signed up for one tough job when he agreed to become head football coach at Louisiana college. It's quite a jump from player to college coach in one season and the former all-America's many friends up this way are pulling for him to take it in stride.

And now Max Baer thinks he's all washed up. That makes it unanimous.

At least four veteran baseball men have told us that Eddie McLane's Burt, a second baseman, and Lewis, a pitcher, look like major league prospects.

The Ouachita Valley league begins what officials believe will prove its most successful season. New parks have been built at Brown Paper mill, Crossett and Bastrop. It looks like a big year in the Valley.

OLE MISS TRACKMEN NOSE OUT GREENIES

UNIVERSITY, Miss., April 17.—(AP)—In a meet excitingly close up to the final event, Mississippi defeated today a capable Tulane Greenie team in the first resumption of track relations between the schools since 1927. Gaining a split in the final event, the broad jump, Mississippi won, 60-52.

Harold Moskoff tied Dave White, Tulane, with a 21 foot 7 3-4 inch leap to give Ole Miss a commanding margin in points and the meet.

Eddie Mack Morgan, half mile and mile entrant for Mississippi, Harry Waugh, Tulane, sprint winner in the 100 and 220, and George Kohl, hurdle winner for Tulane, tied for high point honors with 10 each.

Ole Miss, sweeping the mile, half mile and two mile, proved strongest in distance events on the cinders. Tulane held two-man advantages in the 440 and pole vault. First places went to the Rebs with a 7 1-2 to 6 1-2 count.

Only until results of the broad jump were posted was the outcome of the meet certain. Point scoring was even at 48-48 until Ole Miss carried the two mile and halved the jump event.

L. S. U. LOSES TRACK MEET TO RICE OWLS, 61 TO 56

BATON ROUGE, La., April 17.—(AP)—Louisiana State university's track and field team lost its first dual meet in six years today. Rice institute's sturdy Harriers defeated the Tigers 61-56, their thrilling mile relay victory bringing victory.

With the score knotted at 56-56, the Rice relay team sped through the mile in the fast time of 3:19.5.

Terry, Kuck, Francis Star In Assault On Track Records In Annual Meet

By Whitney Martin

LAWRENCE, Kas., April 17.—(AP)—A national intercollegiate record was shattered, four other meet records were broken, the great Glenn Cunningham met defeat at his pet distance, and the University of Indiana ran hog wild in the relay events as midwestern and southwestern track and field aces wrote another vivid chapter in Kansas Relay history today.

Alton Terry, tall, lithe Texan from Hardin-Simmons, hurled the javelin 229 feet 2 1-4 inches to better the national intercollegiate mark of 226 feet 2 3-4 inches he set in 1936.

The Kansas Relay record, the oldest on the books, was 206 feet 6 1-4 inches, set by John Kuck of Emporia, Kas., States Teachers college in 1926.

Sam Francis, all-American fullback from the University of Nebraska and Olympic shot putter, heaved the 16-pound ball 51 feet 6 inches to better the mark of 51 feet 3 3-8 inches set by Elwyn Dees of Kansas in 1935, and then got a daily double with a victory in the discus on a toss of 144 feet 3 3-4 inches.

The high jump, steeplechase and university mile team race marks were the others to fall. Jack Vickery, lanky University of Texas athlete, and Thomas Stevens, Pittsburg, Kas., Teachers college ace, eased over the bar at 6 feet 6 3-8 inches to better the high jump mark set by Shaw of Wisconsin in 1930 by 3-16 of an inch.

Tommy Deckard, slim, frail-appearing youngster who was a potent factor in the large afternoon enjoyed by the University of Indiana squad, accounted for the other two records.

Deckard trotted, jumped and waded his way around the 3,000-meter steeplechase course in 9:25 to better the mark of 9:30.4 he set last year, and then led the field in the university mile team race with a time of 4:23.2.

His team mate, Don Lash, set the previous record of 4:23.3 last year.

Cunningham trailed his most persistent rival, Archie San Romani of Emporia, Kas., State Teachers college, to the tape in a special mile match race. The time of 4:14.1 was 1.4 seconds slower than the meet record established by Cunningham in 1934.

The slender San Romani dogged Cunningham's footsteps the first two laps, which were covered in 2:14, then edged into the lead which he held to the finish.

While most of the record-breaking was centering about the special events, Coach E. C. (Bill) Hayes' Indiana team methodically was going about the business of all but cornering the first places in the university relay events.

The Hoosiers won the half-mile, the two-mile, the one-mile team race, the distance medley and the one-mile relay, in addition to Deckard's individual prize in the steeplechase. They did not enter any other events.

Deckard and Lash, a pair of iron men, were the shining lights of the sturdy Indiana squad. Lash participated in three races, and his sprint finish in the mile team race in which he placed second to Deckard was one of the prettiest sights of the day.

CHAMPION SEEKS PERMANENT CAMP FOR TITLE MATCH

Jersey Jim To Work Out In Gym Until His Manager Reaches Chicago

By Charles Dunkley

CHICAGO, April 17.—(AP)—Weary of Wisconsin's north woods, James J. Braddock returned to Chicago today to await selection of a permanent training camp for his scheduled titular battle with Joe Louis here in June.

The world's heavyweight champion made hurried arrangements to do road work and gymnasium chores pending arrival of his manager, Joe Gould, from New York on Tuesday. Gould is considering several sites, but favors Golfmore club, near Michigan City, Ind., 60 miles from Chicago. Braddock plans to start road work tomorrow, and figures on starting his gymnasium routine Monday.

Due to the slow breaking up of winter in the northern woods, Braddock was able to get in only two or three days of road work, one of his favorite routines, and hurriedly left his woodland camp on little Lake Sissadagama. The woodland trails were ankle deep in mud because of the spring thaws, and with the danger of turning an ankle in the loose footing, he was obliged to forego actual running to develop his legs and wind, devoting most of his time to wood chopping and a bit of gymnasium exercise.

The champion weighs 199 pounds and he looks to be in fairly good condition, following his two weeks in the wilds. This is seven pounds more than he hopes to scale for the fight, if and when the bout becomes an actuality, escaping the injunction sought by the Madison Square Garden corporation to force Braddock to fight Max Schmeling in New York, June 3.

The champion's road work will consist of five miles each morning in jogging, brisk walks and sprints.

Braddock, with his sparring partners, Jack McCarthy and Charley Massera, was accompanied to Chicago by Joseph Triner, chairman of the Illinois state athletic commission.

Triner said that Braddock figured he was two weeks behind in his training program, and that his time is growing precious with the bout just two months away.

HALL BEATS SABIN TO WIN NORTH-SOUTH TITLE

PINEHURST, N. C., April 17.—(AP)—Gilbert Hall, veteran from South Orange, N. J., defeated Wayne Sabin of Hollywood, Calif., 7-5, 6-4, 8-6, today to win the singles title of the North and South tennis championships.

Eunice Dean of San Antonio, Tex., overcame Mrs. Virginia Rice Johnson of Boston for the women's singles championship, 7-5, 6-3.

Hall and Sabin teamed late in the day to win the men's doubles title from Martin Buxby of Miami and Elwood Cooke of Portland, Ore., 2-6, 9-7, 8-6, 6-2.

Hall and Mrs. Johnston defeated Miss Florence LeBoutellier of Westbury, L. I., and Cook 7-5, 6-8, 7-5 for the mixed doubles' title.

CRAWFORDS AND TIGERS IN 2 GAMES HERE TODAY

Two strong negro baseball teams, the Crawfords from Pittsburg, Pa., and the Tigers, of Cincinnati, O., will clash here this afternoon in a double-header at Stovall park, the first game beginning at 1:15 o'clock.

Johnny Washington, a former member of the Monroe Monarchs, is playing as a first baseman with the Crawfords, and Pepper Bassett, former Baton Rouge negro, is the catcher for the same team. As a feature of the series, Bassett will catch one entire inning while sitting in a rocking chair, it was announced.

The two teams were brought to Monroe through the efforts of Frank Johnson, former Monroe Monarch, and Haywood Jackson.

SEWANEE NETMEN WIN

UNIVERSITY, Miss., April 17.—(AP)—Mississippi university's net team dropped its third match of the year here today to a powerful group of Sewanee Racketeers, 4-2, with Lawrence Adams standing out for the Red and Blue. Adams won over Billy Crook, 6-3, and 6-4, to score Ole Miss' only singles win, and paired up with Gill Shelton for a doubles match, downing Rudy Cravens and Crook 2-6, 6-3, 6-2.

EXHIBITION SCORES

TIGERS SHADE REDS

DAYTON, O., April 17.—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers staged two big rallies in as many innings today and came from behind to defeat the Cincinnati Reds 9 to 8 in the third game of an exhibition series.

Making his first start since he was injured in an automobile accident in Florida March 27, Al Hollingsworth held Mickey Cochrane's men to six hits in four innings, while the Reds were lacing young Jakey Wade for four markers.

Mooty replaced Hollingsworth in the fifth and yielded but one blow, Greenberg smashing a home run to score Gehringer ahead of him.

Rudy York, rookie third sacker, followed with another circuit blow in the seventh, off Wild Bill Hallahan.

Score by innings:

Cincinnati (N) ..031 011 020— 8 12 1
Detroit (A) .....000 350 10x— 9 8 2

Hollingsworth, Mooty, Hallahan and V. Davis; Wade, Hatter and Hayworth, Tebbetts.

YANKS NOSE OUT DODGERS

BROOKLYN, April 17.—(AP)—The world champion New York Yankees, although held to five hits, evened their Ebbets' Field series with the Dodgers today by putting on a fourth-inning rally for a 2 to 1 victory.

A two-bagger by Jake Powell, singles by Babe Dahlgreen and Bill Dickey and Tony Lazzeri's long fly, all off Roy Henshaw, gave the Yanks all their runs.

Monte Pearson and Frank Makosky held the Dodgers to six hits and kept them scoreless until the ninth when Jack Winsett caught one of Makosky's slants and poled it over the right field wall for a homer.

Score by innings:

New York (A) ..000 200 000— 2 5 1
Brooklyn (N) ...000 000 001— 1 6 0

Pearson, Makosky and Dickey; Henshaw, Hamlin, Eisenstat and Phelps.

RED SOX BEAT BEES

BOSTON, April 17.—(AP)—The Boston Red Sox opened their two-game intra-city series with the Bees with a 7-5 victory today.

Frank (Pinky) Higgins started the American leaguers on the right path in the second inning when he belted a homer into the left field pavilion. The Red Sox put on a four-run rally in the fourth and added two more tallies in the sixth.

After Jack Wilson fanned the first three Bees to face him, they piled on him for three hits which, plus a pass and two sacrifices, resulted in three runs in the second inning. Vince DiMaggio cleared the barrier in left field after Debs Garms singled in the seventh.

Score by innings:

Boston (A) ......010 420 000— 7 11 0
Boston (N) ......030 000 200— 5 10 1

CHISOX SHADE CUBS

CHICAGO, April 17.—(AP)—The American league White Sox evened Chicago's spring city series at five-all today by defeating the National league Cubs, 3 to 2, on consecutive doubles by Dixie Walker and Zeke Bonura, with two out in the eighth.

The blows, sixth and seventh off Bill Lee, who went the route for the losers, broke a 2-2 tie.

Stan Hack's fourth inning home run off Vern Kennedy with Ken O'Dea on base accounted for the only two Cub tallies. Monty Stratton held the north siders to four scattered hits in the last five innings. The 11th and deciding game of the annual series will be played at Wrigley Field tomorrow.

Score by innings

Chicago (N) ....000 200 000—2 9 2

BROWNS WALLOP CARDS

ST. LOUIS, April 17.—(AP)—Pounding Paul Dean and Bob Weiland unmercifully, the St. Louis American league Browns turned the first of a two-game "city championship series" with the National league Cardinals into a rout today, winning 17 to 5.

The Browns probably shattered Dean's hopes for a comeback, their unrelenting attack collecting seven runs during the one and two-thirds innings he was in the box. Weiland was so ineffective the American leaguers scored nine more tallies. Mike Ryba and Lon Warneke also saw service. Harlond Clift, Browns' third baseman, took slugging honors for the day, getting two homers and a double.

Score by innings:

St. Louis (A) .....160 000 163—17 20 0
St. Louis (N) .....000 002 120— 5 10 1

PHILLIES TRIM A'S

PHILADELPHIA, April 17.—(AP)—The Phillies bunched 10 of their hits in the first three innings to score nine runs, then fought a belated rally by the Athletics to defeat their city rivals, 9 to 7, today.

Seven of the runs were scored off George Turbeville who lasted only two innings. Four of them were knocked in by Morrie Arnovich, rookie outfielder. Bud Thomas and Randy Gumpert shutout the Phils after the third, but Orville Jorgens, although he weakened in the closing innings, pitched effectively in the pinches.

Philadelphia (A) 000 002 212— 7 12 3

Turbeville, Thomas, Gumpert and Hayes; Jorgens and Atwood.

GIANTS TRIM INDIANS

NEW YORK, April 17.—(AP)—Dick Bartell banged out two homers and Rookie Johnny McCarthy hit one today as the Giants opened their home Polo grounds with a 6 to 1 exhibition victory over the Cleveland Indians.

While Hal Schumacher and Freddy Fitzsimmons divided the Giants' hurling assignment, limiting the Tribe to half a dozen hits, the New Yorkers belted Earl Whitehill freely until he was taken out with the bases loaded in the eighth. Willis Hudlin pulled out of the hole and finished up.

The Giants' big inning came in the fourth, when they shoved four runs over, two of them on Bartell's first round-tripper with a mate on base.

Score by innings:

Cleveland ....000 100 000— 1 6 0
New York ......010 400 10x— 6 11 1

pitcher for Bunkie, La., last year's semi-pro state champion.

The newly organized Crossett outfit, composed largely of employes of the new pulp and paper mill which recently started operations here, finds itself starting the season without an official name. A contest is now in progress in conjunction with the Crossett theater to select a name by popular vote. The name chosen will be announced from the stage of the Crossett theater Friday night.

Performance of the club in pre-season and exhibition games points to a heavy-hitting aggregation. In their first game of the year at Camden last week they were nosed out, 4 to 3, but drove two pitchers from the mound Wednesday to defeat El Dorado's Cotton States club, 11 to 8.

MAROONS TROUNCE L. S. U. AGAIN, 13-2

STATE COLLEGE, Miss., April 17.—(AP)—Herman Woods limited Louisiana State university to three hits and the Mississippi State Maroons romped over the Tigers 13-2 to make a clean sweep of the four-game series.

An error which put Hundley on second gave Walker a chance to put the Tigers in the lead in the first frame, but the Bengals did not count again until the last frame when they added another.

Herman Woods' pitching kept the Tigers baffled, and at no time were the Maroons threatened after they got the lead in the fifth. They battered three Tiger hurlers for 12 runs in the last three innings.

Score by innings:

HUSKY CREW WINS

OAKLAND, Calif., April 17.—(AP)—The University of Washington made a clean sweep today in its 34th annual regatta with the University of California, winning all three crew races by wide margins. about seventh and the Athletics get the call for the cellar hole.

In the National, we like the Giants because they've got the pitching. Then, too, the infield won't be so bad when Mr. Terry picks up Dolph Camilli to plug that hole at first base. The outfield will stack up with the best of 'em.

Lots of the boys are picking the Cardinals, but honestly, we can't tell why. Dizzy Dean and Lon Warneke are pretty fair chunkers but they can't work every other day. And the word is out that Charley Grimm knew something when he traded Lon to the Cards. Outside of those two, the pitching staff is nothing to brag about. The infield isn't set, the outfield is a problem and if this guy Owens doesn't click, who's Mr. Frisch going to use as a catcher?

It looks like the Cubs in second place, the Cards maybe third and the Reds horning in for a slice of the first division money. The lower bracket should consist of Pittsburgh, Brooklyn, Boston and the Phillies in that order.

If you don't like those selections, pick your own.

SHORT TAKES

The Detroit Tigers have never finished last in the American league. The Red Sox have the dubious distinction of finishing in the cellar more times than any other club, 10. The Athletics have been the tail-end club nine times.

Every club in the National has finished last at one time or another. Believe it or not, Brooklyn is the only club that has brought up the rear only once.

Cold statistics reveal that Carl Hubbell is a much better pitcher than Dizzy Dean. Hubbell's earned run average in the majors is 2.70 to Dean's 3.07. And Carl has won an even 50 more ball games than the loud-mouthed Cardinal hurler.

At least 50 fans will drive to Vicksburg Wednesday to see the Twins open the season against the Billies.

Ouachita Parish High school is making an outstanding athletic record this year. The girls won the state basketball championship, the tennis team swept all but one title at the district rally at Ruston recently and yesterday the baseball team copped the rally crown. Head coaches at the Parish school are "Lefty" Haynes, football; Mrs. Elizabeth Manhein, girls' basketball; Leo Hartman, baseball; George Riser, tennis, and Ben Rush, track.

Gaynell Tinsley signed up for one tough job when he agreed to become head football coach at Louisiana college. It's quite a jump from player to college coach in one season and the former all-America's many friends up this way are pulling for him to take it in stride.

And now Max Baer thinks he's all washed up. That makes it unanimous.

At least four veteran baseball men have told us that Eddie McLane's Burt, a second baseman, and Lewis, a pitcher, look like major league prospects.

The Ouachita Valley league begins what officials believe will prove its most successful season. New parks have been built at Brown Paper mill, Crossett and Bastrop. It looks like a big year in the Valley.

OLE MISS TRACKMEN NOSE OUT GREENIES

UNIVERSITY, Miss., April 17.—(AP)—In a meet excitingly close up to the final event, Mississippi defeated today a capable Tulane Greenie team in the first resumption of track relations between the schools since 1927. Gaining a split in the final event, the broad jump, Mississippi won, 60-52.

Harold Moskoff tied Dave White, Tulane, with a 21 foot 7 3-4 inch leap to give Ole Miss a commanding margin in points and the meet.

Eddie Mack Morgan, half mile and mile entrant for Mississippi, Harry Waugh, Tulane, sprint winner in the 100 and 220, and George Kohl, hurdle winner for Tulane, tied for high point honors with 10 each.

Ole Miss, sweeping the mile, half mile and two mile, proved strongest in distance events on the cinders. Tulane held two-man advantages in the 440 and pole vault. First places went to the Rebs with a 7 1-2 to 6 1-2 count.

Only until results of the broad jump were posted was the outcome of the meet certain. Point scoring was even at 48-48 until Ole Miss carried the two mile and halved the jump event.

L. S. U. LOSES TRACK MEET TO RICE OWLS, 61 TO 56

BATON ROUGE, La., April 17.—(AP)—Louisiana State university's track and field team lost its first dual meet in six years today. Rice institute's sturdy Harriers defeated the Tigers 61-56, their thrilling mile relay victory bringing victory.

With the score knotted at 56-56, the Rice relay team sped through the mile in the fast time of 3:19.5.

The Salvation Army in Monroe, of which Adjutant and Mrs. Glen Washburn are commanding officers, will be host to Lieutenant-Commissioner and Mrs. Ernest Pugmire, southern territorial commanders, and other state officers of the Army, on Tuesday. The visit here will complete a trip made by the party through Louisiana and to El Dorado, Ark., for the making of an inspection.

Commissioner Pugmire is one of four highest ranking officers of the Salvation Army in the United States and his visit here will be of wide interest, as he has served the Army in high posts of duty both in the United States and abroad and is a speaker of ability.

The party will include, among others, Major and Mrs. Sidney E. Cox, territorial young people's secretary; Major and Mrs. Herbert Bartlett, divisional commanders, and officers of the Salvation Army located in many cities of Louisiana.

Together with his party, Commissioner Pugmire will be guest of honor at the Lions club luncheon at Hotel Frances, Tuesday noon. He will be presented to the club president, E. C. Gibson, by Mayor Arnold Bernstein. Members of the Lions club are inviting other dinner club members to attend this luncheon.

A radio program will be given from 5 to 5:15 p.m., while an open air meeting will be held at DeSiard and Catalpa streets at 7 p.m. Adjutant W. K. Howarth will be in charge.

The biggest meeting of the day, however, will be that at the First Methodist church, at 8 p.m. This will be open to the entire public of both cities. Addresses will be made by Commissioner Pugmire and other visiting officers. Special music will be rendered by the Shreveport Corps band, directed by Bandmaster Walter Lane.

M'KENZIE GETS LEGION HONOR

Appointed To Coordination Committee Of National Organization

Charles E. McKenzie of Monroe, chairman of the finance committee of the American Legion and past commander of the Louisiana department, which post he held in 1927, Saturday was notified by National Commander Harry W. Colmery of the American Legion that he has been appointed to the committee for "coordination, revision and rescission of conflicting convention mandates and resolutions." This committee is an adjunct to the national policies committee on which Mr. McKenzie served three years from 1931 to 1934, and has for its purpose the coordination of the actions of the past 16 conventions of the American Legion and bringing them down to date in accordance with the policies of the organization.

Having never missed either a state or national convention of the American Legion since he attended the first one in 1921 at New Orleans, Mr. McKenzie is not only well informed on the internal policies of the American Legion but has had a large and active part in helping formulate those policies.

In addition to his new appointment and his service as department commander, Mr. McKenzie has served two terms as a member of the national executive committee, has served on both the national convention legislative committee and finance committee and was a member of the bonus resolutions committee which drafted and pushed through the adoption of the bonus bill and its ultimate payment.

His appointment to the coordination committee, legion officials declare, is in recognition of his ability and intimate knowledge of veterans' affairs and national legislation.

SAFETY SLOGAN CONTEST FOR 4 HIGH SCHOOLS OF RICHLAND INAUGURATED

RAYVILLE, La., April 17.—(Special)—The Richland parish accident prevention committee, in cooperation with the Junior Literary club of Rayville, is sponsoring a "safety slogan contest" in the four high schools of Richland parish.

The purpose of the contest is to make the high school pupils of Richland parish "safety conscious," and to stimulate interest in the Junior Literary club.

A three-dollar prize for the best slogan, and a two-dollar prize for the second best will be awarded.

Rules for the contest have been sent to the principals of the high schools and a committee of three teachers has been selected to judge the slogans in each school. The five best slogans from each school are to be submitted to the committee, which was selected by the accident prevention committee.

The contest rules include the following regulations: Slogans submitted must relate to safety on the streets, roads or highways and must not exceed 10 words; entries will be judged for clearness, forcefulness and individuality; work must be original with individual pupil.

Committees selected for each school are as follows: Mangham—Mrs. Chiristine McConnell, Miss Ola Cooper and Mrs. Floy Randall; Delhi—Misses Helen Colvin, Irene Deloney and Cecil Richman; Rayville—Mesdames Ted McCoy, Evelyn Mulhearn and Mr. Roy Green; Start—Misses Elsie Robinson, Willie Brown and Dorothy Phillips.

FIRE STARTS AFTER MUSIC GETS 'HOT'

The music furnished by the Coverdale band for the Delta Beta Sigma dance at Lakeside Country club proved "hot stuff" about 12:45 a.m. Saturday morning.

In the midst of a swing number one of the dancers noticed smoke and after investigating found that a mop, used to wax floors and which had been left standing against a wall at the back of the band stand, had fallen near a lighted gas heater and ignited. L. J. Hunnicutt, Monroe fire inspector, was at the country club at the time and helped to put out the blaze, which caused no damage.

After the excitement had subsided the band swung from "hot" music into straight rhythm.

INDUSTRIAL AND BUSINESS REVIEW OF THE TWIN CITIES NORTH LOUISIANA'S COMMERCIAL CENTER

SERVEL SPONSORS 'MARCH OF TIME'

Program Based On Actual News Rated One Of Best Features In Country

The program, "March of Time," a dramatic presentation of news events broadcast every Thursday evening is now sponsored by Servel, Inc., manufacturers of Servel Electrolux refrigerators, according to United Electric Service local distributors, who have just received the announcement from Louis Ruthenburg, president of Servel.

"This program, based on actual news as it is happening, interpreting events of international significance, is of interest to everyone," Mr. Becker, general manager said. "The realism of the presentation makes the actual scene seem to occur in the living rooms of the listeners.

"Since the news-dramatization program originated in March, 1931, 'March of Time' has been named one of the three best dramatic programs each year in the annual polls conducted among radio editors of the United States and Canada by the New York World Telegram. Each program requires the services of more than 20 actors, 19 musicians, eight production, service and sound-effects experts, and 11 editorial and research workers. This number is frequently increased according to the demands of the scripts.

"Five microphones are used in making the broadcast. One is for close-ups, another for 'mobs,' the third, fourth and fifth for sound, music and 'auditorium' effects. Voices of headliners in the world's news are simulated by the actors, many of whom have been regular members of the cast since it first came to the air.

"Because news-events are re-enacted within such a short time of their occurrence, rehearsals are exceedingly strenuous, scripts being prepared, cut and revised up to the last second before the program goes on the air. In spite of this time-pressure, each performance has been outstanding for the excellence of its dramatization.

"During the sponsorship of the program by Servel, Inc., the dramatizations will continue to be prepared by the editors of 'Time,' the news-magazine, as they have been since the program was originated more than six years ago."

BRAKES SAFE ON NEW CHEVROLETS

Manufacturer Stresses Safety In Building Popular Models For 1937

One of the most important aspects of motoring these days is the business of motoring safety. Safety campaigns are under way in all the major cities of the United States. Various commissions have been appointed to study the problem and make recommendations to legislative bodies.

The primary responsibility for traffic safety, however, lies with the motor car driver.

The manufacturer has provided all the safety devices that the sane driver should require. He has built the Turret top, all-steel body to protect driver and passengers. He has provided a powerful engine that has enough power to pull the car out of unexpected situations.

And in Chevrolet, we have given the public a new and perfected hydraulic braking system that is one of the safest and surest that it is possible to build.

There are more than 100 reasons why the Chevrolet brake is all but fool-proof, and these are the careful and meticulous inspections of every part that goes into the brake along with the checks that are made during assembly of the various brake parts.

A recent checkup of operations revealed that there are more than fourscore of parts that go into the Chevrolet brake. Each is inspected during machining operations and at various specified intervals along the brake assembly line. Specifications must be met to the thousandth of one inch. Balance must be perfect, hardness and strength must conform to standards. Each part must fit the others precisely.

The checkup showed that there are over 100 manufacturing operations in the fabrication of the completed brake. Each of these includes an inspection by the worker on each particular job. In addition, special inspectors check up at specified intervals.

Exposed parts are given a bath in a special anti-rust solution to insure against deterioration and to guard against any possible impairment of the brake's functioning.

Within the shops, special safety features guard the workmen against all hazards. Every machine is equipped with guards to make it almost impossible for a man to get hurt.

The precise grinding of the brake shoes means that in the assembled brake the power is evenly distributed over the entire braking surface. The final adjustment of the brake provides that an expansion of nine-thousandths of an inch will brake the car.

From the hub of the wheel in to the little hydraulic cylinder that provides the braking power, each part of the Chevrolet brake has been made to conform to rigid engineering standards to provide the utmost in safety insurance to the automobile driver.

Next to the alertness of the driver himself, the most important thing to be considered in motoring safety is the car's braking system.

The Salvation Army in Monroe, of which Adjutant and Mrs. Glen Washburn are commanding officers, will be host to Lieutenant-Commissioner and Mrs. Ernest Pugmire, southern territorial commanders, and other state officers of the Army, on Tuesday. The visit here will complete a trip made by the party through Louisiana and to El Dorado, Ark., for the making of an inspection.

Commissioner Pugmire is one of four highest ranking officers of the Salvation Army in the United States and his visit here will be of wide interest, as he has served the Army in high posts of duty both in the United States and abroad and is a speaker of ability.

The party will include, among others, Major and Mrs. Sidney E. Cox, territorial young people's secretary; Major and Mrs. Herbert Bartlett, divisional commanders, and officers of the Salvation Army located in many cities of Louisiana.

Together with his party, Commissioner Pugmire will be guest of honor at the Lions club luncheon at Hotel Frances, Tuesday noon. He will be presented to the club president, E. C. Gibson, by Mayor Arnold Bernstein. Members of the Lions club are inviting other dinner club members to attend this luncheon.

Major Cox will be presented at the Louisiana Training institute at 3 p.m. by Dr. Harvey Dillon, superintendent of the school, at a special musical service.

A radio program will be given from 5 to 5:15 p.m., while an open air meeting will be held at DeSiard and Catalpa streets at 7 p.m. Adjutant W. K. Howarth will be in charge.

The biggest meeting of the day, however, will be that at the First Methodist church, at 8 p.m. This will be open to the entire public of both cities. Addresses will be made by Commissioner Pugmire and other visiting officers. Special music will be rendered by the Shreveport Corps band, directed by Bandmaster Walter Lane.

It has been estimated that less than 20 per cent of the inmates of American penal institutions have had high school education.

Appointed To Coordination Committee Of National Organization

Charles E. McKenzie of Monroe, chairman of the finance committee of the American Legion and past commander of the Louisiana department, which post he held in 1927, Saturday was notified by National Commander Harry W. Colmery of the American Legion that he has been appointed to the committee for "coordination, revision and rescission of conflicting convention mandates and resolutions." This committee is an adjunct to the national policies committee on which Mr. McKenzie served three years from 1931 to 1934, and has for its purpose the coordination of the actions of the past 16 conventions of the American Legion and bringing them down to date in accordance with the policies of the organization.

Having never missed either a state or national convention of the American Legion since he attended the first one in 1921 at New Orleans, Mr. McKenzie is not only well informed on the internal policies of the American Legion but has had a large and active part in helping formulate those policies.

In addition to his new appointment and his service as department commander, Mr. McKenzie has served two terms as a member of the national executive committee, has served on both the national convention legislative committee and finance committee and was a member of the bonus resolutions committee which drafted and pushed through the adoption of the bonus bill and its ultimate payment.

His appointment to the coordination committee, legion officials declare, is in recognition of his ability and intimate knowledge of veterans' affairs and national legislation.

SAFETY SLOGAN CONTEST FOR 4 HIGH SCHOOLS OF RICHLAND INAUGURATED

RAYVILLE, La., April 17.—(Special)—The Richland parish accident prevention committee, in cooperation with the Junior Literary club of Rayville, is sponsoring a "safety slogan contest" in the four high schools of Richland parish.

The purpose of the contest is to make the high school pupils of Richland parish "safety conscious," and to stimulate interest in the Junior Literary club.

A three-dollar prize for the best slogan, and a two-dollar prize for the second best will be awarded.

Rules for the contest have been sent to the principals of the high schools and a committee of three teachers has been selected to judge the slogans in each school. The five best slogans from each school are to be submitted to the committee, which was selected by the accident prevention committee.

The contest rules include the following regulations: Slogans submitted must relate to safety on the streets, roads or highways and must not exceed 10 words; entries will be judged for clearness, forcefulness and individuality; work must be original with individual pupil.

Committees selected for each school are as follows: Mangham—Mrs. Christine McConnell, Miss Ola Cooper and Mrs. Floy Randall; Delhi—Misses Helen Colvin, Irene Deloney and Cecil Richman; Rayville—Mesdames Ted McCoy, Evelyn Mulhearn and Mr. Roy Green; Start—Misses Elsie Robinson, Willie Brown and Dorothy Phillips.

FIRE STARTS AFTER MUSIC GETS 'HOT'

The music furnished by the Coverdale band for the Delta Beta Sigma dance at Lakeside Country club proved "hot stuff" about 12:45 a.m. Saturday morning.

In the midst of a swing number one of the dancers noticed smoke and after investigating found that a mop, used to wax floors and which had been left standing against a wall at the back of the band stand, had fallen near a lighted gas heater and ignited. L. J. Hunnicutt, Monroe fire inspector, was at the country club at the time and helped to put out the blaze, which caused no damage.

After the excitement had subsided the band swung from "hot" music into straight rhythm.

SERVEL SPONSORS 'MARCH OF TIME'

Program Based On Actual News Rated One Of Best Features In Country

The program, "March of Time," a dramatic presentation of news events broadcast every Thursday evening is now sponsored by Servel, Inc., manufacturers of Servel Electrolux refrigerators, according to United Electric Service local distributors, who have just received the announcement from Louis Ruthenburg, president of Servel.

"This program, based on actual news as it is happening, interpreting events of international significance, is of interest to everyone," Mr. Becker, general manager said. "The realism of the presentation makes the actual scene seem to occur in the living rooms of the listeners.

"Since the news-dramatization program originated in March, 1931, 'March of Time' has been named one of the three best dramatic programs each year in the annual polls conducted among radio editors of the United States and Canada by the New York World Telegram. Each program requires the services of more than 20 actors, 19 musicians, eight production, service and sound-effects experts, and 11 editorial and research workers. This number is frequently increased according to the demands of the scripts.

"Five microphones are used in making the broadcast. One is for close-ups, another for 'mobs,' the third, fourth and fifth for sound, music and 'auditorium' effects. Voices of headliners in the world's news are simulated by the actors, many of whom have been regular members of the cast since it first came to the air.

"Because news-events are re-enacted within such a short time of their occurrence, rehearsals are exceedingly strenuous, scripts being prepared, cut and revised up to the last second before the program goes on the air. In spite of this time-pressure, each performance has been outstanding for the excellence of its dramatization.

"During the sponsorship of the program by Servel, Inc., the dramatizations will continue to be prepared by the editors of 'Time,' the news-magazine, as they have been since the program was originated more than six years ago."

BRAKES SAFE ON NEW CHEVROLETS

Manufacturer Stresses Safety In Building Popular Models For 1937

One of the most important aspects of motoring these days is the business of motoring safety. Safety campaigns are under way in all the major cities of the United States. Various commissions have been appointed to study the problem and make recommendations to legislative bodies.

The primary responsibility for traffic safety, however, lies with the motor car driver.

The manufacturer has provided all the safety devices that the sane driver should require. He has built the Turret top, all-steel body to protect driver and passengers. He has provided a powerful engine that has enough power to pull the car out of unexpected situations.

And in Chevrolet, we have given the public a new and perfected hydraulic braking system that is one of the safest and surest that it is possible to build.

There are more than 100 reasons why the Chevrolet brake is all but fool-proof, and these are the careful and meticulous inspections of every part that goes into the brake along with the checks that are made during assembly of the various brake parts.

PLEA TO IMPROVE COTTON QUALITY

President Of Texas Association Urges Selection Of Better Seed

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following address was given before the annual convention of the Texas Cotton association in Galveston March 19, 1937, by Harmon Whittington, president of the association, in an effort to obtain cooperation of cotton planters to devote attention to better selection of seed as one of the most important problems before cotton producers today.)

By Harmon Whittington

I am going to say just a few words about another of our problems—a very important one, which we may be able to do something about.

I refer to the deterioration in the quality of Texas cotton. No one connected with the merchandising of cotton in Texas has to search his memory very far to recall that not very many years ago a Texas bill-of-lading brought a premium for the cotton it represented when compared to cotton of a corresponding grade and staple produced in other sections of the United States, and for that matter, the balance of the world. And, a bill-of-lading signed in Greenville, Paris, and a great many other Texas points commanded a still greater premium for the cotton it represented.

Spinners, the world over, bought Texas cotton knowing that they would get good spinnable cotton. The merchants of Texas took great pride in the product they distributed—they were proud to be handlers of quality Texas cotton. There was very little trouble about quality claims from abroad, because everyone who handled a bale of cotton from the farmer on up to the exporter handled it with care, and with a sense of responsibility that the Texas brand was upon it.

We all know this is not true today, Texas cotton has deteriorated badly, but, of course, in some sections this deterioration is much more pronounced than in others. With this deterioration in quality has come a certain amount of deterioration in our shipping standards, and the two things together certainly are not helping the prestige of Texas cotton. I do not mean to be critical of anyone, because we have probably done the best that we could with what we have had to work with. To my certain knowledge there are a great many mills in the world which formerly could not think of buying anything but Texas cotton who now prefer cotton from other sections of the south or of exotic growth.

While Texas has been deteriorating, other states experiencing the same condition, realized the situation, and went to work on an improvement program, with the result that the average length of staple produced in North and South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Louisiana has increased during the past five years.

Not only has the staple length in Texas been progressively deteriorating, but the decrease in lint yield per acre as well is astonishing. Here are the figures:

10-Year Average	Lint Yield Per Acre (Lbs.)
1870-79	211
1880-89	187
1890-99	188
1900-09	170
1910-19	156
1920-29	132
1930-34 (5 years)	128
1936	119

As a comparison, please note the yields in the above mentioned states last year:

North Carolina	305
South Carolina	279
Georgia	228
Alabama	234
Louisiana	265
Average for the United States	197.6

Some of this deterioration in quality and yield can be attributed to drouthy conditions, but we cannot lay the blame on nature, and overlook what the aforementioned figures indicate is the real cause, namely, the inferior quality of planting seed used.

Our geographical location forces us to export most of our cotton, as our freight rates to the southeastern mills are too high to be overcome unless we can produce kinds of cotton that are worth the difference in freight.

With our principal outlet being export, we have enough handicaps thrown in our way in the matter of the protective tariff, price pegging, etc. It seems to me we can only assume that we will have them with us always, although let us hope something will be worked out which will at least partially offset these handicaps, even if we have to do another "wrong" to right a "wrong," in adopting some measure like a "domestic allotment."

I don't think anyone can have much of an idea about what may happen, but something will happen eventually which will give Texas agriculture the justice it deserves; maybe not in the lifetime of some of us, but it will come. But, whether Texas produces 2,000,000 bales or 5,000,000 bales, and whether it is spun domestically or goes export, we all know that we must produce a quality product if we are going to meet the competition of other states and of other new producing countries.

When any of us buy anything for our personal use, or for our business, we try to get our money's worth, and you can be sure that a spinner is going to have the same feeling about the cotton he buys. Texas is fast losing her export markets. Every day we feel the encroachment of foreign growths.

Figures to date this season indicate that the world will consume probably 29,500,000 bales of all growths, an all time record, being almost 2,000,000 bales more than last year. Of this total, we will consume in this country about 7,600,000 bales, leaving 21,900,000 bales for the rest of the world. Of this the United States will supply about 5,000,000 bales.

In the season 1927-28 the world consumption was 25,442,000 bales, of which we consumed 6,834,000 bales, leaving 18,608,000 bales for the rest of the world, of which the United States supplied 9,041,000 bales. Looking at it from a percentage standpoint, this year American cotton will constitute about 42 per cent of the world consumption, compared to 62.39 per cent in 1927-28.

Some people (not many cotton merchants) still cling to the idea that foreign countries produce cotton of inferior quality, but the opposite is true. Most of the new cotton countries are producing cotton far superior to Texas cotton. In these new countries most of the planting seed is carefully selected, and distributed under government supervision. The state seed and plant board's figures show that 35 per cent of the certified seed produced in Texas last fall has been shipped to foreign countries for planting purposes. A few years ago foreign spinners would say that they preferred American cotton—and some may still say it, but I think the spinners who do, have been influenced by the lack of continuity of supply, and the lack of experience of exporters in some of the new countries in classing and shipping even-running grades and staples.

With increased production of cotton in these new countries the continuity of supply is assured, and, of course, the exporters are becoming more experienced in the technical and detail requirements of the business.

These new countries start off with a distinct advantage over us, because they are debtor nations, and thus are able to export their cotton in payment of their debts, and for fresh imports of manufactured goods.

What I have said is a picture of the situation as it exists today.

Most of us have grown up in the cotton business in Texas—put our lives into it. Now, are we going to sit idly by and see the cotton production, the lifeblood of the state deteriorate and our livelihoods pass away from us? Texas cannot get along without cotton—what will a vast majority of the people do without cotton production? Based on a population of 6,000,000, about 22 per cent of the population is directly dependent on cotton, and all the balance is dependent to some varying degree.

All of us have been too lax in our duty towards this great problem—but that is always the way—danger and sorrow are never realized until you meet them face to face. We now have to realize the great danger, and must do everything possible to assist in the restoration of Texas cotton to the place it formerly occupied. It seems now an insurmountable task, but it can be done; not all this year, but with a lot of hard work and cooperation on the part of different interested groups we should see results over a period of two or three years.

FOUR INJURED IN SANDWICH SHOP ROW

Four persons, two women and two men, were hurt in a fight which took place Saturday morning at 2 o'clock at a sandwich shop located on the corner of Grammont and Sixth streets, in which glasses were said to have been used as weapons.

The persons involved were Irene Fleming, Bernice Bamberg, Joe Cascio and C. Cascio, who were taken in an ambulance to St. Francis sanitarium for treatment and later arrested and charged with fighting. They were released after each had posted a $25 cash bond.

The fight is reported to have started when the two Cascios, who are brothers, resented certain remarks made by the women. Although painfully hurt as a result of the fight, none was seriously injured.

The World's Latest Market News

COTTON

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, April 17.—(AP)—The trend was reversed today on the cotton market here and prices moved ahead fifty cents to nearly a dollar a bale to close the week on the upturn.

Most of the buying appeared to be short covering for over the week-end by those wishing to take profits on the $3 a bale decline of the week.

Some new long lines were put out because of an exceptionally favorable response from Liverpool market this morning.

The English market cabled that the opinion there was the current break in commodity prices was too rapid and a good trade and speculative demand had entered the market there.

Like usually astute industry traders sent heavy buying orders into Liverpool from Bombay.

The domestic situation showed little change, and news was bearish, if any thing. The weather began to approximate normal in most of the belt and planting was making rapid progress.

One report from northeast Louisiana said that in an effort to make up for a late start farmers were planting night and day, using search lights for night field work. Planting had been delayed there by backwaters from the recent Mississippi river high water.

May closed at New Orleans at 13.25, July at 13.25, Oct. at 13.01 and Dec. at 13.07. While up good sized amounts from yesterday's close, the market was off $1.25 to nearly $3.50 a bale on the week.

Exports today were 19,288 bales.

Cotton futures closed steady at net advances of 11 to 18 points.

Sugar

NEW YORK, April 17.—(AP)—There was a sharp break in the No. 4 sugar contracts today. Prices at the outset showed declines of 3 to 9 points under heavy liquidation encouraged by weakness in London and unfavorable reports from the sugar conference.

Stop orders were uncovered, sending July contracts off to 1.13 and September to 1.14 1-2 or 8 to 9 points net lower. Convering developed on the setback and there were partial recoveries from the lowest although final prices were still 5 to 7 1-2 points net lower. Sales 50,250 tons.

The No. 3 contract, however, held steady. After advancing 2 to 5 points on trade covering there were reactions under realizing with the market closing 1 point lower for the spot month and unchanged to 3 higher on later positions with sales of 7,850 tons.

HARD LUCK SEEMS TO FOLLOW THIS FAMILY

LAKE PROVIDENCE, La., April 17.—(Special)—Hard luck in the form of broken bones seems hot on the trail of Mrs. J. S. Guenard and her only sister, Mrs. Nita Byerly, members of one of the oldest and most prominent families of Lake Providence.

Mrs. Guenard, who is in her seventies, slipped and fell while hanging out a towel on the back porch of her home, and fractured her hip. She is now a patient at Martin's infirmary at Vicksburg.

Several years ago Mrs. Guenard fell and broke her arm. A few weeks later Mrs. Byerly fell and broke her arm.

Several weeks ago Mrs. Byerly fell down the steps at her home and broke her leg, and the cast had just been taken off when Mrs. Guenard fell and broke her hip.

NEW YORK STOCKS

By Victor Eubank

NEW YORK, April 17.—(AP)—Mild support appeared for leading stocks in today's market and a number of specialties pushed up substantially.

Dealings were exceptionally quiet, even for a Saturday, and numerous issues held to a restricted area throughout the session. There was an assortment of losers at the close.

Tending to promote a slightly better feeling toward the list was a moderate comeback in some major communities which suffered a world-wide crash yesterday on European peace moves and rumors of an arms conference among the powers in the near future.

Bolstering stock favorites also were brighter earnings statements and favorable dividend actions.

Coppers, leading Friday's slow retreat, drifted to still lower levels.

Transfers were around 450,000 shares.

Many traders remained in neutral territory pending transmission of the president's budget message to congress next week.

Predictions the chief executive will stress "economy" in his advice to the lawmakers helped to lift U. S. government securities in the bond department. Corporation loans were uneven.

Buoyed by further business optimism, Certain-teed, International Printing Ink and Mead Corp. got up 2 points or so each, the latter two at new peaks for the year.

Dome Mines rallied when directors declared extra disbursement to stockholders of $2 a share. Armour was comparatively lively on the upside on the lifting of this company's dividend.

Others displaying improvement most of the time included Loew's, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Bulova Watch, N. Y. Central, Allied Chemical, American Can, du Pont, Chrysler, Graham-Paige, Boeing, Plymouth Oil and Shell Union Oil.

Narrow to off as much as a point or more were Anaconda, Kennecott, American Smelting, Seaboard Oil, General Electric, Cerro de Pasco, General Motors, Chrysler, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Goodrich, U. S. Rubber, Sears Roebuck, Great Northern, Southern Railway, Lone Star Cement, Canada Dry, Revere Copper and Consolidated Edison.

Followers of the oils apparently were somewhat confused by the Oklahoma ultimatum threatening a severance tax on petroleum unless prices are advanced "immediately." While it was thought this will hasten a general rise in crude, some observers expressed the opinion artificial pressure would not be healthy in the long run.

Automotive stocks were studied in view of conjectures regarding a possible boost in car prices this fall. Some quarters suggested a raise was unlikely if a sufficient volume of business develops, as anticipated, to absorb strike losses, higher wages and greater steel costs.

PLEA TO IMPROVE COTTON QUALITY

President Of Texas Association Urges Selection Of Better Seed

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following address was given before the annual convention of the Texas Cotton association in Galveston March 19, 1937, by Harmon Whittington, president of the association, in an effort to obtain cooperation of cotton planters to devote attention to better selection of seed as one of the most important problems before cotton producers today.)

By Harmon Whittington

I am going to say just a few words about another of our problems—a very important one, which we may be able to do something about.

I refer to the deterioration in the quality of Texas cotton. No one connected with the merchandising of cotton in Texas has to search his memory very far to recall that not very many years ago a Texas bill-of-lading brought a premium for the cotton it represented when compared to cotton of a corresponding grade and staple produced in other sections of the United States, and for that matter, the balance of the world. And, a bill-of-lading signed in Greenville, Paris, and a great many other Texas points commanded a still greater premium for the cotton it represented.

Spinners, the world over, bought Texas cotton knowing that they would get good spinnable cotton. The merchants of Texas took great pride in the product they distributed—they were proud to be handlers of quality Texas cotton. There was very little trouble about quality claims from abroad, because everyone who handled a bale of cotton from the farmer on up to the exporter handled it with care, and with a sense of responsibility that the Texas brand was upon it.

We all know this is not true today, Texas cotton has deteriorated badly, but, of course, in some sections this deterioration is much more pronounced than in others. With this deterioration in quality has come a certain amount of deterioration in our shipping standards, and the two things together certainly are not helping the prestige of Texas cotton. I do not mean to be critical of anyone, because we have probably done the best that we could with what we have had to work with. To my certain knowledge there are a great many mills in the world which formerly could not think of buying anything but Texas cotton who now prefer cotton from other sections of the south or of exotic growth.

While Texas has been deteriorating, other states experiencing the same condition, realized the situation, and went to work on an improvement program, with the result that the average length of staple produced in North and South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Louisiana has increased during the past five years.

Not only has the staple length in Texas been progressively deteriorating, but the decrease in lint yield per acre as well is astonishing. Here are the figures:

10-Year Average	Lint Yield Per Acre (Lbs.)
1870-79	211
1880-89	187
1890-99	188
1900-09	170
1910-19	156
1920-29	132
1930-34 (5 years)	128
1936	113

As a comparison, please note the yields in the above mentioned states last year:

North Carolina	305
South Carolina	279
Georgia	228
Alabama	234
Louisiana	265
Average for the United States	197.6

Some of this deterioration in quality and yield can be attributed to drouthy conditions, but we cannot lay the blame on nature, and overlook what the aforementioned figures indicate is the real cause, namely, the inferior quality of planting seed used.

Our geographical location forces us to export most of our cotton, as our freight rates to the southeastern mills are too high to be overcome unless we can produce kinds of cotton that are worth the difference in freight.

With our principal outlet being export, we have enough handicaps thrown in our way in the matter of the protective tariff, price pegging, etc. It seems to me we can only assume that we will have them with us always, although let us hope something will be worked out which will at least partially offset these handicaps, even if we have to do another "wrong" to right a "wrong," in adopting some measure like a "domestic allotment."

I don't think anyone can have much of an idea about what may happen, but something will happen eventually which will give Texas agriculture the justice it deserves; maybe not in the lifetime of some of us, but it will come. But, whether Texas produces 2,000,000 bales or 5,000,000 bales, and whether it is spun domestically or goes export, we all know that we must produce a quality product if we are going to meet the competition of other states and of other new producing countries.

When any of us buy anything for our personal use, or for our business, we try to get our money's worth, and you can be sure that a spinner is going to have the same feeling about the cotton he buys. Texas is fast losing her export markets. Every day we feel the encroachment of foreign growths.

Figures to date this season indicate that the world will consume probably 29,500,000 bales of all growths, an all time record, being almost 2,000,000 bales more than last year. Of this total, we will consume in this country about 7,600,000 bales, leaving 21,900,000 bales for the rest of the world. Of this the United States will supply about 5,000,000 bales.

In the season 1927-28 the world consumption was 25,442,000 bales, of which we consumed 6,834,000 bales, leaving 18,608,000 bales for the rest of the world, of which the United States supplied 9,041,000 bales. Looking at it from a percentage standpoint, this year American cotton will constitute about 42 per cent of the world consumption, compared to 62.39 per cent in 1927-28.

Some people (not many cotton merchants) still cling to the idea that foreign countries produce cotton of inferior quality, but the opposite is true. Most of the new cotton countries are producing cotton far superior to Texas cotton. In these new countries most of the planting seed is carefully selected, and distributed under government supervision. The state seed and plant board's figures show that 35 per cent of the certified seed produced in Texas last fall has been shipped to foreign countries for planting purposes. A few years ago foreign spinners would say that they preferred American cotton—and some may still say it, but I think the spinners who do, have been influenced by the lack of continuity of supply, and the lack of experience of exporters in some of the new countries in classing and shipping even-running grades and staples.

With increased production of cotton in these new countries the continuity of supply is assured, and, of course, the exporters are becoming more experienced in the technical and detail requirements of the business.

These new countries start off with a distinct advantage over us, because they are debtor nations, and thus are able to export their cotton in payment of their debts, and for fresh imports of manufactured goods.

What I have said is a picture of the situation as it exists today.

Most of us have grown up in the cotton business in Texas—put our lives into it. Now, are we going to sit idly by and see the cotton production, the lifeblood of the state deteriorate and our livelihoods pass away from us? Texas cannot get along without cotton—what will a vast majority of the people do without cotton production? Based on a population of 6,000,000, about 22 per cent of the population is directly dependent on cotton, and all the balance is dependent to some varying degree.

All of us have been too lax in our duty towards this great problem—but that is always the way—danger and sorrow are never realized until you meet them face to face. We now have to realize the great danger, and must do everything possible to assist in the restoration of Texas cotton to the place it formerly occupied. It seems now an insurmountable task, but it can be done; not all this year, but with a lot of hard work and cooperation on the part of different interested groups we should see results over a period of two or three years.

FOUR INJURED IN SANDWICH SHOP ROW

Four persons, two women and two men, were hurt in a fight which took place Saturday morning at 2 o'clock at a sandwich shop located on the corner of Grammont and Sixth streets, in which glasses were said to have been used as weapons.

The persons involved were Irene Fleming, Bernice Bamberg, Joe Cascio and C. Cascio, who were taken in an ambulance to St. Francis sanitarium for treatment and later arrested and charged with fighting. They were released after each had posted a $25 cash bond.

The fight is reported to have started when the two Cascios, who are brothers, resented certain remarks made by the women. Although painfully hurt as a result of the fight, none was seriously injured.

COTTON

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, April 17.—(AP)—The trend was reversed today on the cotton market here and prices moved ahead fifty cents to nearly a dollar a bale to close the week on the upturn.

Most of the buying appeared to be short covering for over the week-end by those wishing to take profits on the $3 a bale decline of the week.

Some new long lines were put out because of an exceptionally favorable response from Liverpool market this morning.

The English market cabled that the opinion there was the current break in commodity prices was too rapid and a good trade and speculative demand had entered the market there.

Like usually astute industry traders sent heavy buying orders into Liverpool from Bombay.

The domestic situation showed little change, and news was bearish, if any thing. The weather began to approximate normal in most of the belt and planting was making rapid progress.

One report from northeast Louisiana said that in an effort to make up for a late start farmers were planting night and day, using search lights for night field work. Planting had been delayed there by backwaters from the recent Mississippi river high water.

May closed at New Orleans at 13.25, July at 13.25, Oct. at 13.01 and Dec. at 13.07. While up good sized amounts from yesterday's close, the market was off $1.25 to nearly $3.50 a bale on the week.

Exports today were 19,288 bales.

Cotton futures closed steady at net advances of 11 to 18 points.

NEW YORK, April 17—(AP)—There was a sharp break in the No. 4 sugar contracts today. Prices at the outset showed declines of 3 to 9 points under heavy liquidation encouraged by weakness in London and unfavorable reports from the sugar conference.

Stop orders were uncovered, sending July contracts off to 1.13 and September to 1.14 1-2 or 8 to 9 points net lower. Converting developed on the setback and there were partial recoveries from the lowest although final prices were still 5 to 7 1-2 points net lower. Sales 50,250 tons.

The No. 3 contract, however, held steady. After advancing 2 to 5 points on trade covering there were reactions under realizing with the market closing 1 point lower for the spot month and unchanged to 3 higher on later positions with sales of 7,850 tons.

HARD LUCK SEEMS TO FOLLOW THIS FAMILY

LAKE PROVIDENCE, La., April 17.—(Special)—Hard luck in the form of broken bones seems hot on the trail of Mrs. J. S. Guenard and her only sister, Mrs. Nita Byerly, members of one of the oldest and most prominent families of Lake Providence.

Mrs. Guenard, who is in her seventies, slipped and fell while hanging out a towel on the back porch of her home, and fractured her hip. She is now a patient at Martin's infirmary at Vicksburg.

Several years ago Mrs. Guenard fell and broke her arm. A few weeks later Mrs. Byerly fell and broke her arm. Several weeks ago Mrs. Byerly fell down the steps at her home and broke her leg, and the cast had just been taken off when Mrs. Guenard fell and broke her hip.

NEW YORK STOCKS

By Victor Eubank

NEW YORK, April 17.—(AP)—Mild support appeared for leading stocks in today's market and a number of specialties pushed up substantially.

Dealings were exceptionally quiet, even for a Saturday, and numerous issues held to a restricted area throughout the session. There was an assortment of losers at the close.

Tending to promote a slightly better feeling toward the list was a moderate comeback in some major communities which suffered a world-wide crash yesterday on European peace moves and rumors of an arms conference among the powers in the near future.

Bolstering stock favorites also were brighter earnings statements and favorable dividend actions.

Coppers, leading Friday's slow retreat, drifted to still lower levels.

Transfers were around 450,000 shares.

Many traders remained in neutral territory pending transmission of the president's budget message to congress next week.

Predictions the chief executive will stress "economy" in his advice to the lawmakers helped to lift U. S. government securities in the bond department. Corporation loans were uneven.

Buoyed by further business optimism, Certain-teed, International Printing Ink and Mead Corp. got up 2 points or so each, the latter two at new peaks for the year.

Dome Mines rallied when directors declared extra disbursement to stockholders of $2 a share. Armour was comparatively lively on the upside on the lifting of this company's dividend.

Others displaying improvement most of the time included Loew's, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Bulova Watch, N. Y. Central, Allied Chemical, American Can, du Pont, Chrysler, Graham-Paige, Boeing, Plymouth Oil and Shell Union Oil.

Narrow to off as much as a point or more were Anaconda, Kennecott, American Smelting, Seaboard Oil, General Electric, Cerro de Pasco, General Motors, Chrysler, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Goodrich, U. S. Rubber, Sears Roebuck, Great Northern, Southern Railway, Lone Star Cement, Canada Dry, Revere Copper and Consolidated Edison.

Followers of the oils apparently were somewhat confused by the Oklahoma ultimatum threatening a severance tax on petroleum unless prices are advanced "immediately." While it was thought this will hasten a general rise in crude, some observers expressed the opinion artificial pressure would not be healthy in the long run.

Automotive stocks were studied in view of conjectures regarding a possible boost in car prices this fall. Some quarters suggested a raise was unlikely if a sufficient volume of business develops, as anticipated, to absorb strike losses, higher wages and greater steel costs.

PRINTING INDUSTRY MAKES BIG GAINS

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 17.—(Special)—Substantial increases were shown by Louisiana printing and publishing companies during 1933 over the preceding depression years, the bureau of the census said today when it set the value of products at approximately $10,000,000.

The 170 establishments in the state had total receipts during the year 1935 amounting to $10,229,409, the bureau reported.

There were 1,597 persons employed as wage earners who received $2,048,922 as salaries for that period.

Dividing the printing and publishing industry into two sections, the bureau reported that the "newspaper and periodical" industry had total receipts amounting to $7,026,536, a total payroll (wage earners) of $1,210,073 for the 885 employes in the 69 establishments in the Pelican state. The summary for the "music, book and job" industry showed total receipts which amounted to $3,202,873, payroll of $838,849 for the 712 employes in the 101 establishments.

ORGANIZATION OF CIVIC CLUB URGED FOR JENA

JENA, La., April 17.—(Special)—A commercial club or chamber of commerce for Jena is being urged by Rev. B. T. Goodwin, pastor of the Jena First Baptist church.

Businessmen and civic leaders are discussing the idea and definite developments toward forming such an organization are expected soon.

Jena had not had such an organization since a Lions club here ceased to function about five years ago.

Rev. Goodwin, commenting on the proposed plan, said: "The future of Jena depends on we who live here. If our business will join hands, forget competitive jealousies and work united for the upbuilding of Jena and this section, I can see no reason why the very near future would not bring untold returns from every practical standpoint."

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

THE EVER-BURNING FLAME.—Atop the mountain Koya San near Nara, Japan, is a remarkable cemetery—one of the most sacred spots in all Japan to the followers of Buddhism. At the far end of the cemetery is the tomb of Kobo Daishi, founder of the Shingon sect of Buddhism, who lived from 774 to 834 A. D. His real name was Priest Kukai, the name Kobo Daishi—which means "Law-spreading Great Teacher"—being given him posthumously by the Emperor Daigo in 921. Directly in front of his sacred tomb, open to all pilgrims, hangs an ever-burning lamp, the flame of which has never been allowed to die out since interment of his ashes in the year 834. In the early days it was fed with heavy vegetable oils, but today more modern fuel is used. Several lanterns are kept in reserve, so that in case of accident or repairs to the present lantern, the flame can be quickly transferred. The mushroom-shaped top of the lantern is a solid mass of soot which is never removed.

LIGHT THAT BAFFLES SCIENCE.—Scientists have puzzled for centuries over the nature of the firefly's light. It seems to be caused by certain mysterious chemicals in the fat tissues which become luminous when combining with the sides of the firefly's body. But all efforts to reproduce an artificial light of similar quality and brilliancy have failed.

PRINTING INDUSTRY MAKES BIG GAINS

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 17.—(Special)—Substantial increases were shown by Louisiana printing and publishing companies during 1933 over the preceding depression years, the bureau of the census said today when it set the value of products at approximately $10,000,000.

The 170 establishments in the state had total receipts during the year 1935 amounting to $10,229,409, the bureau reported.

There were 1,597 persons employed as wage earners who received $2,048,922 as salaries for that period.

Dividing the printing and publishing industry into two sections, the bureau reported that the "newspaper and periodical" industry had total receipts amounting to $7,026,536, a total payroll (wage earners) of $1,210,073 for the 885 employes in the 69 establishments in the Pelican state. The summary for the "music, book and job" industry showed total receipts which amounted to $3,202,873, payroll of $838,849 for the 712 employes in the 101 establishments.

ORGANIZATION OF CIVIC CLUB URGED FOR JENA

JENA, La., April 17.—(Special)—A commercial club or chamber of commerce for Jena is being urged by Rev. B. T. Goodwin, pastor of the Jena First Baptist church.

Businessmen and civic leaders are discussing the idea and definite developments toward forming such an organization are expected soon.

Jena had not had such an organization since a Lions club here ceased to function about five years ago.

Rev. Goodwin, commenting on the proposed plan, said: "The future of Jena depends on we who live here. If our business will join hands, forget competitive jealousies and work united for the upbuilding of Jena and this section, I can see no reason why the very near future would not bring untold returns from every practical standpoint."

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

THE EVER-BURNING FLAME—Atop the mountain Koya San near Nara, Japan, is a remarkable cemetery—one of the most sacred spots in all Japan to the followers of Buddhism. At the far end of the cemetery is the tomb of Kobo Daishi, founder of the Shingon sect of Buddhism, who lived from 774 to 834 A. D. His real name was Priest Kukai, the name Kobo Daishi—which means "Law-spreading Great Teacher"—being given him posthumously by the Emperor Daigo in 921. Directly in front of his sacred tomb, open to all pilgrims, hangs an ever-burning lamp, the flame of which has never been allowed to die out since interment of his ashes in the year 831. In the early days it was fed with heavy vegetable oils, but today more modern fuel is used. Several lanterns are kept in reserve, so that in case of accident or repairs to the present lantern, the flame can be quickly transferred. The mushroom-shaped top of the lantern is a solid mass of soot which is never removed.

LIGHT THAT BAFFLES SCIENCE—Scientists have puzzled for centuries over the nature of the firefly's light. It seems to be caused by certain mysterious chemicals in the fat tissues which become luminous when combining with the sides of the firefly's body. But all efforts to reproduce an artificial light of similar quality and brilliancy have failed.

West Monroe And Sherrouse Addition To Receive New Deliveries

The postoffice department has authorized two deliveries of parcel post daily, and three deliveries of ordinary mail daily by the regular carrier to the following described territory in West Monroe: Wood street, 100, 200, 300 blocks; Commerce street, 100, 200; Cotton street, 100, 200, 300, 400; Natchitoches street, 100, 200, 300, 400; Pine street, 100, 200 300; Trenton street, 100, 200, 300, 400, 500; South First street, 100; Clayton street, 100; Mill street, 100, 200; Bridge street, 100, 200, it was announced by Postmaster J. R. Wooten, Saturday.

Collection of mail from street letter boxes from the same territory has been authoried at 5 p.m. This service will be effective within the next few days.

Authorization has also been received for the extension of city delivery service from the 1500 block up to and including the 4100 block of DeSiard street and to the Sherrouse addition. This extension will be made as soon as the prospective patrons get house numbers and mail receptacles. The postoffice is ready to start the service at any time, but it can not be started until the people comply with the requirements. This extension will serve 216 houses which are not receiving mail service at this time.

At the time this service is inaugurated, rural route No. 3 will be changed from DeSiard street, and the carrier will leave the postoffice and travel Sixth street to Louisville avenue and out Louisville avenue to the intersection of College and DeSiard streets. He will go up Cole to Webster to College and down College to DeSiard. There will be no further change beyond that point.

Two deliveries daily will be made on DeSiard street and to the Sherrouse addition by carrier using an automobile. It is estimated that these extensions will accommodate approximately 1,000 patrons. The people affected are requested to get their mail receptacles and house numbers ready, and the people on Louisville avenue living between Sixth and the intersection of DeSiard who desire mail service by the rural carrier should have their boxes erected and turn in their addresses at the postoffice.

Busy Season Looms For Members Of Monroe Society During Next Few Weeks

Several Important Gatherings Planned

State Medical Convention, Junior League Style Show And Legion Meeting Scheduled

By Eve Bradford

WITH roses in her hair and leafy foliage for a gown, summer is riding saucily into town today. Always in April the city bursts into bloom and every year at this particular time those beautiful lines from "The Salutation of the Dawn" come to mind—"Look to this day! For it is life, the very life of life. In its brief course lie all the verities and realities of one's existence. The bliss of growth, the glory of action, the splendor of beauty—for yesterday is but a dream and tomorrow is only a vision. But today, well-lived, makes every tomorrow a vision of hope. Look well, therefore to this day."

The whole world beckons us out-of-doors today. Just to be alive and in the midst of so much beauty is indeed a privilege. It is all ours for the taking and no doubt every family who owns a car is up this morning and away with the wind for their favorite springtime rendezvous.

Feminine Monroe will need this day of complete relaxation, for tomorrow brings responsibilities, greater and more important than ever before. With the state medical convention convening next Sunday, a fashion revue to be staged on Thursday and a dinner party honoring a distinguished visitor, national president of the American Legion auxiliary, on Wednesday, the week ahead looms up as one of the most important of the season.

Should some misguided cynic be tempted to doubt the efficacy of women's clubs in terms of their accomplishments, Monroe club women need only to guide such a doubting Thomas to one of their meetings where plans are being completed for the entertainment of guests in the city. The Junior Charity league members need only to guide all skeptics to their baby clinic where white-robed, efficient and smiling, they meet the day with high resolve. No social event merits the energy they put into the work of serving sick babies who otherwise would be without proper medical attention. The procedure in this enterprise is uncomplicated and profoundly important to an increasing number of needy families in this parish.

Funds derived from the style revue are used exclusively for the baby clinic, so make an honest-to-goodness effort to be there. In the vernacular of the street, give the leaguers a "big hand." Suzanne Kellogg's prowess as mistress of ceremonies is so well recognized that she is being pressed into service again this year—this, of course, means that perfection of detail will result.

The old fashioned habit of "honoring thy father and thy mother," has not passed completely from this earth, we are glad to note. We heard the other day that Jo Craig, lovely young daughter of Llewella Hays, who went east six years ago to carve a niche for herself in the business world, was married last week to a young easterner. Instead of taking a honeymoon trip the young couple decided to take up residence immediately in their beautiful new home and send for Jo's mother, so that they might all be together, en famille, for a few weeks. This is really quite the nicest thing we have ever heard of a young bride doing.

Never have we seen a more beautiful bride than Melba Liner. Looking as cool as the olive in a Martini, she walked down a white lily bordered path with white ivory prayer book, flaunting a single superb orchid, clasped firmly in her two hands. The coolness, the peace and the sanctity of it all was really most impressive. Melba and Robert will be vagabonds for two blissful weeks, honeymooning "somewhere along the coast." However, Melba is very likely to appear in Monroe any day now, so eager is she to ship those gorgeous wedding gifts to New Orleans.

When a man bites a dog, that's news. It is also news when someone who has never had a hair cut walks into the barber shop and asks to have her long, blonde tresses snipped to the shoulders. Kitty Oliver went the way of all flesh last week, and now she is sporting a most becoming bob. Unlike Samson shorn of his locks, she feels that she is out of bondage and that greater freedom is hers. Her lovely hair falling below her waist was lovely but so is the curl on her neck.

"The meek shall inherit the earth." We realized this when we heard that Gipsy Smith, illustrious father of the golden-tongued Gipsy, Jr., who has held us spellbound for a week with his gift of oratory, refused a knighthood offered him by the king of England for his outstanding work in the World war. The highest decoration the king is able to bestow upon a commoner, was refused by this great man who preferred to walk unknighted among his fellow men. However, he will be present at the coronation at the request of the monarch. He was also present at the coronation of George V. The presence in the city last week of Gipsy Smith, Jr., serves to remind us how necessary it is to pause occasionally and drink deep at the spiritual fount—to "sit by the side of the road and listen to the music of the spheres."

Mrs. H. H. Land entertained the Study club last Wednesday afternoon. Pink and lavender verbena, stock and columbine, beautifully arranged in vases, was placed in the living room.

Mrs. Neal McHenry gave a splendid review of the Atlantic prize novel, "Old Jules." She stated that the book not only gave a vivid portrayal of the character of old Jules, but also gave a portrayal of the pioneer life of a community in northwest Nebraska. Old Jules, though strong and courageous, was often cruel to his wife and children. He whipped his three-months-old sick baby because she cried during the night, and beat his hard-working wife. Yet he had the tenacity and the courage to establish a community and to hold on to his land in spite of the efforts of the cattle men to get rid of him.

At the conclusion of the program hour Mrs. Land served a delicious frozen salad course to the following: Madames David Garrett, William Rodriguez, Lewis Slator, Alf Reid, Aylmer Montgomery, Henry Montgomery, C. C. Boardman, Eugene Flournoy, Neal McHenry, Carl McHenry, D. X. Ellett, Sr., and Miss Carrie D. Drew.

Busy Season Looms For Members Of Monroe Society During Next Few Weeks

State Medical Convention, Junior League Style Show And Legion Meeting Scheduled

By Eve Bradford

WITH roses in her hair and leafy foliage for a gown, summer is riding saucily into town today. Always in April the city bursts into bloom and every year at this particular time those beautiful lines from "The Salutation of the Dawn" come to mind—"Look to this day! For it is life, the very life of life. In its brief course lie all the verities and realities of one's existence. The bliss of growth, the glory of action, the splendor of beauty—for yesterday is but a dream and tomorrow is only a vision. But today, well-lived, makes every tomorrow a vision of hope. Look well, therefore to this day."

The whole world beckons us out-of-doors today. Just to be alive and in the midst of so much beauty is indeed a privilege. It is all ours for the taking and no doubt every family who owns a car is up this morning and away with the wind for their favorite springtime rendezvous.

Feminine Monroe will need this day of complete relaxation, for tomorrow brings responsibilities, greater and more important than ever before. With the state medical convention convening next Sunday, a fashion revue to be staged on Thursday and a dinner party honoring a distinguished visitor, national president of the American Legion auxiliary, on Wednesday, the week ahead looms up as one of the most important of the season.

Should some misguided cynic be tempted to doubt the efficacy of women's clubs in terms of their accomplishments, Monroe club women need only to guide such a doubting Thomas to one of their meetings where plans are being completed for the entertainment of guests in the city. The Junior Charity league members need only to guide all skeptics to their baby clinic where white-robed, efficient and smiling, they meet the day with high resolve. No social event merits the energy they put into the work of serving sick babies who otherwise would be without proper medical attention. The procedure in this enterprise is uncomplicated and profoundly important to an increasing number of needy families in this parish.

Funds derived from the style revue are used exclusively for the baby clinic, so make an honest-to-goodness effort to be there. In the vernacular of the street, give the leaguers a "big hand." Suzanne Kellogg's prowess as mistress of ceremonies is so well recognized that she is being pressed into service again this year—this, of course, means that perfection of detail will result.

The old fashioned habit of "honoring thy father and thy mother," has not passed completely from this earth, we are glad to note. We heard the other day that Jo Craig, lovely young daughter of Llewella Hays, who went east six years ago to carve a niche for herself in the business world, was married last week to a young easterner. Instead of taking a honeymoon trip the young couple decided to take up residence immediately in their beautiful new home and send for Jo's mother, so that they might all be together, en famille, for a few weeks. This is really quite the nicest thing we have ever heard of a young bride doing.

Never have we seen a more beautiful bride than Melba Liner. Looking as cool as the olive in a Martini, she walked down a white lily bordered path with white ivory prayer book, flaunting a single superb orchid, clasped firmly in her two hands. The coolness, the peace and the sanctity of it all was really most impressive. Melba and Robert will be vagabonds for two blissful weeks, honeymooning "somewhere along the coast." However, Melba is very likely to appear in Monroe any day now, so eager is she to ship those gorgeous wedding gifts to New Orleans.

When a man bites a dog, that's news. It is also news when someone who has never had a hair cut walks into the barber shop and asks to have her long, blonde tresses snipped to the shoulders. Kitty Oliver went the way of all flesh last week, and now she is sporting a most becoming bob. Unlike Samson shorn of his locks, she feels that she is out of bondage and that greater freedom is hers. Her lovely hair falling below her waist was lovely but so is the curl on her neck.

"The meek shall inherit the earth." We realized this when we heard that Gipsy Smith, illustrious father of the golden-tongued Gipsy, Jr., who has held us spellbound for a week with his gift of oratory, refused a knighthood offered him by the king of England for his outstanding work in the World war. The highest decoration the king is able to bestow upon a commoner, was refused by this great man who preferred to walk unknighted among his fellow men. However, he will be present at the coronation at the request of the monarch. He was also present at the coronation of George V. The presence in the city last week of Gipsy Smith, Jr., serves to remind us how necessary it is to pause occasionally and drink deep at the spiritual fount—to "sit by the side of the road and listen to the music of the spheres."

City To Welcome Legion Auxiliary President

Local Units To Fete Mrs. George W. Hahn

Dinner Party On Hotel Virginia Roof Will Permit Members To Meet Distinguished Woman

A distinguished visitor, Mrs. Oscar W. Hahn, of Nebraska, national president of the American Legion auxiliary, will be welcomed in this city on Wednesday when she pays her annual visit to the American Legion auxiliary of this state.

A dinner party on the roof of the Virginia hotel in her honor will permit members of the legion and auxiliary in the fourth and fifth districts to enjoy the magnetic personality of a most remarkable woman. Her address will be a noteworthy one, judging from the glowing press accounts of the past year.

It takes a woman of outstanding qualifications to meet the requirements of a president of one of the greatest of all women's patriotic organizations; a woman with great energy to fulfill the demands placed upon her; one with quick intellect to make decisions that affect the welfare and policies of the society of which she is national leader. It takes a woman with charm and poise to represent this vast organization before the entire country.

That the 430,000 women who comprise the American Legion auxiliary were convinced that they had found such a woman in Mrs. Hahn is attested by the fact that when the momentous time arrived for that army of women to select its leader for this year, her name alone was presented to the auxiliary's national convention in Cleveland last September for the office of national president.

Mrs. Hahn's early background is most colorful. She is descended from the sturdy stock that pioneered in the early days of the nation and that helped to settle and to re-develop the vast reaches of the middle west.

Mrs. C. L. Mengis, president of the local auxiliary, will preside during the dinner hour. She will introduce Mayor Arnold Bernstein, who will welcome Mrs. Hahn in behalf of the city of Monroe. Other distinguished visitors introduced at this time will be Mrs. Patti Carter Hulin of Bunkie, department president of the American Legion auxiliary, and Mrs. Steve McCormick, of Destrehan, national executive committeewoman.

Old-Time Bride's Trousseau Surprising

What the well dressed bride of 50 years ago considered necessary for the trousseau might surprise the young woman who lives in this age of shorts and scanties. A reporter for the New York Journal made these fashion discoveries in June, 1887.

The dear little bride-to-be of 1887 who must make all her purchases, even to the wedding gown itself, within $50, is pictured going around from shop to shop with anxious face, wondering whether John would approve of a traveling dress of gray tweed at 25 cents a yard or whether she had better get a brown cashmere and do without the lace front to her wedding dress of white nun's veiling.

The average trousseau then seldom cost more than $500. A nice one the fashion reporter mentioned could be bought for $200 and many brides got along with even less. The old-fashioned idea that a girl should have sufficient clothing to last for three years after her marriage was waning, even in 1887 as recorded in the old newspaper.

"A dozen of each kind of undergarment is all that should be purchased at one time," said an employe of one of the establishments where wedding outfits were made. "The other articles generally needed are: One dozen pairs of stockings, a traveling dress, wrap and bonnet suitable to the season, a visiting dress, usually of silk; two or three morning dresses, or wrappers, a church toilette and a wedding gown. Of course, one may add to the list indefinitely, but these are generally considered necessary.

"Then two new pairs of shoes, two pairs of slippers, a dozen handkerchiefs, a half dozen linen collars and as many pairs of cuffs; a box of ruching, a half dozen small veils and a complete set of hairpins and toilet articles are among the smaller articles needed. At this season the summer outfit is prepared and includes a parasol, a light wrap ar ' wash dresses.

"A trousseau we now are preparing is one of the most costly ever made in this city," said a Fifth avenue modiste of 50 years ago. "We have made every article except the wedding dress, which we imported from Paris. That is of white satin and point lace and cost $300 for the dress, $500 for the lace and the veil of Brussels point cost $1,000. We have made up two dozen dresses, a half dozen morning gowns and 13 bonnets and hats, and each dress has shoes or slippers and all etceteras to match.

"The underwear is of China and surah silk, which, you know, is used almost exclusively by wealthy people in summer, and it is said to be cooler than either cambric or linen. There are 12 sets, all hand-made, and each trimmed with Valenciennes lace."

One set was made of rose pink surah, almost as thin as gauze, and deep flounces of lace edged it. The night robe had angel sleeves and was fastened with little pink pearl buttons and the skirt was trimmed with four flounces of lace. Delicate sea-green, white, palest blue, lavender and ecru were among the other colors. One thousand dollars was expended on these garments, making each one of the 48 average $20.

As an example of severe simplicity in 1887 was a Worth wedding dress of ivory cream satin of great weight and thickness, yet as soft as surah. The dress had a four-yard train, falling from treble box plaits at the waist; a round neck and short puffed sleeves of the bodice had a row of real pearls for buttons and narrow edging of point lace about neck and sleeves. The front drapery was a masterpiece of artistic folds and fell to the edge of the dress, caught at one side by a large pearl buckle.

Fine Arts Club Meeting Conducted

The April meeting of the Fine Arts club in the home of Mrs. Ben Stern with Mrs. R. F. McCook, hostess, was featured by a splendid report of the Federated Music club convention in Franklin by Miss Rosalia Kusin, delegate.

A committee was named at this time to compile next year's yearbook.

Mrs. Nell Grigsby, program chairman of the evening, introduced Miss Stella Vinson, who talked in interesting manner on the subject of best plays of 1928-1933. Others introduced were: Mr. Leon Hammond, who rendered a piano solo and Mrs. H. H. Douglas who read an article on the ballet, prepared by Miss Armandine Renaud. Mrs. Dean Selig sang a lovely number "April Morn."

The young son of the hostess, Jack McCook, contributed a cornet solo accompanied by his mother on the piano.

During the social hour, delicious refreshments were served from a beautifully appointed refreshment table in the dining room. Mrs. McCook presided over the punch bowl and was assisted in serving the confections by Miss Grace McCook and Mrs. Stern.

Members present were: Miss Ladell Duke, Mrs. H. H. Douglas, Mrs. Nell Grigsby, Miss Eleona Brinsmade, Mr. Leon Hammond, Mr. Joe Craig, Mr. Fred Rosenbaum, Mrs. Ben Stern, Miss Stella Vinson, Miss Rosalie Kusin and the hostess.

City To Welcome Legion Auxiliary President

Dinner Party On Hotel Virginia Roof Will Permit Members To Meet Distinguished Woman

A distinguished visitor, Mrs. Oscar W. Hahn, of Nebraska, national president of the American Legion auxiliary, will be welcomed in this city on Wednesday when she pays her annual visit to the American Legion auxiliary of this state.

A dinner party on the roof of the Virginia hotel in her honor will permit members of the legion and auxiliary in the fourth and fifth districts to enjoy the magnetic personality of a most remarkable woman. Her address will be a noteworthy one, judging from the glowing press accounts of the past year.

It takes a woman of outstanding qualifications to meet the requirements of a president of one of the greatest of all women's patriotic organizations; a woman with great energy to fulfill the demands placed upon her; one with quick intellect to make decisions that affect the welfare and policies of the society of which she is national leader. It takes a woman with charm and poise to represent this vast organization before the entire country.

That the 430,000 women who comprise the American Legion auxiliary were convinced that they had found such a woman in Mrs. Hahn is attested by the fact that when the momentous time arrived for that army of women to select its leader for this year, her name alone was presented to the auxiliary's national convention in Cleveland last September for the office of national president.

Mrs. Hahn's early background is most colorful. She is descended from the sturdy stock that pioneered in the early days of the nation and that helped to settle and to re-develop the vast reaches of the middle west.

Mrs. C. L. Mengis, president of the local auxiliary, will preside during the dinner hour. She will introduce Mayor Arnold Bernstein, who will welcome Mrs. Hahn in behalf of the city of Monroe. Other distinguished visitors introduced at this time will be Mrs. Patti Carter Hulin of Bunkie, department president of the American Legion auxiliary, and Mrs. Steve McCormick, of Destrehan, national executive committeewoman.

Old-Time Bride's Trousseau Surprising

What the well dressed bride of 50 years ago considered necessary for the trousseau might surprise the young woman who lives in this age of shorts and scanties. A reporter for the New York Journal made these fashion discoveries in June, 1887.

The dear little bride-to-be of 1887 who must make all her purchases, even to the wedding gown itself, within $50, is pictured going around from shop to shop with anxious face, wondering whether John would approve of a traveling dress of gray tweed at 25 cents a yard or whether she had better get a brown cashmere and do without the lace front to her wedding dress of white nun's veiling.

The average trousseau then seldom cost more than $500. A nice one the fashion reporter mentioned could be bought for $200 and many brides got along with even less. The old-fashioned idea that a girl should have sufficient clothing to last for three years after her marriage was waning, even in 1887 as recorded in the old newspaper.

"A dozen of each kind of undergarment is all that should be purchased at one time," said an employe of one of the establishments where wedding outfits were made. "The other articles generally needed are: One dozen pairs of stockings, a traveling dress, wrap and bonnet suitable to the season, a visiting dress, usually of silk; two or three morning dresses, or wrappers, a church toilette and a wedding gown. Of course, one may add to the list indefinitely, but these are generally considered necessary.

"Then two new pairs of shoes, two pairs of slippers, a dozen handkerchiefs, a half dozen linen collars and as many pairs of cuffs; a box of ruching, a half dozen small veils and a complete set of hairpins and toilet articles are among the smaller articles needed. At this season the summer outfit is prepared and includes a parasol, a light wrap a' wash dresses.

"A trousseau we now are preparing is one of the most costly ever made in this city," said a Fifth avenue modiste of 50 years ago. "We have made every article except the wedding dress, which we imported from Paris. That is of white satin and point lace and cost $300 for the dress. $500 for the lace and the veil of Brussels point cost $1,000. We have made up two dozen dresses, a half dozen morning gowns and 13 bonnets and hats, and each dress has shoes or slippers and all etceteras to match.

"The underwear is of China and surah silk, which, you know, is used almost exclusively by wealthy people in summer, and it is said to be cooler than either cambric or linen. There are 12 sets, all hand-made, and each trimmed with Valenciennes lace."

One set was made of rose pink surah, almost as thin as gauze, and deep flounces of lace edged it. The night robe had angel sleeves and was fastened with little pink pearl buttons and the skirt was trimmed with four flounces of lace. Delicate sea-green, white, palest blue, lavender and ecru were among the other colors. One thousand dollars was expended on these garments, making each one of the 48 average $20.

As an example of severe simplicity in 1887 was a Worth wedding dress of ivory cream satin of great weight and thickness, yet as soft as surah. The dress had a four-yard train, falling from treble box plaits at the waist; a round neck and short puffed sleeves of the bodice had a row of real pearls for buttons and narrow edging of point lace about neck and sleeves. The front drapery was a masterpiece of artistic folds and fell to the edge of the dress, caught at one side by a large pearl buckle.

Marriage Of Miss Melba Liner And Dr. Robert W. Gaston Brilliant Event

Wedding Unites Two Prominent Families

Lakeside Country Club Provides Attractive Setting For Nuptials; Couple To Live At Orleans

The wedding of Miss Melba Liner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Conway Liner, and Dr. Robert W. Gaston, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Gaston, of New Orleans, was a brilliant social event which took place at Lakeside Country club Saturday night, April 10, at 7:30 o'clock.

Immense cathedral tapers burned in a succession of five-foot silver candlesticks in the background where picturesque branches of flowering dogwood blossoms were silhouetted against the ivory walls. Tall white wicker baskets, their handles tied with silver metallic ribbon, formed a decorative enclosure for the wedding party which stood beneath the balcony hung with deep green woodwardia, English ivy and southern smilax.

While the guests were assembling Mr. Leon Hammond rendered a concert on the organ installed for the occasion and concealed by giant palms and ferns. He accompanied Mrs. Briscoe Trousdale, Jr., who sang the nuptial ballads in splendid voice.

The bridal entourage advanced along a white carpeted aisle enclosed with ropes of white satin linking together tall white wicker vases supporting a single Ascension lily tied with fluffs of silvery tulle.

The mantel, banked solid with woodwardia and palms, formed the background for the relatives of the bride and bridegroom. Mrs. Gaston, the bridegroom's mother, wore a lovely evening model of hyacinth blue chiffon over dusty pink chiffon. A corsage of orchids was worn. Mrs. Liner wore a handsome pink lace evening model with arm bouquet of pink roses, blue cornflowers and calendulas. Mrs. Joseph Renwick, Sr., wore a blue lace evening model with corsage of pink Columbia roses.

The ushers, Mr. James Conway Liner, Jr., and Mr. Asher Whitley, of Baton Rouge, and the groomsmen, Mr. Dan Grace, Mr. Harry Graham, Mr. D. A. Moore, Mr. Henry O'Connor and Mr. W. H. Bofinger, Jr., all in formal evening attire, walked down the aisle to the improvised altar where the bridegroom and his best man, his brother, Dr. Nathan Gaston, of this city, awaited. Rev. W. C. Scott, pastor of the First Methodist church, officiated.

The bridesmaids, Miss Marie Collins, Mrs. Milling Bernstein, Mrs. Nathan Gaston and Mrs. Asher Whitley, wore peasant frocks of dusty pink chiffon, very full as to skirt and with short, puffed sleeves and high neckline. They wore pink sandals and carried sprays of gorgeous Oriental full-blown tulips in shades of American Beauty, tied with satin ribbons a shade darker.

The maid of honor, Miss Lela Germany, and the matron of honor, Mrs. Virginia Hammond, of Memphis, Tenn., wore gowns cut on similar lines in poudre blue chiffon. They carried arm bouquets of Oriental tulips.

The beautiful little flower girl, Carolyn Jo Goodwin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Goodwin, of Bastrop, wore a poudre blue chiffon peasant dress, an exact duplicate of those worn by the bride's attendants. She carried a round bouquet of crimson tulips. The ring bearer, James Conway Liner, III, wore a white satin suit with lace collar. He carried the rings on a white satin cushion.

The bridal pair knelt for the blessing on a white satin prie-dieu.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony, and later the bride cut the wedding cake centering a white lace draped table in an alcove. It was a divine confection in wedding ring design with crystallized roses and valley lilies for embossing. Ices and gateaux were passed among the guests by white clad attendants.

The bride changed her wedding gown for a smart tailleur of navy and copper colored wool with paisley blouse and a becoming off-the-face hat of navy straw, and departed with Dr. Gaston for a honeymoon "somewhere along the coast."

Upon their return they will be at home in New Orleans, where Dr. Gaston is a prominent young orthodontist.

The wedding of Miss Liner and Dr. Gaston climaxed long weeks of prenuptial affairs arranged by friends in their honor. Mrs. Gaston is one of Monroe's most distinctive personalities. She attended the University of Alabama and is a member of Alpha Gamma Delta sorority. For the past two years she has served as sorority mother for the Monroe chapter of Delta Beta Sigma. She has been a prominent figure in Junior Charity league circles for the past few years.

Dr. Gaston attended Tulane university and was graduated from Loyola university. He is a member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity. Dr. Gaston is a member of the Southern Yacht club, New Orleans, and is identified with the younger social colony at Pass Christian, where the family maintains a summer home.

The wedding gifts of silver, Haviland, linens and crystal were outstanding for their beauty and lavishness.

EVENING GOWNS STRESS DRAMATIC ALLURE

Birthday Observed By Ann Buckley

Ann Buckley's birthday party at Lakeside Country club Saturday was a joyous event with the lovely young celebrant and her most intimate friends romping and playing in the golden April sunshine during the afternoon hours.

Mrs. A. A. Thoman arranged this colorful affair in commemoration of her niece's tenth birthday anniversary. The joyous afternoon on the wide stretches of green surrounding the club house, climaxed with a tea hour indoors where the young hostess, in a summery frock of white organza, cut the beautifully embossed, candlelit cake. Flowers were scattered along the lace draped table where crystal platters held delicious petit fours decorated in pink and green. Pink and green ices were also served.

Mrs. Thoman was assisted by Mrs. W. S. Buckley and Mrs. W. H. Hatfield in entertaining the following:

Maria Gladney, Sue Ann Windes, Elizabeth Ann Golson, Fred Lee Golson, Patsy Snelling, Emily McCaleb, Jonas Selig, Joan Sugar, Mary Helen Walker, Edith McWilliams, Carolyn Pracher, Bettie Ann Green, Elizabeth Ann Wood, Jane Kilpatrick, Sue Atkinson, Billie Buckley, Gene Hodges, Mary Alice Michel, Mananna Garelick, Martha Ann Scott, C. Mrs. A. M. Scott of Crowville announces the marriage of her daughter, Lucille Scott, of Monroe to Mr. William Warner Sullivan, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Warner Sullivan, Sr., of West Monroe.

The ceremony of lovely simplicity, The ceremony of lovely simplicity took place in West Monroe at the home of Rev. E. E. Huntsberry on Saturday, April 17. Rev. Huntsberry read the marriage sacrament in the presence of a few immediate friends and relatives.

The bride was beautifully attired in a navy blue and white triple sheer with white accessories. She wore a corsage of white carnations. Her only attendant was Mrs. Wilbur D. Ross of Monroe, who was dressed in a biege and black ensemble with matching accessories. Mr. Russell Ray acted as the bridegroom's attendant.

Mr. Sullivan is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High school and Northeast Center, L. S. U.

The young couple will make their home at 102 Ludwig in West Monroe, temporarily.

Mr. Francis Reardon, who has just completed his course of study at a Dallas, Tex., school of aviation, spent several days in the city with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Reardon, before leaving for Lincoln, Neb., where he will be an instructor in the Lincoln school of aviation.

Mrs. Herbert Steed left Saturday for Washington, D. C., to attend the forty-sixth continental congress of Daughters of the American Revolution. Mrs. Steed is serving as alternate to Mrs. C. E. Faulk, regent of Fort Miro chapter, D. A. R.

Mr. Clyde Williams of Fort Benning, Ga., is spending several days with Mrs. Williams in their home on Mitchell lane, West Monroe.

Mr. Travis Oliver, member of the council board of the American Bankers' association, is attending a meeting of the council in Hot Springs, Ark. He was accompanied by Mrs. Oliver, who will enjoy the entertainment planned for the bankers' wives attending the meeting.

A comfortable way to lose about eight pounds a week, but one that requires quite a lot of resistance, is the reducing diet now in vogue at Barnard college. Under the direction of Dr. Guiliema Alsop, college physician, eight students, sitting at a separate table in Hewitt hall, have been eating meals in which vitamins are emphasized, though calories are few. This is the setup Dr. Alsop prescribed:

Breakfast—Raw fruit, one glass of milk, one egg, one slice of whole-grain bread with butter.

Luncheon—Raw fruit, one glass of milk, one hot vegetable or a green salad.

Dinner—One portion of lean meat, one vegetable and green salad or two vegetables, one glass of milk, raw fruit.

The only liberty the girls are given is that they may eat as much raw fruit as they like. No bread is allowed except at breakfast and no snacks between meals. The diet was so rigid that one girl dropped out, but eight are still eating and weighing, according to the doctor's orders.

Friends extend their sincere sympathy to Mrs. O. M. Grisham in the death of her cousin, Mr. Thomas Evans Stone, at his home in Kaufman, Tex. Mr. Stone was well known in this city, where he visited in the Grisham home on several occasions.

The condition of Mrs. Harry Stough, who was severely injured a week ago in an automobile accident, was reported improving yesterday at the Vaughan-Wright-Bendel clinic, but she will not be able to receive visitors for a few more days.

Miss Katherine Day Weds James Askew

Young Couple Members Of Prominent Families; Tallulah Residents Take Part In Nuptials

Claiming the interest of friends in this section of the state and in Vicksburg, Miss., is the wedding of Miss Katherine Moore Day and Mr. James Barnes Askew, son of Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Askew of Vicksburg, on April 14, at the Trinity Episcopal church of Tallulah, at high noon, with Dr. Charles E. Woodson, rector of Christ church, Vicksburg, and Rev. George A. A. Tocher, rector of Trinity church, officiating.

Unusual interest and sentiment is associated with the marriage due to the fact that the groom's grandfather once owned the land where the town of Tallulah now stands, and donated the lot for the erection of Trinity church.

A green and white color scheme was employed in floral decorations of the little chapel with quantities of spirea, iris and dogwood blossoms artistically banked within the chancel, where gleamed myriad tall white candles. Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. W. L. Rountree, accompanied by Mrs. M. A. Phillips, sang "Because" and "I Love You Truly." Miss Annette Beers presided at the organ, rendering Lohengrin's wedding march for the processional and Mendelssohn's for the recessional. During the exchange of vows, "O Promise Me" was rendered pianissimo.

The bride entered on the arm of her father, Dr. Nathan Day, of Jackson, who gave her in marriage. She was radiantly lovely in a white lace model over silk, made with high waist line and long sleeves. The square neck line was finished with an Elizabethan collar of lace. A double veil was fashioned with a band and orange blossoms with clusters of the blossoms at either side. She carried a shower bouquet of brides roses and lilies of the valley.

The maid of honor, Miss Vivian Chastine, of Jackson, and bridesmaids, Miss Ruth LeGette, of New Orleans, and Miss Julia DeLoach, of Jackson, wore gowns of green marquisette over taffeta with charming head pieces from which fell long velvet ribbons of green and lavender. Their flowers were pink roses and lavender sweet peas tied with wide lavender ribbons.

The dainty flower girl, little Helen Herring, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Preston Herring, of Vicksburg, wore a floor length dress of pink marquisette over taffeta and carried a basket of flowers, scattering rose petals in the path of the bride. The men of the bridal party were attired in white linen.

The groom had as his best man Mr. Wilbur Compton, and as groomsmen Mr. Dell Scott and Mr. Eugene Fortson, all of Vicksburg. The ushers were Don Sevier, cousin of the bride, and Willie Laughlin of Vicksburg.

Immediately after the wedding the bridal party and a few intimate friends and relatives were entertained at a wedding breakfast at the home of the uncle and aunt of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Sevier. Later Mr. and Mrs. Askew left for a motor trip to New Orleans and the gulf coast, where they will spend their honeymoon. They will be at home to their friends after May 1 at the home of the groom's parents in Vicksburg.

Mr. Askew is a valued employe in the government engineer's office in Vicksburg and his bride is one of the most charming and popular girls of Vicksburg.

Was So Crippled He Could Hardly Walk

Mr. Froisy Freed Of Every Ache And Pain, Now Gets Around With Ease; Gly-Cas Gave Him Results He Though Impossible.

"It was not until I began Gly-Cas that I was relieved of my suffering of over twenty-five years," said Mr. E. G. Froisy, 1627 North St., Baton Rouge, La. "All these years I had been miserable with rheumatism in my hip and leg and often in such condition I was confined to my bed. I could hardly walk at all I was so crippled and in spite of all I tried I grew worse each day. The poisons in my system had affected my stomach too and indigestion would follow my meals, often I would bloat until I could hardly get my breath. Of course a good night's sleep was impossible and I was worn-out completely. I lost all hope for improvement, thought all medicines were alike until I began this new Gly-Cas and I soon changed my mind—it was different from all the rest."

"Never have I seen a medicine do its work as well before," he continued. "Those poisons were eliminated and in a most natural manner too. My meals hold enjoyment for me now for all that indigestion, gas and bloating have gone entirely. Even that dreadful rheumatism has been relieved and those awful aches and pains have been driven from my system. I now get around with ease, walk where I please and feel fine. Gly-Cas has actually given me results I had previously thought impossible."

Gly-Cas is sold by Phoenix Drug Co., 348 DeSiard St., and by all leading drug stores in surrounding towns.

Marriage Of Miss Melba Liner And Dr. Robert W. Gaston Brilliant Event

Wedding Unites Two Prominent Families

The wedding of Miss Melba Liner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Conway Liner, and Dr. Robert W. Gaston, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Gaston, of New Orleans, was a brilliant social event which took place at Lakeside Country club Saturday night, April 10, at 7:30 o'clock.

Immense cathedral tapers burned in a succession of five-foot silver candlesticks in the background where picturesque branches of flowering dogwood blossoms were silhouetted against the ivory walls. Tall white wicker baskets, their handles tied with silver metallic ribbon, formed a decorative enclosure for the wedding party which stood beneath the balcony hung with deep green woodwardia, English ivy and southern smilax.

While the guests were assembling Mr. Leon Hammond rendered a concert on the organ installed for the occasion and concealed by giant palms and ferns. He accompanied Mrs. Briscoe Trousdale, Jr., who sang the nuptial ballads in splendid voice.

The bridal entourage advanced along a white carpeted aisle enclosed with ropes of white satin linking together tall white wicker vases supporting a single Ascension lily tied with fluffs of silvery tulle.

The mantel, banked solid with woodwardia and palms, formed the background for the relatives of the bride and bridegroom. Mrs. Gaston, the bridegroom's mother, wore a lovely evening model of hyacinth blue chiffon over dusty pink chiffon. A corsage of orchids was worn. Mrs. Liner wore a handsome pink lace evening model with arm bouquet of pink roses, blue cornflowers and calendulas. Mrs. Joseph Renwick, Sr., wore a blue lace evening model with corsage of pink Columbia roses.

The ushers, Mr. James Conway Liner, Jr., and Mr. Asher Whitley, of Baton Rouge, and the groomsmen, Mr. Dan Grace, Mr. Harry Graham, Mr. D. A. Moore, Mr. Henry O'Connor and Mr. W. H. Bofinger, Jr., all in formal evening attire, walked down the aisle to the improvised altar where the bridegroom and his best man, his brother, Dr. Nathan Gaston, of this city, awaited. Rev. W. C. Scott, pastor of the First Methodist church, officiated.

The bridesmaids, Miss Marie Collins, Mrs. Milling Bernstein, Mrs. Nathan Gaston and Mrs. Asher Whitley, wore peasant frocks of dusty pink chiffon, very full as to skirt and with short, puffed sleeves and high neckline. They wore pink sandals and carried sprays of gorgeous Oriental full-blown tulips in shades of American Beauty, tied with satin ribbons a shade darker.

The maid of honor, Miss Lela Germany, and the matron of honor, Mrs. Virginia Hammond, of Memphis, Tenn., wore gowns cut on similar lines in poudre blue chiffon. They carried arm bouquets of Oriental tulips.

The beautiful little flower girl, Carolyn Jo Goodwin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Goodwin, of Bastrop, wore a poudre blue chiffon peasant dress, an exact duplicate of those worn by the bride's attendants. She carried a round bouquet of crimson tulips. The ring bearer, James Conway Liner, III, wore a white satin suit with lace collar. He carried the rings on a white satin cushion.

The bridal pair knelt for the blessing on a white satin prie-dieu.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony, and later the bride cut the wedding cake centering a white lace draped table in an alcove. It was a divine confection in wedding ring design with crystallized roses and valley lilies for embossing. Ices and gateaux were passed among the guests by white clad attendants.

The bride changed her wedding gown for a smart tailleur of navy and copper colored wool with paisley blouse and a becoming off-the-face hat of navy straw, and departed with Dr. Gaston for a honeymoon "somewhere along the coast."

Upon their return they will be at home in New Orleans, where Dr. Gaston is a prominent young orthodontist.

The wedding of Miss Liner and Dr. Gaston climaxed long weeks of prenuptial affairs arranged by friends in their honor. Mrs. Gaston is one of Monroe's most distinctive personalities. She attended the University of Alabama and is a member of Alpha Gamma Delta sorority. For the past two years she has served as sorority mother for the Monroe chapter of Delta Beta Sigma. She has been a prominent figure in Junior Charity league circles for the past few years.

Dr. Gaston attended Tulane university and was graduated from Loyola university. He is a member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity. Dr. Gaston is a member of the Southern Yacht club, New Orleans, and is identified with the younger social colony at Pass Christian, where the family maintains a summer home.

The wedding gifts of silver, Haviland, linens and crystal were outstanding for their beauty and lavishness.

Birthday Observed By Ann Buckley

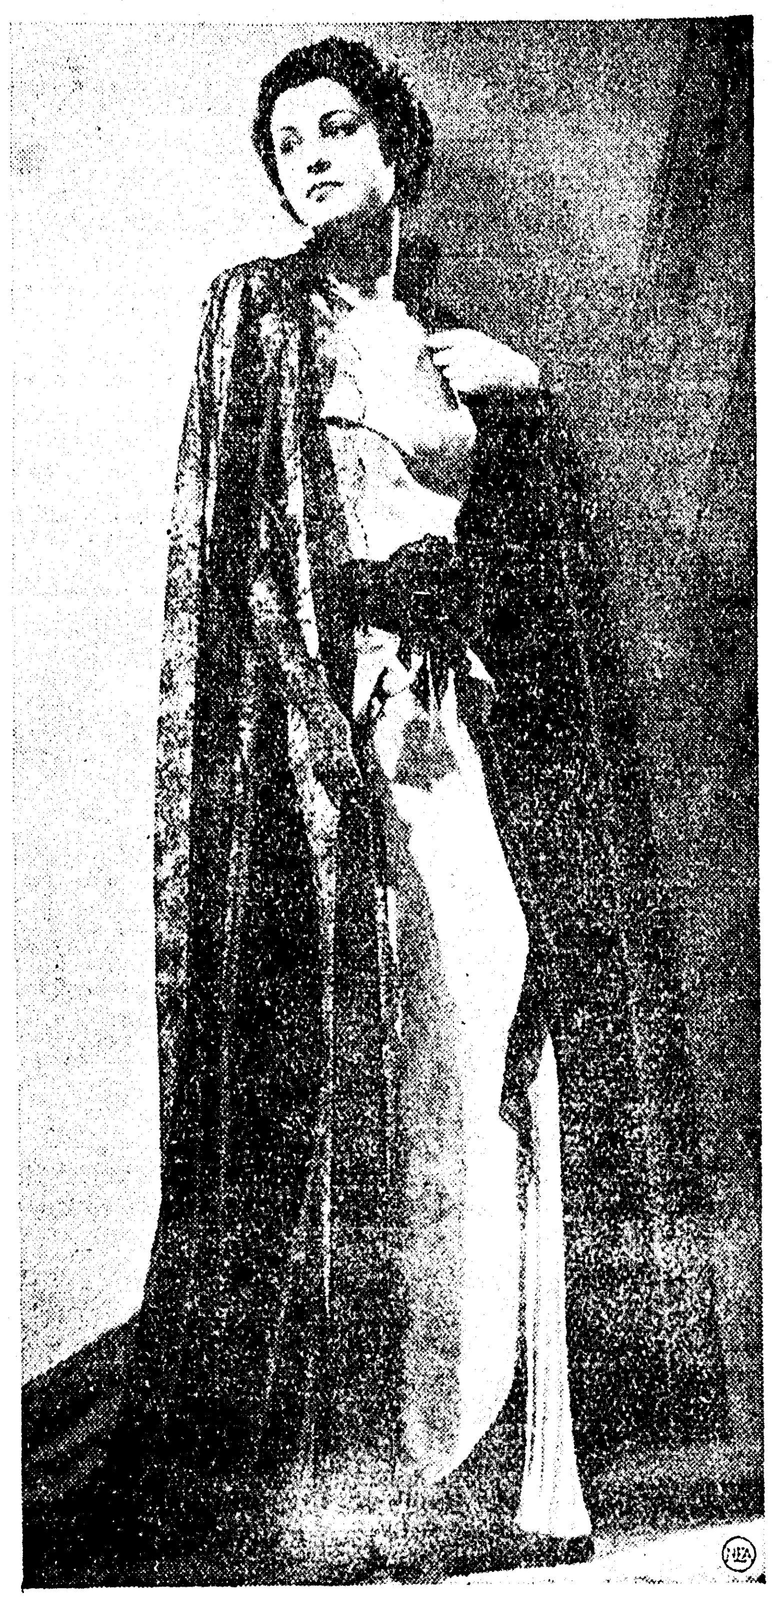
Ann Buckley's birthday party at Lakeside Country club Saturday was a joyous event with the lovely young celebrant and her most intimate friends romping and playing in the golden April sunshine during the afternoon hours.

Mrs. A. A. Thoman arranged this colorful affair in commemoration of her niece's tenth birthday anniversary. The joyous afternoon on the wide stretches of green surrounding the club house, climaxed with a tea hour indoors where the young hostess, in a summery frock of white organza, cut the beautifully embossed, candle-lit cake. Flowers were scattered along the lace draped table where crystal platters held delicious petit fours decorated in pink and green. Pink and green ices were also served.

Mrs. Thoman was assisted by Mrs. W. S. Buckley and Mrs. W. H. Hatfield in entertaining the following:

Maria Gladney, Sue Ann Windes, Elizabeth Ann Golson, Fred Lee Golson, Patsy Snelling, Emily McCaleb, Jonas Selig, Joan Sugar, Mary Helen Walker, Edith McWilliams, Carolyn Pracher, Bettie Ann Green, Elizabeth Ann Wood, Jane Kilpatrick, Sue Atkinson, Billie Buckley, Gene Hodges, Mary Alice Michel, Manarna Garelick, Martha Ann Scott, C. D. S. Buckley, Mrs. W. H. Hatfield, Mrs. Soloman, Albert Buckley, Stanley Mintz and J. H. McClendon.

EVENING GOWNS STRESS DRAMATIC ALLURE



A flowing cape of black chantilly lace is worn over the Jean Patou gown of white satin and novel design. A kilted panel en[illegible] at the back of the skirt is cut away in a rounded effect in front. The slash thus created is partly veiled by a pleated panel that depends from a frill of black lace at the waistline. Note the unique decollete.

Mrs. A. M. Scott of Crowville announces the marriage of her daughter, Lucille Scott, of Monroe to Mr. William Warner Sullivan, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Warner Sullivan, Sr., of West Monroe.

The ceremony of lovely simplicity,

The ceremony of lovely simplicity took place in West Monroe at the home of Rev. E. E. Huntsberry on Saturday, April 17. Rev. Huntsberry read the marriage sacrament in the presence of a few immediate friends and relatives.

The bride was beautifully attired in a navy blue and white triple sheer with white accessories. She wore a corsage of white carnations. Her only attendant was Mrs. Wilbur D. Ross of Monroe, who was dressed in a biege and black ensemble with matching accessories. Mr. Russell Ray acted as the bridegroom's attendant.

Mr. Sullivan is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High school and Northeast Center, L. S. U.

The young couple will make their home at 102 Ludwig in West Monroe, temporarily.

Mr. Francis Reardon, who has just completed his course of study at a Dallas, Tex., school of aviation, spent several days in the city with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Reardon, before leaving for Lincoln, Neb., where he will be an instructor in the Lincoln school of aviation.

Mrs. Herbert Steed left Saturday for Washington, D. C., to attend the forty-sixth continental congress of Daughters of the American Revolution. Mrs. Steed is serving as alternate to Mrs. C. E. Faulk, regent of Fort Miro chapter, D. A. R.

Mr. Clyde Williams of Fort Benning, Ga., is spending several days with Mrs. Williams in their home on Mitchell lane, West Monroe.

Mr. Travis Oliver, member of the council board of the American Bankers' association, is attending a meeting of the council in Hot Springs, Ark. He was accompanied by Mrs. Oliver, who will enjoy the entertainment planned for the bankers' wives attending the meeting.

A comfortable way to lose about eight pounds a week, but one that requires quite a lot of resistance, is the reducing diet now in vogue at Barnard college. Under the direction of Dr. Guiliema Alsop, college physician, eight students, sitting at a separate table in Hewitt hall, have been eating meals in which vitamins are emphasized, though calories are few. This is the setup Dr. Alsop prescribed:

Breakfast—Raw fruit, one glass of milk, one egg, one slice of whole-grain bread with butter.

Luncheon—Raw fruit, one glass of milk, one hot vegetable or a green salad.

Dinner—One portion of lean meat, one vegetable and green salad or two vegetables, one glass of milk, raw fruit.

The only liberty the girls are given is that they may eat as much raw fruit as they like. No bread is allowed except at breakfast and no snacks between meals. The diet was so rigid that one girl dropped out, but eight are still eating and weighing, according to the doctor's orders.

Friends extend their sincere sympathy to Mrs. O. M. Grisham in the death of her cousin, Mr. Thomas Evans Stone, at his home in Kaufman, Tex. Mr. Stone was well known in this city, where he visited in the Grisham home on several occasions.

The condition of Mrs. Harry Stough, who was severely injured a week ago in an automobile accident, was reported improving yesterday at the Vaughan-Wright-Bendel clinic, but she will not be able to receive visitors for a few more days.

Miss Katherine Day Weds James Askew

Young Couple Members Of Prominent Families; Tallulah Residents Take Part In Nuptials

Claiming the interest of friends in this section of the state and in Vicksburg, Miss., is the wedding of Miss Katherine Moore Day and Mr. James Barnes Askew, son of Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Askew of Vicksburg, on April 14, at the Trinity Episcopal church of Tallulah, at high noon, with Dr. Charles E. Woodson, rector of Christ church, Vicksburg, and Rev. George A. A. Tocher, rector of Trinity church, officiating.

Unusual interest and sentiment is associated with the marriage due to the fact that the groom's grandfather once owned the land where the town of Tallulah now stands, and donated the lot for the erection of Trinity church.

A green and white color scheme was employed in floral decorations of the little chapel with quantities of spirea, iris and dogwood blossoms artistically banked within the chancel, where gleamed myriad tall white candles. Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. W. L. Rountree, accompanied by Mrs. M. A. Phillips, sang "Because" and "I Love You Truly." Miss Annette Beers presided at the organ, rendering Lohengrin's wedding march for the processional and Mendelssohn's for the recessional. During the exchange of vows, "O Promise Me" was rendered pianissimo.

The bride entered on the arm of her father, Dr. Nathan Day, of Jackson, who gave her in marriage. She was radiantly lovely in a white lace model over silk, made with high waist line and long sleeves. The square neck line was finished with an Elizabethan collar of lace. A double veil was fashioned with a band and orange blossoms with clusters of the blossoms at either side. She carried a shower bouquet of brides roses and lilies of the valley.

The maid of honor, Miss Vivian Chastine, of Jackson, and bridesmaids, Miss Ruth LeGette, of New Orleans, and Miss Julia DeLoach, of Jackson, wore gowns of green marquisette over taffeta with charming head pieces from which fell long velvet ribbons of green and lavender. Their flowers were pink roses and lavender sweet peas tied with wide lavender ribbons.

The dainty flower girl, little Helen Herring, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Preston Herring, of Vicksburg, wore a floor length dress of pink marquisette over taffeta and carried a basket of flowers, scattering rose petals in the path of the bride. The men of the bridal party were attired in white linen.

The groom had as his best man Mr. Wilbur Compton, and as groomsmen Mr. Dell Scott and Mr. Eugene Fortson, all of Vicksburg. The ushers were Don Sevier, cousin of the bride, and Willie Laughlin of Vicksburg.

Immediately after the wedding the bridal party and a few intimate friends and relatives were entertained at a wedding breakfast at the home of the uncle and aunt of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Sevier. Later Mr. and Mrs. Askew left for a motor trip to New Orleans and the gulf coast, where they will spend their honeymoon. They will be at home to their friends after May 1 at the home of the groom's parents in Vicksburg.

Mr. Froisy Freed Of Every Ache And Pain, Now Gets Around With Ease; Gly-Cas Gave Him Results He Though Impossible.

"It was not until I began Gly-Cas that I was relieved of my suffering of over twenty-five years," said Mr. E. G. Froisy, 1627 North St., Baton Rouge, La. "All these years I had been miserable with rheumatism in my hip and leg and often in such condition I was confined to my bed. I could hardly walk at all I was so crippled and in spite of all I tried I grew worse each day. The poisons in my system had affected my stomach too and indigestion would follow my meals, often I would bloat until I could hardly get my breath. Of course a good night's sleep was impossible and I was worn-out completely. I lost all hope for improvement, thought all medicines were alike until I began this new Gly-Cas and I soon changed my mind—it was different from all the rest."

Attilio Baggiore Will Give Concert In City Wednesday

Noted Tenor To Sing At Local High School

Royal Opera Star Was Born In Michigan Mining Town Of Italian Parentage; Worked Way Up

Attilio Baggiore, world famous tenor, who will appear under auspices of the Monroe Civic Music association at the Ouachita Parish High school auditorium Wednesday night, has had a romantic career in this country and abroad.

Mr. Baggiore, who is 34 years old, is an American despite his foreign name. He was born in a Michigan mining town of Italian parentage and attended the local public schools. From his childhood, he had very evident talent in music and as a boy possessed a phenomenal soprano voice.

Following graduation from high school, young Baggiore determined to have a college education in addition to his music studies. Baggiore set out for Morehead college. He had eight dollars in his pocket, and the intention to work his way through school.

John McCormack visited Fargo for a concert under the auspices of the music store for which Baggiore worked, and the famous Irish singer was prevailed upon by Baggiore's employer to hear the boy sing. The audition took place in the piano storeroom, and Edwin Schneider, McCormack's accompanist, played for Baggiore. McCormack was enthusiastic about the young man's voice and assured him that he should let nothing stand in the way of his career.

Mr. Baggiore went to Chicago to continue his voice studies with William Clair Hall. During this time he supported himself by working in Marshall Field's shipping room. His voice soon became famous around the music studios of the city, but it was generally thought that Baggiore should go to Italy. Friends arranged a benefit recital at which a considerable sum was raised, and Baggiore set out for Europe immediately.

The young tenor's exceptional voice immediately won him friends in Italy. He was taken under the wing of Sabastini, one of the most celebrated teachers in Europe, and a short time later made his debut at the Royal Opera in Rome. He was immediately acclaimed as one of the greatest singers of the day and was given a long-term contract to sing leading tenor roles.

At the royal opera at Rome, where he was leading tenor for five years, he sang with great success in casts with stars such as Chaliapin and Muzio under the baton of the famous Gino Marinuzzi.

Famous European and American critics pronounce Baggiore's voice one of the most beautiful within memory. It has extraordinary power but is famed chiefly for its color and sympathetic quality. As an artist, Baggiore ranks with the best. His musicianship is pronounced impeccable.

Mr. Baggiore's voice is a lyric tenor of exceptional power and unique beauty. He is a master of the bel canto singing and is hailed for his clear English diction. In many ways, he is comparable with John McCormack, whose concert success he already rivals. When Baggiore appeared in concert in Dublin, Ireland, the audience and critics were convinced that he was an Irishman masquerading under an Italian name and affectionately nicknamed him "By Gorry."

Buckner Church Banquet Held

The "Bishops' Crusade" was observed by members of Union Methodist church at Buckner by a banquet held in the flower-appointed solarium at the beautiful country home of Mrs. C. M. Noble, Jr., Friday night.

The solarium, with its profusion of ferns, formed a perfect background for the banquet table, beautifully decorated with a profusion of flowers.

The banquet, being a part of a "Bishops' Crusade" to raise funds for the paying of old debts of the Methodist church and the furtherance of the missionary activities of that union, the events of the evening naturally centered around talks on the subject, and a pageant by the same name, which was given effectively to explain the meaning and advance the cause of the crusade.

The program, interspersed with music, was presented as follows with Mr. C. M. Noble, Jr., serving in the capacity of master of ceremonies.

Talk—"Object of 'Bishops' Crusade'," Rev. D. W. Poole.

I TRUST none of you are forgetting any of your feathered friends. This is the beginning of their house-hunting season, and nothing will delight their souls more than to find one of these homes awaiting them. Construction is of wood, of course, in rustic effects that will look at home in any garden. Slagle-Johnson Lumber company will build homes for "your bird families." All are sturdily made and have a rough bark finish that I was told the birds prefer. You can pick almost any style you want from a single little wren house to a many apartmented dwelling for the martins. Prices vary according to what you want and the pleasure you'll get from watching one of these families will be well worth the small expenditure. Prepare now for the at home times of the brides and grooms. Phone 295—ask about them.

NOW that you have the costume, how about a new foundation garment to properly show it off? Bella Scherck Davidson's is featuring the "Artist Model" line of corselettes and girdles that they are justly proud of and one that will fit slight or average to large figures. The outstanding point that they stress is a specially cut panel in the back that is both restraining and flattening, giving the smooth line we all wish to achieve. They come in satin or a lovely quality batiste with lastex and are complete with Talon fasteners, little pancake garters and other details that mark the well-made garment. Types will suit all, for some are boneless while others have bones so placed as to keep the wayward curves in line. You will like the corselettes, particularly, for they have uplift lace brassieres and a moderately low back that can be worn with most dresses.

NOW that times are improving people are again realizing what an investment good rugs really are: the kind that last almost a lifetime. The answer to such a description in a domestic rug seems to be Chenille. I only wish I had the space to tell you all that I learned at the Dixie Bedding and Furniture company about this new rug fabric. Due to its fine construction of selected quality lustrous wool or worsted yarns it gives unequaled wear and may be had in either high or low pile. Then, too, the fact it is made in pieces up to 30 feet in width and can be ordered in one piece in any shape or size is another reason for its popularity. While the ordinary rug has only four and at the most six color tones in it this new covering can be made in as many as you want. Even the design can be custom made, embodying any pattern you wish to make up yourself—coat of arms, copy of old tapestry—anything you desire. Considering all these advantages it is far from exorbitant in price and pays continued dividends on the few extra dollars spent in the beginning. There is no obligation to buy and the Dixie Bedding and Furniture company is more than willing to quote prices and give further information.

AGES and ages ago it was discovered that almond meal was exceedingly beneficial to the skin. Not only does it act as a mild bleach, in whitening the skin, but also it tones and refines, helping to abolish blackheads. Due to the fact that it is non-drying many women use it exclusively instead of soap. All this is to tell you about a new brand of cosmetics that I discovered which I particularly liked—at Walgreen Drug Store—"Leon Laraine"—really not a new brand, but new in Monroe! Walgreen has the complete line—even smart compacts, etc.—in attractive colors of aquamarine and white. The almond meal and the liquid foundation cream especially caught my fancy. The nice part is—it is popular priced. Why don't you try it—you'll love the face powder.

I HOPE no collector of miniature articles for the glass window shelves and the old-fashioned what-nots will miss this assortment. It's tucked away in the gift department of Ferd Levi Stationery company, 107 DeSiard street, and it is well worth anyone's time to go see it. I was shown unusual little birds, tiny animals—all kinds—minutely carved from wood, others of gay colored porcelain and some of glass in a variety of hues. The last-named ones catch the light and sparkle so beautifully in the sun they're a joy to behold. Small vases and urns were well represented in pottery, too, and many come in lovely jewel tones such as ruby, emerald and sapphire, smart little tricks in mirrors. Even if you do not have the shelves I spoke of, they will be an addition to any collection. A sale of the latest books is now in progress. Book values up to $3.98 now selling for as low as $1.00.

Attilio Baggiore Will Give Concert In City Wednesday

Royal Opera Star Was Born In Michigan Mining Town Of Italian Parentage; Worked Way Up

MUSIC ASSOCIATION ARTIST

Attilio Baggiore, leading tenor of the royal opera of Rome, who will appear in concert at the Ouachita Parish High school auditorium Wednesday night, under auspices of the Monroe Civic Music association.

Attilio Baggiore, world famous tenor, who will appear under auspices of the Monroe Civic Music association at the Ouachita Parish High school auditorium Wednesday night, has had a romantic career in this country and abroad.

Mr. Baggiore, who is 34 years old, is an American despite his foreign name. He was born in a Michigan mining town of Italian parentage and attended the local public schools. From his childhood, he had very evident talent in music and as a boy possessed a phenomenal soprano voice.

Following graduation from high school, young Baggiore determined to have a college education in addition to his music studies. Baggiore set out for Morehead college. He had eight dollars in his pocket, and the intention to work his way through school.

John McCormack visited Fargo for a concert under the auspices of the music store for which Baggiore worked, and the famous Irish singer was prevailed upon by Baggiore's employer to hear the boy sing. The audition took place in the piano storeroom, and Edwin Schneider, McCormack's accompanist, played for Baggiore. McCormack was enthusiastic about the young man's voice and assured him that he should let nothing stand in the way of his career.

Mr. Baggiore went to Chicago to continue his voice studies with William Clair Hall. During this time he supported himself by working in Marshall Field's shipping room. His voice soon became famous around the music studios of the city, but it was generally thought that Baggiore should go to Italy. Friends arranged a benefit recital at which a considerable sum was raised, and Baggiore set out for Europe immediately.

The young tenor's exceptional voice immediately won him friends in Italy. He was taken under the wing of Sabastini, one of the most celebrated teachers in Europe, and a short time later made his debut at the Royal Opera in Rome. He was immediately acclaimed as one of the greatest singers of the day and was given a long-term contract to sing leading tenor roles.

At the royal opera at Rome, where he was leading tenor for five years, he sang with great success in casts with stars such as Chaliapin and Muzio under the baton of the famous Gino Marinuzzi.

Famous European and American critics pronounce Baggiore's voice one of the most beautiful within memory. It has extraordinary power but is famed chiefly for its color and sympathetic quality. As an artist, Baggiore ranks with the best. His musicianship is pronounced impeccable.

Mr. Baggiore's voice is a lyric tenor of exceptional power and unique beauty. He is a master of the bel canto singing and is hailed for his clear English diction. In many ways, he is comparable with John McCormack, whose concert success he already rivals. When Baggiore appeared in concert in Dublin, Ireland, the audience and critics were convinced that he was an Irishman masquerading under an Italian name and affectionately nicknamed him "By Gorry."

Buckner Church Banquet Held

The "Bishops' Crusade" was observed by members of Union Methodist church at Buckner by a banquet held in the flower-appointed solarium at the beautiful country home of Mrs. C. M. Noble, Jr., Friday night.

The solarium, with its profusion of ferns, formed a perfect background for the banquet table, beautifully decorated with a profusion of flowers.

The banquet, being a part of a "Bishops' Crusade" to raise funds for the paying of old debts of the Methodist church and the furtherance of the missionary activities of that union, the events of the evening naturally centered around talks on the subject, and a pageant by the same name, which was given effectively to explain the meaning and advance the cause of the crusade.

The program, interspersed with music, was presented as follows with Mr. C. M. Noble, Jr., serving in the capacity of master of ceremonies.

Talk—"Object of 'Bishops' Crusade'," Rev. D. W. Poole.

Violin solos—"The Old Refrain" (Kreisler), "Maytime" (Schubert), Mrs. C. E. Gay, Mrs. Jack Abraugh, accompanist.

Pageant—"The Bishops' Crusade," directed by Mrs. W. L. McIntosh and Miss Carrimena McIntosh, Mary LeSouard McIntosh, Lois McIntosh, Mrs. Richard Hatch.

Solo—"O Soul Without a Savior" (Gabriel), Mrs. C. Noble Hatch, Mrs. C. M. Noble, Jr., accompanist.

Sketch of the lives of Charles Taylor and Benjamin Jenkins, Mrs. F. B. Hatch, Sr.

Saxophone solo—"Song of India" (Korsakow), Richard Morris, John Morris, Jr., accompanist.

Song—"Blest Be the Tie That Binds," by all.

The sumptuous dinner was served to: Mr. and Mrs. Harold Deloney of Monroe, Mr. and Mrs. John Morris and sons, Richard and John, Jr., of Rayville, Miss Blanche Deloney of Athens, Mrs. Jack Abraugh, Mrs. C. Wrinkle-proof woolen, which tailors beautifully and stands up under hard wear, makes this lovely jacket outfit. Black, it includes a simple dress and a bolero jacket finished with braid. I TRUST none of you are forgetting any of your feathered friends. This is the beginning of their house-hunting season, and nothing will delight their souls more than to find one of these homes awaiting them. Construction is of wood, of course, in rustic effects that will look at home in any garden. Slagle-Johnson Lumber company will build homes for "your bird families." All are sturdily made and have a rough bark finish that I was told the birds prefer. You can pick almost any style you want from a single little wren house to a many apartmented dwelling for the martins. Prices vary according to what you want and the pleasure you'll get from watching one of these families will be well worth the small expenditure. Prepare now for the at home times of the brides and grooms. Phone 295—ask about them.

NOW that you have the costume, how about a new foundation garment to properly show it off? Bella Scherck Davidson's is featuring the "Artist Model" line of corselettes and girdles that they are justly proud of and one that will fit slight or average to large figures. The outstanding point that they stress is a specially cut panel in the back that is both restraining and flattening, giving the smooth line we all wish to achieve. They come in satin or a lovely quality batiste with lastex and are complete with Talon fasteners, little pancake garters and other details that mark the well-made garment. Types will suit all, for some are boneless while others have bones so placed as to keep the wayward curves in line. You will like the corselettes, particularly, for they have uplift lace brassieres and a moderately low back that can be worn with most dresses.

NOW that times are improving people are again realizing what an investment good rugs really are: the kind that last almost a lifetime. The answer to such a description in a domestic rug seems to be Chenille. I only wish I had the space to tell you all that I learned at the Dixie Bedding and Furniture company about this new rug fabric. Due to its fine construction of selected quality lustrous wool or worsted yarns it gives unequaled wear and may be had in either high or low pile. Then, too, the fact it is made in pieces up to 30 feet in width and can be ordered in one piece in any shape or size is another reason for its popularity. While the ordinary rug has only four and at the most six color tones in it this new covering can be made in as many as you want. Even the design can be custom made, embodying any pattern you wish to make up yourself—coat of arms, copy of old tapestry—anything you desire. Considering all these advantages it is far from exorbitant in price and pays continued dividends on the few extra dollars spent in the beginning. There is no obligation to buy and the Dixie Bedding and Furniture company is more than willing to quote prices and give further information.

AGES and ages ago it was discovered that almond meal was exceedingly beneficial to the skin. Not only does it act as a mild bleach, in whitening the skin, but also it tones and refines, helping to abolish blackheads. Due to the fact that it is non-drying many women use it exclusively instead of soap. All this is to tell you about a new brand of cosmetics that I discovered which I particularly liked—at Walgreen Drug Store—"Leon Laraine"—really not a new brand, but new in Monroe! Walgreen has the complete line—even smart compacts, etc.—in attractive colors of aquamarine and white. The almond meal and the liquid foundation cream especially caught my fancy. The nice part is—it is popular priced. Why don't you try it—you'll love the face powder.

I HOPE no collector of miniature articles for the glass window shelves and the old-fashioned what-nots will miss this assortment. It's tucked away in the gift department of Ferd Levi Stationery company, 307 DeSiard street, and it is well worth anyone's time to go see it. I was shown unusual little birds, tiny animals—all kinds—minutely carved from wood, others of gay colored porcelain and some of glass in a variety of hues. The last-named ones catch the light and sparkle so beautifully in the sun they're a joy to behold. Small vases and urns were well represented in pottery, too, and many come in lovely jewel tones such as ruby, emerald and sapphire, smart little tricks in mirrors. Even if you do not have the shelves I spoke of, they will be an addition to any collection. A sale of the latest books is now in progress. Book values up to $3.98 now selling for as low as $1.00.

Garden Club Makes Convention Plans

Fort Worth Man To Give Lecture; Reception And Dinner Among Outstanding Events Being Planned

Mrs. Elmer Richards, president of the Monroe Garden club, announces all plans complete for the state convention in this city on May 13-14.

May was selected for the meeting, as then come perfect days in this section of the south. The magnolia, state flower of Louisiana, burst forth in all its glory at this time, and the roses are more beautiful than at any other time of the year. The heat of summer does not descend until June, so every garden in May is a sea of verdant green, refreshed with the rains and warm sunshine of April.

Officers of the Monroe Garden club, bending every effort to make this event one of the most flowery and artistic in the history of the organization, are: Mrs. Richards, president; Mrs. F. A. Reynolds, secretary; Mrs. Kate Morrice, treasurer; Mrs. Allan Sholars, first vice-president; Mrs. C. E. Faulk, second vice-president; Mrs. J. C. Rowland, third vice-president.

Headquarters for the convention will be the Virginia hotel roof garden. The first day will feature the following program:

2 p.m.—State federation board meeting.

4:30 p.m. to 6 p.m.—Hosts, Monroe Furniture company, ("Heirloom shops"), Palace Department store, Durrett Furniture company ("Williamsburg galleries," "costume hostess").

Flower arrangements by Monroe Garden club.

7 p.m.—Reception, ballroom mezzanine floor.

8 p.m.—Dinner, roof garden.

After dinner speaker, Mr. R. C. Morrison, of Fort Worth, Tex., subject, "Illustrated Lecture of Fort Worth Botanic Garden with Garden Center and School Landscape Program."

The next day's program will include:

8:30 a.m.—Breakfast-state board by Monroe board members.

10 a.m.—Business meeting of the Louisiana Garden club federation.

1 p.m.—Barbecue at country home of Mrs. T. C. Rowland.

2:30 p.m.—Garden tour.

Mrs. W. H. Armstrong Re-Named President

Members of the Neville Parent-Teacher association re-named Mrs. W. H. Armstrong to serve as president for the coming year at the annual election of officers held at the school Monday afternoon. Other officers elected at this meeting are: Mrs. D. I. Garrett, first vice-president; Mrs. L. B. Chambers, second vice-president, Mrs. Louis Masur, secretary; and Mrs. Roy Hale, treasurer.

Delegates to the state convention held in Shreveport during the past week were also named at this meeting. Mrs. Armstrong, Mrs. H. F. Felix and Mrs. L. F. Grigsby were elected delegates, with Mrs. S. C. Wimbish, Mrs. W. C. Oliver and Mrs. David Garrett as alternates.

The minutes were read by Mrs. Masur and the treasurer's report given by Mrs. William Mintz.

Rev. W. C. Scott, the speaker for the afternoon, was introduced by Mrs. P. A. Poag, program chairman.

"Better Parents and the Spiritual Welfare of Children" was the topic discussed by Rev. Scott.

"The kind of religion appealing to the youth of today" stated Rev. Scott, "must be something real. Youth has a feeling for reality. Youth feels that a real religion does not produce an unreal person.

"Young people hate shams and despise hypocrisy. Religion for them must be real. Modern youth can never be captured by a gloomy religion; children should be taught that religion is beautiful, that it is practical and that it is adventurous."

Mr. Charles Gaushell announced that a state program of band concerts will be held in Monroe in May.

Here's How Playmates See Those Woods Twins

* * *

Untrained One Most Popular

By Morris Gilbert

(NEA Service Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, April 17.—Science, take it from the younger generation of Washington Heights, New York, is the bunk. They know, these small fry of the upper West Side, because they have been exposed to its effects in concentrated form, and their almost unanimous opinion is that Jimmy Woods is a more regular feller than Johnny Woods.

Learned treatises have been written about Johnny Woods. Copious scholarly notes have been recorded in his case for almost five years. For Johnny Woods is a "case," an "experiment" in child rearing under the most modern technique of the celebrated Normal Child Development Clinic of Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center.

He is the "conditioned" one of the famous Woods twins, the little nipper who at the age of two was a notable roller-skater and a climber so fearless that he almost frightened the doctors.

Yet Jimmy, the "unconditioned" twin who "just grew" like Topsie or any other neighborhood kid, and lived from birth with his mother and father, a gate-keeper at the Polo Grounds, turns out, on the eve of their fifth birthday which occurs April 18, to be the more popular, the more mature, and the more fun, in the opinion of his mates.

One comrade defended Johnny. So did one little girl—my daughter, a stranger to the twins—who paid a call on them at the Washington Heights Nursery school where Miss K. W. Burton, supervisor, turned the Woods boys loose for our benefit.

Turned loose is the right word. Very loose, and in a spot very fascinating to five-year-olds, namely Miss Burton's own desk.

Even the playmates of the Woods twins, Johnny and Jimmy, detect a difference in the personalities of the two boys, who, since birth, have been the subjects of an experiment in child training. Johnny has had the benefit of teaching by child training experts. Jimmy has grown up in his home in the normal way. The informal vote of their schoolmates gives Jimmy th popularity palm, nevertheless.

Well, Johnny, after dabbing a rubber stamp on the ink-pad, planted it emphatically in the front center of Joan's rose-colored pull-over (washable). Then Jimmy poured the ink out of the bottle onto a blotter—and the desk—and wrapped the blotter around Joan's wrist (also washable).

Never had Joan encountered such inventiveness, such splendid and reckless imagination applied to grown-up don't-touchables like ink, pens, and blotters. When Joan is pleased, she laughs from the diaphragm, up and out. The room re-echoed. "Don't laugh," the Woods twins protested. They themselves were too busy to laugh. They were involved in a whirling, spinning intensity of action. They were moving with the rapidity of kittens from one preposterous performance to the next.

Afterward, Joan's primness asserted itself. "They're funny," she said. "Their games are funny. I don't like their games."

"Ordinarily," Miss K. W. Burton, supervisor of the school, had explained, "I wouldn't let them behave like this. The children aren't allowed in my office. I really don't believe in too much freedom. But today I'm letting them run a little, for your benefit."

So she watched the twins batter a pen to pieces, strew rubber bands around the room after snapping them across their own eyes (which Joan imitated), scribble on the correspondence, accomplish an almost miraculous mess on the desk. She interfered only when the fearless Johnny climbed onto a table and tried to pat Fluffy, the biggest tabbycat in Washington Heights, who was asleep on the mantlepiece. Fluffy is nine years old, she explained, and getting a little crotchety.

Jimmy can write. He borrowed the interviewer's pencil and wrote the letters O T A. Then he systematically destroyed the pencil. Johnny took a pen, dipped the wrong end in the ink, and began painting.

A blackboard on an easel attracted them. They called for chalk. ("They say 'salk.'" Joan commented.) Jimmy solved the problem of standing the easel upright by pulling out the back legs. But it was Johnny who discovered how to tip the blackboard surface up to write on. Soon they managed to break both leg supports of the easel by standing on them.

"How do you like the little girl?"

the Woods twins were asked. They preferred not to say. Later Joan said: "They're not twins. Johnny is bigger. Johnny has dimples. That's the way to tell them apart. Jimmy talks more, but I like Johnny best."

"Even when he shoved you off the chair and sat down himself?"

"Yes," said Joan. It was a distinctly feminine reaction. Dimples apart, Johnny is the handsomer. Or was it because of his famous conditioning?

As their fifth birthday nears, there's little to choose between the Woods twins. Jimmy seems to have generally overhauled his cultivated brother. In leadership, speech and performance at school he excels Johnny.

"Johnny hollers and runs away when you want him to play," said little Joan Babb, a schoolmate. "I like Johnny better because he plays games and is nicer to me than Johnny. Johnny doesn't play with me much," said Mariessa. Richard Lawrence, seven and a half, defends Johnny. "We wrestle," he said. "He can take it better than Jimmy. Johnny's bad, often, but I like him better." Peter Stavrous likes Jimmy better, "cause he makes me laugh and can beat Johnny up."

Jimmy takes care of Johnny, hangs up Johnny's coat for him, gets back his belt when some other kid swipes it, folds his own and Johnny's camp-beds on which they nap. Johnny hasn't much to say but frequently repeats Jimmy's words. Johnny keeps his superb balance in climbing, while Jimmy still has a normal fear of high perches.

Jimmy's natural promise is asserting itself, in the opinion of Miss Burton. "Jimmy was the brighter child at the beginning of the experiment," she said. "It's his natural heritage. He's the friendlier, too."

Meanwhile, the Columbia-Presbyterian clinic said that the work on Johnny Woods had now reached a less spectacular phase. Johnny still goes there every fortnight, but it is the hope of officials that he will now lapse into greater anonymity than hitherto, both for his own sake and for that of the clinic's experiment. That's why they oppose a big birthday party on April 18.

The heat of summer does not descend until June, so every garden in May is a sea of verdant green, refreshed with the rains and warm sunshine of April.

Reynolds, secretary; Mrs. Kate Morrice, treasurer; Mrs. Allan Sholars, first vice-president; Mrs. C. E. Faulk, second vice-president; Mrs. J. C. Rowland, third vice-president.

Mrs. W. H. Armstrong Re-Named President

Members of the Neville Parent-Teacher association re-named Mrs. W. H. Armstrong to serve as president for the coming year at the annual election of officers held at the school Monday afternoon. Other officers elected at this meeting are: Mrs. D. I. Garrett, first vice-president; Mrs. L. B. Chambers, second vice-president, Mrs. Louis Masur, secretary; and Mrs. Roy Hale, treasurer.

The minutes were read by Mrs. Masur and the treasurer's report given by Mrs. William Mintz.

Rev. W. C. Scott, the speaker for the afternoon, was introduced by Mrs. P. A. Poag, program chairman.

"Better Parents and the Spiritual Welfare of Children" was the topic discussed by Rev. Scott.

"The kind of religion appealing to the youth of today" stated Rev. Scott, "must be something real. Youth has a feeling for reality. Youth feels that a real religion does not produce an unreal person.

"Young people hate shams and despise hypocrisy. Religion for them must be real. Modern youth can never be captured by a gloomy religion; children should be taught that religion is beautiful, that it is practical and that it is adventurous."

Mr. Charles Gaushell announced that a state program of band concerts will be held in Monroe in May.

Here's How Playmates See Those Woods Twins

* * *

Untrained One Most Popular

By Morris Gilbert
(NEA Service Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, April 17.—Science, take it from the younger generation of Washington Heights, New York, is the bunk. They know, these small fry of the upper West Side, because they have been exposed to its effects in concentrated form, and their almost unanimous opinion is that Jimmy Woods is a more regular feller than Johnny Woods.

Learned treatises have been written about Johnny Woods. Copious scholarly notes have been recorded in his case for almost five years. For Johnny Woods is a "case," an "experiment" in child rearing under the most modern technique of the celebrated Normal Child Development Clinic of Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center.

He is the "conditioned" one of the famous Woods twins, the little nipper who at the age of two was a notable roller-skater and a climber so fearless that he almost frightened the doctors.

Yet Jimmy, the "unconditioned" twin who "just grew" like Topsie or any other neighborhood kid, and lived from birth with his mother and father, a gate-keeper at the Polo Grounds, turns out, on the eve of their fifth birthday which occurs April 18, to be the more popular, the more mature, and the more fun, in the opinion of his mates.

One comrade defended Johnny. So did one little girl—my daughter, a stranger to the twins—who paid a call on them at the Washington Heights Nursery school where Miss K. W. Burton, supervisor, turned the Woods boys loose for our benefit.

Turned loose is the right word. Very loose, and in a spot very fascinating to five-year-olds, namely Miss Burton's own desk.

MARKETABILITY OF MORTGAGE FIELD WIDENS

Institutions Willing To Lend Money In Foreign Territories

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Substantial progress toward the fulfillment of one of the principal aims of the insured mortgage system—increasing the marketability of mortgage investments held by lending agencies—is reported by the federal housing administration in its third annual report.

Ready saleability of this new type of investment security is demonstrated by the fact that approximately 15 per cent of all insured loans have been sold by the originating institutions to the other approved agencies. Transactions total more than $60,000,000.

Another new development which increases the availability of home-mortgage money is the growing willingness of mortgage-lending institutions to make loans outside their home territories. Many transactions of this nature have been noted by the federal housing administration, particularly during the past year, the report shows.

Loans Secured

Sales of mortgages by one institution to another approved institution are made practicable, first, by the nation-wide property standards, valuation and risk-rating techniques established by the federal housing administration and, second, by the insurance feature, which increases the security of loans.

The RFC Mortgage company, which has used its revolving fund of $10,000,000 to buy and sell insured mortgages covering new homes, has reported several large transactions in federal housing administration mortgages. In one recent transaction the company sold 390 mortgages valued at $1,798,205 to the comptroller of the state of New York at a price of 101, plus accrued interest.

Dependable Security

In purchasing insured mortgages for the various sinking and trust funds for which he was empowered to act, the comptroller bought all of the insured mortgages held by the RFC Mortgage company in the state of New York. This and other similar transactions show the growing acceptance of the insured mortgage as a dependable type of investment security.

Legislative and administrative provisions formulated during the past two years also make it possible for insured mortgages to be accepted as collateral for advances by federal home loan banks and federal reserve banks. Member banks of the federal reserve system may now make and hold insured mortgages, even outside of a restricted local area.

FHA DOES NOT LEND

The federal housing administration lends no money. It insures loans made by private financial institutions operating under provisions of the national housing act.

IT'S Cheaper

Printing
Of Quality and Taste

Such printing must bear a price commensurate with the skill, time, materials and expense attendant upon its production. As in clothing, foods, jewelry, furniture, automobiles and other necessities and luxuries of life, the price paid for printing always bears a close relationship to the quality and value received. Superior workmanship and materials of genuine excellence naturally cost more than mediocre or sloppy work and cheap, shoddy materials, and must sell for more.

But good printing serves its purpose better than the other kind, and is always the least expensive in the end. Money "saved" in buying inferior printing is actually money wasted.

Let us show you how we can improve upon your old stationery, office forms and advertising pieces. Dressed up in new faces of type, correctly and effectively arranged by expert craftsmen, and perhaps brightened by the use of an extra color, they'll be different and pleasing. Of course, the cost may be a little higher, but you'll gladly pay the difference when you see the work. Give us a trial order for some of your printing requirements and you will be satisfied.

HOUSING OFFICIAL CITES FEW FAULTS AFTER A SURVEY

Offers Three Constructive Suggestions To Subdividers Of Property

WASHINGTON, D. C.—With builders and subdividers submitting a record number of proposals for new subdivisions to the federal housing administration, in order to be ready for the spring buying season, Frederick M. Babcock, chief of the underwriting section of the federal housing administration, made public today three suggestions which should facilitate the obtaining favorable rulings on new developments.

A survey of cases submitted within recent months shows that a preponderance of all proposals received contain at least three major faults, each of which must be rectified before final approval can be given by the federal housing administration.

Rapid Handling

Since time is an item of major importance to builders, particularly in the present market, any steps which can be taken to speed up approval of new developments tend to increase profits.

"We desire to handle cases as rapidly as possible, but we find that almost every project submitted fails to conform to our standards in at least three respects," Mr. Babcock said. These are poorly drawn deed restrictions; uneconomic and unattractive street layouts; wasteful, uneconomic layouts for utilities and other improvements.

"We cannot consider favorably these neighborhoods as localities in which we will accept mortgages for insurance until each of the faults mentioned has been rectified. Developers could gain by studying Technical Bulletin No. 5, "Planning Neighborhoods for Small Houses," a clear understanding of our requirements for the approval of new subdivisions and could eliminate these flaws before the project is submitted; we would then be able to reach a final decision more readily.

Cost Reduced

"We believe that the changes which we suggest not only reduce the cost of developing the neighborhood but render the subdivision more desirable and more attractive from a sales point of view."

Mr. Babcock stated that in the matter of deed restrictions a complete set of restrictions suitable for a development of low-priced houses, but adaptable to other types of neighborhoods, can be found on the last page of Technical Bulletin No. 5.

Developers will find that Technical Bulletin No. 5 also contains suggestions which will aid in the planning of the lot and street layout of the development. Too many developers are failing to make the fullest use of their land, using the old "grid" type of layout instead of the more economic layout, which includes longer blocks, winding streets, culs-de-sac, and other modern planning inovations.

The old "grid" type of layout requires the installation of a large number of cross streets, increasing the cost of street paving and sidewalk installation. Costs of development can be reduced materially by using the more modern form of layout.

It is found also that layouts for public utilities are wastefully planned, increasing the cost of development unduly. Copies of the booklet mentioned can be obtained from the federal housing administration in Washington.

Newspapers In Leading Cities Show Big Gains

The newspapers in the 52 leading cities as measured by Media Records, Inc., showed a gain of 10.7 per cent in total advertising in 1936 as compared with the previous year. Financial advertising showed the biggest percentage gain, 17.4 per cent, followed by: General, 15.9 per cent; classified, 15.9 per cent; retail, 8.3 per cent, and department stores, 8 per cent.

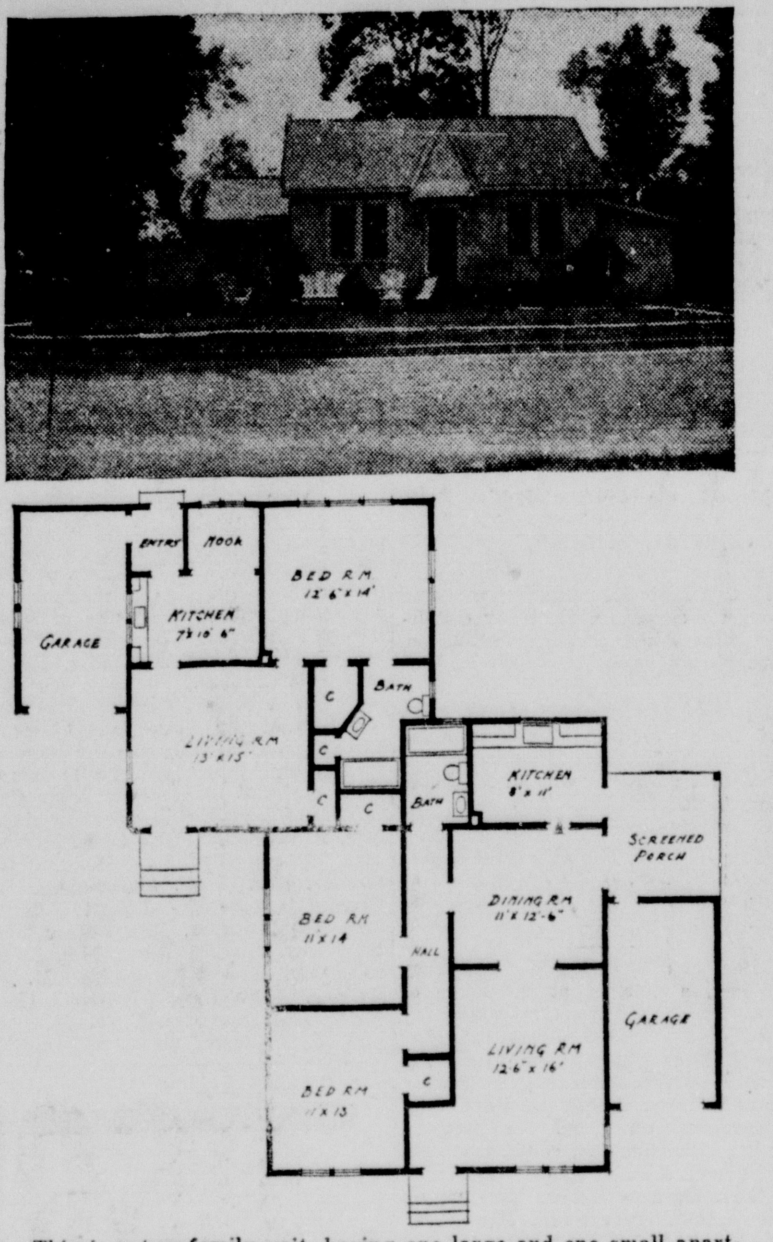
The full year's report indicates that department stores are the most consistent believers in newspaper advertising. For the month of December department store lineage was 99.2 per cent of the peak of 1929, and for the full 12 months the stores used 83 per cent as much space as in 1929.

Industries related to home building found their business increased. Advertising in this field showed increased activity.

CLOSET WITH BUILT-IN EQUIPMENT IS HANDY

Houses built for a family of four or five persons should have a storage closet containing built-in drawers, boot racks, hat compartments, hangers for coats, and containers for rubbers, galoshes, etc. Attics, if not too low, may be used for storage space also. Waterproofed cellars, if they are ventilated by one or two windows, will serve for storage space for trunks, suitcases, etc.

Two-Family House



This is a two-family unit, having one large and one small apartment. Every foot of space has been ingeniously used to provide adequate living quarters for two families. The house cost $3,700 and the lot an additional $935. The Federal Housing Administration insured a $3,200 mortgage on the property. Monthly payments, including principal, interest, taxes, and other fixed charges, of $33.10 will pay everything off in 20 years.

Precaution Urged In Selection Of Extension Wiring For Home

The use of cheap and poorly made, exposed extension wiring in the home is to be avoided at all times, because it is considered one of the greatest fire hazards we have today. With several safe types of surface extension wiring now on the market which are both inexpensive and easy to install, there is no longer any excuse for the use of cheap light cord for extension wiring in rooms where there are insufficient outlets. The safest thing to do is to consult an expert electrician. New wiring may be installed under the modernization credit plan of the federal housing administration.

Before installing any exposed extension wiring, the electric outlet from which the extension wiring is to extend should be carefully inspected in order to make sure that all connections are tight and that the outlet and the house-wiring circuit to which it is connected are of sufficient capacity to carry the extra load of the extension wiring.

If all is in good order, then a selection of the type of extension wiring can be made. Several types are available in which wires are completely encased in a flat rubber or composition strip of good insulating quality which may be rigidly attached to the wall. These strip-wiring systems all have special fittings for outlets; splices, crosses, and other connections. In order to be sure of their safety, it is advisable to purchase only materials having the inspection label of the underwriters laboratories and in no case to provide more than two outlets from any one extension from a built-in outlet.

Striking Color Effects Found In Bathrooms

Some modern bathrooms display plumbing fixtures with harmonizing designs to produce the ensemble effect. Striking color contrasts are shown in others, such as black tub set off against a background of yellow glass and tubular shadowless illumination of mirrors. If less vivid colors are preferred, soft pastel shades are popular also.

In the purchase of homes constructed under the terms of the federal housing administration program the prospective owner has a wide choice of color and equipment to be installed in the bathroom of the new house.

VALUATION PLAN DEVELOPED BY FHA AFTER LONG STUDY

Flexible Technique Meets Local Needs And Requirements Of Program

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Development of a nation-wide system of property standards and valuation and risk-rating techniques was one of the first accomplishments of the federal housing administration in putting its insured mortgage system into effect, according to that agency's annual report.

During succeeding years it has become increasingly important to provide greater flexibility in the system so that local application of the standards and techniques can be made with ease, economy, and expedition.

The analysis of home-mortgage loans is peculiarly a local problem, as the federal housing administration has realized from the beginning of the program. To provide flexibility and, at the same time, to insure compliance of all loans with recognized standards has been the principal consideration of the underwriting section during the second phase of the program.

Two Policies

To achieve the desired end, the underwriting section has formulated two policies, upon which all activity has been based. First, field insuring offices have been given full authority to transact business in their territories. Second, the underwriting section has undertaken a continuous training activity, through which it is building up a group of highly trained and responsible professional workers.

The Washington staff, acting in a coordinating and advisory capacity, is constantly collecting and compiling valuation and mortgage data, which it transmits to the field staff in its training conferences. It also develops new techniques which are explained, tested, and applied under the supervision of members of the Washington staff.

Trained Staff

Thus the underwriting and valuation operations of the federal housing administration are constantly revised and corrected, each new idea being checked against the national standard and tested in local insuring offices. Progress is constant, although slow.

The building of a technically trained staff of valuation and mortgage-risk experts insures the federal housing administration of ever-increasing efficiency in its operations and insures the public and the mortgage-lending institutions of sound and rapid handling of cases.

EMPLOYMENT, WAGES, INCREASE THIS YEAR

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Employment in the building industry in January, 1937, was 33.2 per cent higher and pay rolls were 53.3 per cent greater than the same month in 1936, according to the United States department of labor. The department reports that 9,522 building contractors employed 97,739 workers during the first month of this year. The report relates to employes engaged in erecting, altering, and repairing private buildings and does not include governmental work.

THEY KNOW THE IMPORATNCE OF
PROPERLY SEASONED JOISTS

JOISTS have a very important function in the home. Upon them rests the weight of the floor . . . and the entire contents of the building. They should be correctly seasoned (to assure uniformity of size and greater strength) . . . and have sufficient stiffness to carry the load without undue deflection. If they're "green" or unseasoned . . . an uneven floor will result and other parts of the structure, too, will suffer ill effects.

- Proper assembly involves correct spacing (16" apart, measured from the center of one to the other) . . . and cross-bridge bracing. Mr. and Mrs. Wisdom checked this point in "Questions Before the House" . . . and double-checked it on the job.
- Properly seasoned Southern Pine joists are plentifully available from responsible lumber dealers . . . who will be glad to take care of your needs. If there is any question in your mind . . . consult your lumber dealer. He'll be glad to serve you. Build right—from the foundation up—and long years of comfort and satisfaction will be yours.

Trained Staff

Thus the underwriting and valuation operations of the federal housing administration are constantly revised and corrected, each new idea being checked against the national standard and tested in local insuring offices. Progress is constant, although slow.

The building of a technically trained staff of valuation and mortgage-risk experts insures the federal housing administration of ever-increasing efficiency in its operations and insures the public and the mortgage-lending institutions of sound and rapid handling of cases.

EMPLOYMENT, WAGES, INCREASE THIS YEAR

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Employment in the building industry in January, 1937, was 33.2 per cent higher and pay rolls were 53.3 per cent greater than the same month in 1936, according to the United States department of labor. The department reports that 9,522 building contractors employed 97,739 workers during the first month of this year. The report relates to employes engaged in erecting, altering, and repairing private buildings and does not include governmental work.

Printing
Of Quality and Taste

Such printing must bear a price commensurate with the skill, time, materials and expense attendant upon its production. As in clothing, foods, jewelry, furniture, automobiles and other necessities and luxuries of life, the price paid for printing always bears a close relationship to the quality and value received. Superior workmanship and materials of genuine excellence naturally cost more than mediocre or sloppy work and cheap, shoddy materials, and must sell for more.

But good printing serves its purpose better than the other kind, and is always the least expensive in the end. Money "saved" in buying inferior printing is actually money wasted.

Let us show you how we can improve upon your old stationery, office forms and advertising pieces. Dressed up in new faces of type, correctly and effectively arranged by expert craftsmen, and perhaps brightened by the use of an extra color, they'll be different and pleasing. Of course, the cost may be a little higher, but you'll gladly pay the difference when you see the work. Give us a trial order for some of your printing requirements and you will be satisfied.

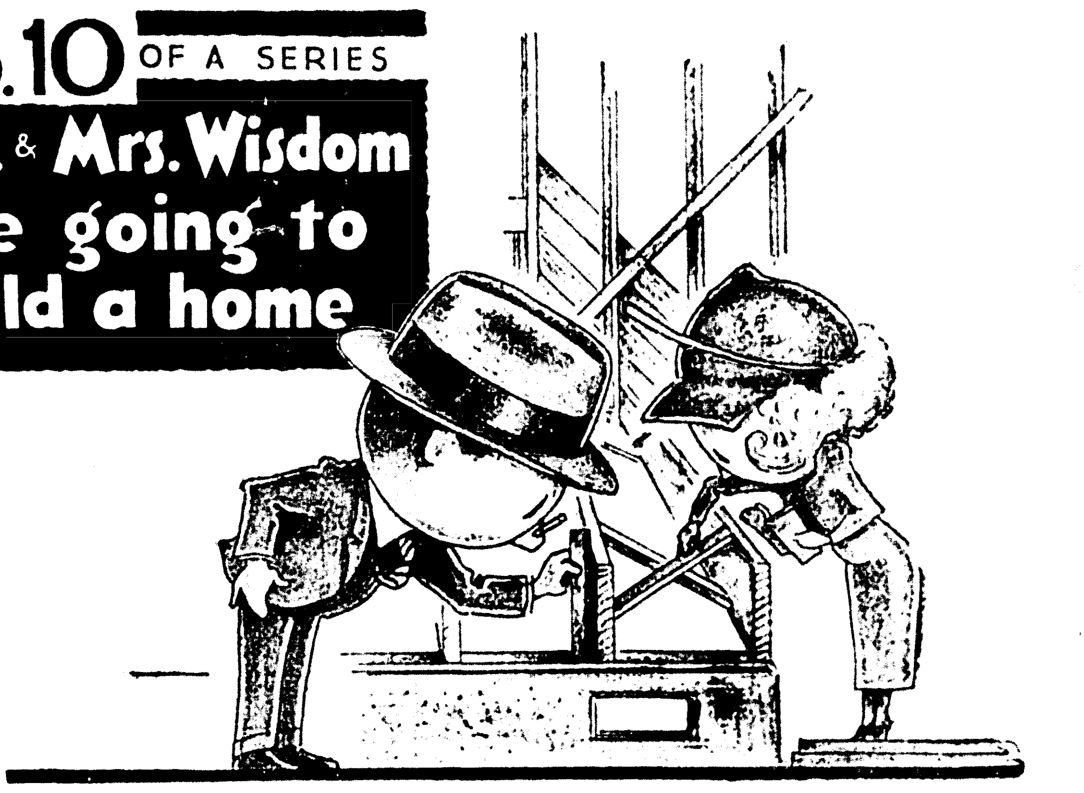
No. 10 OF A SERIES
Mr. & Mrs. Wisdom are going to build a home



THEY KNOW THE IMPORATNCE OF
PROPERLY SEASONED JOISTS

JOISTS have a very important function in the home. Upon them rests the weight of the floor . . . and the entire contents of the building. They should be correctly seasoned (to assure uniformity of size and greater strength) . . . and have sufficient stiffness to carry the load without undue deflection. If they're "green" or unseasoned . . . an uneven floor will result and other parts of the structure, too, will suffer ill effects.

• Proper assembly involves correct spacing (16" apart, measured from the center of one to the other) . . . and cross-bridge bracing. Mr. and Mrs. Wisdom checked this point in "Questions Before the House" . . . and double-checked it on the job.

• Properly seasoned Southern Pine joists are plentifully available from responsible lumber dealers . . . who will be glad to take care of your needs. If there is any question in your mind . . . consult your lumber dealer. He'll be glad to serve you. Build right—from the foundation up—and long years of comfort and satisfaction will be yours.

This program is brought to you by the Retail Lumber Dealers of your city and the Southern Pine Association in the interest of better construction. . . .

Irving Berlin's 'On The Avenue' At Paramount Today

They're ready! They're willing! And, oh boy, are they able! That sensational new dancing team Lee Dixon and Ruby Keeler are at the Paramount Thursday and Friday in "Ready, Willing and Able" with Allen Jenkins, Louise Fazenda, Ross Alexander, and Teddy Hart.

"Now and Forever," the picture that launched Shirley Temple as a full-fledged star, boasts this stellar cast: Gary Cooper, Shirley Temple, and Carole Lombard. Little Shirley steals the show at the Capitol today and Monday.

Irving Berlin's smash musical, "On the Avenue," shows at the Paramount today and Monday. Featuring Dick Powell and Madeleine Carroll with Alice Faye, the Ritz Brothers, and an outstanding cast. With Powell never in better voice beautiful Madeleine Carroll, the goofy Ritz' clowning, this should be Irving Berlin's greatest success.

The immortal story of the lady of the camellias, "Camille," is the attraction at the Capitol Wednesday and Thursday, starring two of the screen's most glamorous figures, Robert Taylor and Greta Garbo. "Camille" features Elizabeth Allen, Jessie Ralph, Henry Daniell and Lionel Barrymore.

"Midnight Court,' the story of a girl reporter and an unscrupulous city official, comes to the Capitol Friday. "Midnight Court" introduces a new figure to the screen in the person of John Litel, Broadway stage star. Ann Dvorak plays opposite. Also featured are Carlyle Moore, Jr. and Joseph Crehan.

Dick Powell Tops Cast In Musical Hit

Madeleine Carroll And Strong Supporting Cast Featured In Picture

SWINGING merrily along to the tune of the best songs ever written by the greatest writer of songs in the world, "On the Avenue," playing today at the Paramount theater, represents Irving Berlin at his melodious best, in a musical that is full of pep and lilting good spirits.

With Dick Powell and Madeleine Carroll making a new and romantic twosome of musical comedy, the lively Twentieth entury-Fox musical presents a real-life romance of New York, in a show that's as big as the town. Alice Faye, the Ritz brothers and George Barbier add both melody and mirth to the production.

Madeleine Carroll, noted hitherto for straight dramatic roles, makes a charming sweetheart for Dick Powell. The beginning of "On the Avenue" finds her, as a wealthy debutante, entering a theater with her father, George Barbier, and an explorer, Alan Mowbray, at the moment that Dick Powell, Alice Faye and the Ritz brothers are engaged in a hilarious take-off on the home life of "the richest girl in the world."

Infuriated, Madeleine stalks from the theater, threatens the manager with suit, and brushes past a stage doorman to snatch Alice's wig from her and to break the window of Dick's dressing room before she is forcibly ejected.

Relenting later, Madeleine apologies for being a poor sport, and invites Dick to dinner. Falling in love with her, Dick promises to revise the skit, and invites her to the next performance. At this, however, Alice, Dick's partner, horrifies him by adding even more caustic lines to the skit.

Madeleine takes her revenge on Dick for the public humiliation, but, in a surprising scene, in which the music of Irving Berlin plays a novel part, Dick finds a way to clear up the misunderstandings that have parted them and to bring a thrilling conclusion to the film.

Swank in its songs, in its romantic stars, and in its lovely chorines, "On the Avenue" has the added virtue of presenting some merrily madcap performances by reliable Hollywood funmakers.

Worthy of a separate note are the distinctive and lovely melodies Irving Berlin composed for the film, "This Year's Kisses," "You're Laughing at Me," "Slumming on Park Avenue," "I've Got My Love to Keep Me Warm," "The Girl on the Police Gazette," and a novelty number written for the Ritz Brothers, called "He Ain't Got Rhythm."

Darryl F. Zanuck, vice-president in charge of production at Twentieth Century-Fox, chose Roy Del Ruth, noted director of "Thanks a Million" and other popular musicals, to direct "On the Avenue," with Gene Markey associate producer. The original screen play is by Markey and William Conselman.

CCC LADS IMPROVE SITE OF BAPTIST ENCAMPMENT

JENA, La., April 17.—(Special)—Officials have announced that the northeast Louisiana Baptist encampment site has been greatly improved during the past year and will be in excellent shape for the annual encampment of Baptists there June 28 to July 9.

The site is located about two miles from Olla and is used by Camp 58 of the civilian conservation corps during the time it is not occupied by the Baptists.

Over 1,400 feet of concrete sidewalks have been laid by the corps, with Baptist churches furnishing the materials. Over 100 shrubs have been planted and flower beds have been made in various parts of the camp. Sodding of the grass, tree culture, the remodeling of the houses, and painting of them was performed. All the work was done under the supervision of Captain Francis B. Clements, commanding officer of the camp, and Lieutenant A. H. Miller and Hubert Beall, educational advisers.

COTTON SEED CRUSHING IN LOUISIANA INCREASES

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 17.—(Special)—Activity in the Louisiana cotton seed crushing mills during the eight-months period August 1, 1936, to March 31, 1937, was considerably greater than during the corresponding 1935-36 period, statistics from the department of commerce showed today.

During the current period, 227,644 tons of seed were received at the Louisiana mills, 221,204 tons were crushed, and 8,114 tons were left on hand at the end of March, compared with the 1935-36 period totals of 172,432 tons, 170,780 tons and 3,015 tons, respectively.

The output of the Louisiana crushing mills during the 1936-37 period consisted of 66,221,500 pounds of crude oil, 96,759 tons of cake and meal, 60,180 tons of hulls, and 56,201 running bales of linters. Stocks of cotton seed products on hand at the mills on March 31, 1937, were 366,035 pounds of crude oil, 3,738 tons of cake and meal, 5,218 tons of hulls, and 1,640 running bales of linters.

About two-thirds of Canada's gold production now comes from the province of Ontario. The province produced 2,220,336 of a total of 3,284,890 ounces for the Dominion in the calendar year of 1935.

Picture At Capitol Has Stellar Cast

Gary Cooper, Carole Lombard And Shirley Temple In 'Now And Forever'

A GRAND acting combination, a thrilling, fast-paced and imaginatively directed story, and a human and appealing theme, are the elements that Paramount put into the making of "Now and Forever," now at the Capitol theater, and that make that picture one of the most thoroughly delightful and entertaining hours of film fare, that have been offered in a long time.

Romantic Gary Cooper, Carole Lombard and lovable Shirley Temple are the three who play out this tale of a reckless young international crook, his light of love, and the child who changes the whole course of their gay lives.

It manages to make the becurled and bright-eyed Shirley even more irresistible than she was in "Little Miss Marker," the picture that made her the greatest child sensation. One of the highlights of the new film is the scene where she sings "The Grasshopper and the Frog," hopping about to show how the big, bad froggie goes.

Cooper plays Shirley's father, reunited with her for the first time since her infancy. While the two are house guests with Carole Lombard at the Paris home of a wealthy English woman (Charlotte Granville), the hostess' jewels are stolen and a police investigation results. Shirley discovers her daddy is the thief and is heart-broken.

Cooper has given the jewels into the keeping of a suave confidence man. Shamed by his daughter's tears, he regains and restores them and wins back the youngster's faith in a stirring climax.

The story, adapted by Vincent Lawrence and Sylvia Thalberg from an original by Jack Kirkland and Melville Baker, is strong in intense human quality, which has been well brought out by the direction of Henry Hathaway.

TRAINING MEET WILL BE HELD FOR CLUB LEADERS

FARMERVILLE, La., April 17.—(Special)—Miss Estelle Fournet, food preservation specialist of the extension division of Louisiana State university, will conduct a home demonstration club leaders' training meeting next Friday at the agricultural building here, according to an announcement made by Miss Marietta Nelson, Union parish home demonstration agent.

Picture At Capitol Has Stellar Cast

Gary Cooper, Carole Lombard And Shirley Temple In 'Now And Forever'

A GRAND acting combination, a thrilling, fast-paced and imaginatively directed story, and a human and appealing theme, are the elements that Paramount put into the making of "Now and Forever," now at the Capitol theater, and that make that picture one of the most thoroughly delightful and entertaining hours of film fare that have been offered in a long time.

Romantic Gary Cooper, Carole Lombard and lovable Shirley Temple are the three who play out this tale of a reckless young international crook, his light of love, and the child who changes the whole course of their gay lives.

It manages to make the becurled and bright-eyed Shirley even more irresistible than she was in "Little Miss Marker," the picture that made her the greatest child sensation. One of the highlights of the new film is the scene where she sings "The Grasshopper and the Frog," hopping about to show how the big, bad froggie goes.

Sir Guy Standing and Charlotte Granville, two of the most competent character players in Hollywood, have important supporting roles.

Cooper plays Shirley's father, reunited with her for the first time since her infancy. While the two are house guests with Carole Lombard at the Paris home of a wealthy English woman (Charlotte Granville), the hostess' jewels are stolen and a police investigation results. Shirley discovers her daddy is the thief and is heart-broken.

Cooper has given the jewels into the keeping of a suave confidence man. Shamed by his daughter's tears, he regains and restores them and wins back the youngster's faith in a stirring climax.

The story, adapted by Vincent Lawrence and Sylvia Thalberg from an original by Jack Kirkland and Melville Baker, is strong in intense human quality, which has been well brought out by the direction of Henry Hathaway.

TRAINING MEET WILL BE HELD FOR CLUB LEADERS

NEIGHBORLINESS

There are many things that go in making a community successful. Many of these are not measured in figures or tables. Of these, the spirit of friendliness born of common interests, has played a major role in the successful development of Ouachita parish.

The keen interest which Ouachitans manifest in the joys and sorrows of their neighbors has done much to make life pleasant here. It is this bond of sympathy, devoid of prying curiosity, which ties the people of this parish into a community of prosperous and happy citizens.

Charity, when expressed so universally and spontaneously as it was in the flood disaster of 1927 speaks highly for the people of this section. To the life long residents of Ouachita, this commendable trait is taken for granted. It is the stranger, the newcomer, who fully appreciates the kindly regard of his neighbors.

This understanding and cooperation is not difficult to analyze. The interests of Ouachitans are so closely allied that the success or failure of an individual is invariably reflected in the success of his neighbor. The farmer, the merchant and the professional man are brought together constantly and they long ago realized that to prosper they must cooperate. The result has been a harmony nursed by understanding and friendliness.

There are many other factors which have brought about this singular unity of purpose. Ouachita is populated by a people whose forefathers earned for the South its fame and renown for hospitality. These people have settled into small communities, the largest of which is the City of Monroe with its 32,500 souls. In such groups, it is not difficult for an individual to know personally all of his neighbors.

Thus, geographically, every Ouachitan is within almost walking distance from his neighbor's house. In view of this, it is difficult for anyone to ignore the success or misfortune of his fellow citizen.

With this bond of friendship tying neighbor with neighbor, Ouachita will continue to prosper for, with a people united, adversity is necessarily handicapped.

For further information, call or write to the Monroe Chamber of Commerce or the Monroe Morning World. Details on labor, costs, and possibilities will be furnished to all.

NEIGHBORLINESS

There are many things that go in making a community successful. Many of these are not measured in figures or tables. Of these, the spirit of friendliness born of common interests, has played a major role in the successful development of Ouachita parish.

The keen interest which Ouachitans manifest in the joys and sorrows of their neighbors has done much to make life pleasant here. It is this bond of sympathy, devoid of prying curiosity, which ties the people of this parish into a community of prosperous and happy citizens.

Charity, when expressed so universally and spontaneously as it was in the flood disaster of 1927 speaks highly for the people of this section. To the life long residents of Ouachita, this commendable trait is taken for granted. It is the stranger, the newcomer, who fully appreciates the kindly regard of his neighbors.

This understanding and cooperation is not difficult to analyze. The interests of Ouachitans are so closely allied that the success or failure of an individual is invariably reflected in the success of his neighbor. The farmer, the merchant and the professional man are brought together constantly and they long ago realized that to prosper they must cooperate. The result has been a harmony nursed by understanding and friendliness.

There are many other factors which have brought about this singular unity of purpose. Ouachita is populated by a people whose forefathers earned for the South its fame and renown for hospitality. These people have settled into small communities, the largest of which is the City of Monroe with its 32,500 souls. In such groups, it is not difficult for an individual to know personally all of his neighbors.

Thus, geographically, every Ouachitan is within almost walking distance from his neighbor's house. In view of this, it is difficult for anyone to ignore the success or misfortune of his fellow citizen.

With this bond of friendship tying neighbor with neighbor, Ouachita will continue to prosper for, with a people united, adversity is necessarily handicapped.

For further information, call or write to the Monroe Chamber of Commerce or the Monroe Morning World. Details on labor, costs, and possibilities will be furnished to all.

STATE OFFICERS' UNIT WILL MEET

Louisiana Department Of Reserve Officers To Gather April 24-25

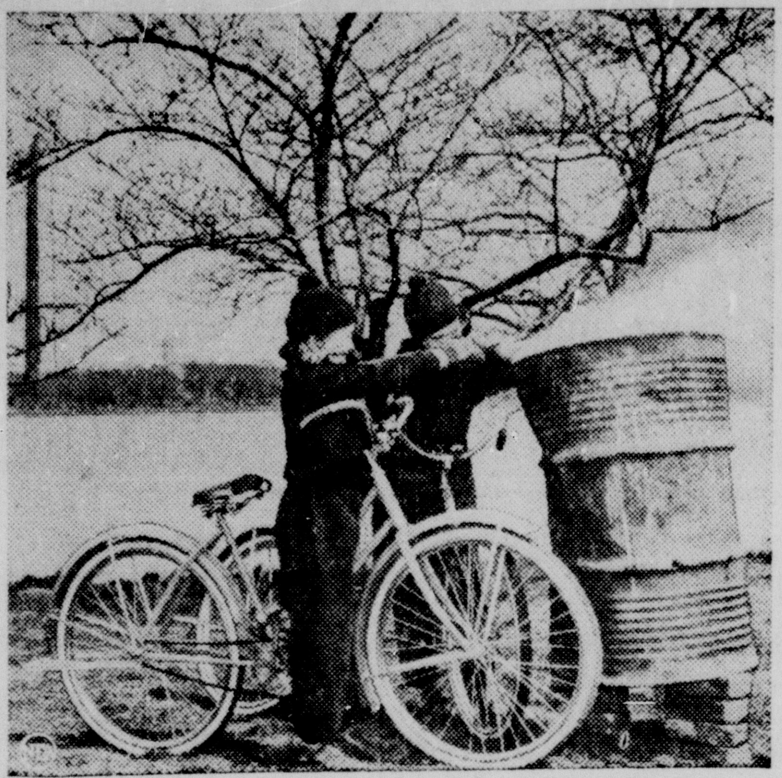
The Louisiana department of the reserve officers' association of the United States will meet in Monroe at the Virginia hotel April 24-25, for its annual convention and contact camp. Those attending the meetings will be allowed 14 hours inactive duty credits, and an interesting program has been arranged by Colonel Otha C. Roddey, vice-president of the Louisiana department.

Approximately 200 reserve officers from all parts of the state are expected to attend the convention. Arrangements have been made for the following high ranking officers to address the members:

Colonel Francis F. Barnard, Brigadier-General Raymond H. Fleming, adjutant-general of Louisiana; Colonel Charles B. Elliott, in charge of reserve affairs, fourth corps area; Colonel Emil P. Pierson, chief of staff of the 87th division; Colonel L. Kemper Williams, past national president of the reserve officers' association; Colonel Edward S. Bres, president fourth corps area; Colonel Roy A. Hill, of Louisiana State university; Colonel Leland S. Hobbs, and Major Floyd H. Hyndman.

A highlight of the session will be the address to be delivered by Governor Richard W. Leche on the opening day of the convention at 2 p.m.

SAVING CHERRY BLOSSOMS



Nancy and Polly Pierce, above, discover that a smudge pot can be used to warm frosted hands as well as budding Washington cherry trees when the temperature drops. The smudge pots were placed out when warm weather started the famous trees budding and a following cold snap threatened to nip them in the bud, literally.

Viceroy Mendoza introduced printing into Mexico in 1536.

NOTICE

Effective immediately, my department will not cut any more trees on private property. This action is made necessary due, not only to the expense involved, but the fact that we have a great volume of work to be done on streets and parks. We will continue to take care of defective trees on neutral grounds.

GYMNASIUM BUILDING BIDS TO BE OPENED

Bids will be opened Monday for the purpose of awarding the contract to build the new physical education building at the Ouachita Parish High school on South Grand street. The bids will be opened in the offices of T. O. Brown, superintendent of education, in the grammar school building.

The contemplated structure will be a two-story brick building, entirely fireproof, containing a large gymnasium, dressing rooms and other conveniences.

The building of this new addition to the Ouachita parish school system is made possible through the granting of a PWA loan from the federal government amounting to $34,363, which is said to represent 45 per cent of the entire cost of the project. This loan was approved last June, and in view of the increased cost of materials it is expected that the new building will cost in the neighborhood of $60,000.

Mr. Brown stated that work will commence as soon as the contract is awarded so that the new gymnasium may be ready for use by the middle of September.

CHURCH TO QUIT BUILDING TODAY

Immanuel Baptist Congregation To Talk Plans For New Location

The congregation of Immanuel Baptist church, 714 North Fourth street, West Monroe, will worship in the present church building for the last times at regular service hours today, according to announcement made by the pastor, Rev. A. G. Anderson.

This church was organized a few years ago by Rev. Herman Driskell, who served as first pastor. The church has been rather heavily involved in debt and members voted at a recent meeting to surrender the property to the holder of the mortgage, which has been done. It was further stated that this action was taken "without any ill feeling toward the holder of the mortgage, as the church has been shown much consideration from this source in all its dealings."

A special church meeting has been called to be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hayton, 612 North Fourth street, West Monroe, Tuesday at 7:30 p.m., when a vote will be taken as to the future plans of the congregation. It was stated Saturday that it is probable a reorganization will be effected and that a new site may be secured, possibly on the south side of West Monroe, and a tabernacle erected thereon.

The present pastor, Rev. Anderson, previous to the time he accepted a call to Immanuel church, was pastor for two years at Lock Arbor church, and is highly regarded. He expressed the opinion that the members of the church, of which there are 228 on the rolls, are seemingly desirous of proceeding with the work, but in another location in the city.

GRAND JURORS TO MEET

HARRISONBURG, La., April 17.—(Special)—The Catahoula parish grand jury will meet here Monday to investigate cases for the spring term of court.

JOB PLACEMENTS REPORT RENDERED

State Employment Service Obtains Employment For 55,078 Persons

BATON ROUGE, La., April 17.—(Special)—Approximately 55,078 placements have been made by the Louisiana state employment service in the last two fiscal years in Louisiana, according to a report made public today by B. W. Cason, state commissioner of labor, and P. J. Charlet, state employment service director. Of these, 6,482 were placements in private industry.

The figures are available in a report made to Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, director of the United States employment service. It shows that approximately 9,000,000 job placements have been made all over the country by the services during the two-year period. Of these, 2,250,208 were placements in private industry.

The Louisiana service placed 2,003 workers in March, an increase of 336 over February and 553 over March of last year. In February the total was 1,640 and in March the past year, 1,450. Private industry took 1,173 and 830 went to work on public projects in March, the report revealed. In February the figures were 994 to private firms and 644 to public jobs and in March of last year, 536 were private placements and 914 on public works.

In Ouachita parish, 122 placements were made, 109 of these with private industry and 13 on public works. In March last year, 62 placements were made, 36 with private business and 26 on public jobs.

BAPTIST W. M. S. TO MEET

HARRISONBURG, La., April 17.—(Special)—The Women's Missionary union of the Ouachita Baptist association will conduct an all-day meeting here Tuesday, beginning at 10 a.m. A program of special interest to members of the society has been prepared.

REVIVAL MEETINGS WILL CLOSE TODAY

The revival at the Louisiana Baptist Children's home will close today, when there will be a baptismal service at Bayou DeSiard, near the home, at 3:30 p.m. Large throngs are expected to attend, coming from not only Monroe but from many cities and towns in north Louisiana. It is expected that there will be as many as 60 baptisms, all of children from the home.

The revival has been in progress since April 11, having been in charge of Rev. H. G. Buchanan, of Vivian, and the music has been directed by Fletcher S. Nelson, of Monroe.

This revival is said to have been the most successful ever conducted by the home since it was established here.

Rev. Buchanan will preach at the church on the grounds of the home at 9 a.m. and at 7:30 p.m. today, in addition to the baptismal service at 3:30 p.m. at Bayou DeSiard. The public is invited to attend all the services.

Sausages are made from hogs listed as boars at market.

Immanuel Baptist Congregation To Talk Plans For New Location

The congregation of Immanuel Baptist church, 714 North Fourth street, West Monroe, will worship in the present church building for the last times at regular service hours today, according to announcement made by the pastor, Rev. A. G. Anderson.

This church was organized a few years ago by Rev. Herman Driskell, who served as first pastor. The church has been rather heavily involved in debt and members voted at a recent meeting to surrender the property to the holder of the mortgage, which has been done. It was further stated that this action was taken "without any ill feeling toward the holder of the mortgage, as the church has been shown much consideration from this source in all its dealings."

A special church meeting has been called to be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hayton, 612 North Fourth street, West Monroe, Tuesday at 7:30 p.m., when a vote will be taken as to the future plans of the congregation. It was stated Saturday that it is probable a reorganization will be effected and that a new site may be secured, possibly on the south side of West Monroe, and a tabernacle erected thereon.

The present pastor, Rev. Anderson, previous to the time he accepted a call to Immanuel church, was pastor for two years at Lock Arbor church, and is highly regarded. He expressed the opinion that the members of the church, of which there are 228 on the rolls, are seemingly desirous of proceeding with the work, but in another location in the city.

JOB PLACEMENTS REPORT RENDERED

State Employment Service Obtains Employment For 55,078 Persons

BATON ROUGE, La., April 17.—(Special)—Approximately 55,078 placements have been made by the Louisiana state employment service in the last two fiscal years in Louisiana, according to a report made public today by B. W. Cason, state commissioner of labor, and P. J. Charlet, state employment service director. Of these, 6,482 were placements in private industry.

The figures are available in a report made to Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, director of the United States employment service. It shows that approximately 9,000,000 job placements have been made all over the country by the services during the two-year period. Of these, 2,250,208 were placements in private industry.

The Louisiana service placed 2,003 workers in March, an increase of 336 over February and 553 over March of last year. In February the total was 1,640 and in March the past year, 1,450. Private industry took 1,173 and 830 went to work on public projects in March, the report revealed. In February the figures were 994 to private firms and 644 to public jobs and in March of last year, 536 were private placements and 914 on public works.

In Ouachita parish, 122 placements were made, 109 of these with private industry and 13 on public works. In March last year, 62 placements were made, 36 with private business and 26 on public jobs.

BAPTIST W. M. S. TO MEET

HARRISONBURG, La., April 17.—(Special)—The Women's Missionary union of the Ouachita Baptist association will conduct an all-day meeting here Tuesday, beginning at 10 a.m. A program of special interest to members of the society has been prepared.

REVIVAL MEETINGS WILL CLOSE TODAY

The revival at the Louisiana Baptist Children's home will close today, when there will be a baptismal service at Bayou DeSiard, near the home, at 3:30 p.m. Large throngs are expected to attend, coming from not only Monroe but from many cities and towns in north Louisiana. It is expected that there will be as many as 60 baptisms, all of children from the home.

The revival has been in progress since April 11, having been in charge of Rev. H. G. Buchanan, of Vivian, and the music has been directed by Fletcher S. Nelson, of Monroe.

This revival is said to have been the most successful ever conducted by the home since it was established here.

Rev. Buchanan will preach at the church on the grounds of the home at 9 a.m. and at 7:30 p.m. today, in addition to the baptismal service at 3:30 p.m. at Bayou DeSiard. The public is invited to attend all the services.

GYMNASIUM BUILDING BIDS TO BE OPENED

Bids will be opened Monday for the purpose of awarding the contract to build the new physical education building at the Ouachita Parish High school on South Grand street. The bids will be opened in the offices of T. O. Brown, superintendent of education, in the grammar school building.

The contemplated structure will be a two-story brick building, entirely fireproof, containing a large gymnasium, dressing rooms and other conveniences.

The building of this new addition to the Ouachita parish school system is made possible through the granting of a PWA loan from the federal government amounting to $34,363, which is said to represent 45 per cent of the entire cost of the project. This loan was approved last June, and in view of the increased cost of materials it is expected that the new building will cost in the neighborhood of $60,000.

Mr. Brown stated that work will commence as soon as the contract is awarded so that the new gymnasium may be ready for use by the middle of September.

VESTRYMEN ELECTED

LAKE PROVIDENCE, La., April 17.—(Special)—Vestrymen of the Grace Episcopal church of Lake Providence have been elected for the coming year as follows: H. H. Graham, senior warden; J. C. Purdy, junior warden and treasurer; and W. Y. Bell, secretary; F. H. Schneider, E. D. Schneider, Will Hider, Vail Delony, J. H. Guenard, W. B. Benjamin, T. G. Wood, R. S. Guenard, F. D. Bull and Frank Byerley.

NOTICE

Effective immediately, my department will not cut any more trees on private property. This action is made necessary due, not only to the expense involved, but the fact that we have a great volume of work to be done on streets and parks. DICK TRACY
By Chester Gould
YOU SEE, TRACY, THEY THOUGHT I WAS A LITTLE SNITCH-THIEF AND AFTER THEY HIT ME AND SAW THE "BLOOD," WHICH WAS NOTHING BUT MERCUROCHROME, THEY GOT PANICKY AND CALLED THE COPS.
AARONS OF THE SEVENTH PRECINCT CAME OVER. AS SOON AS I SAW HIM, I WINKED AND GAVE HIM THE HIGH SIGN AND HE TOOK ME AWAY.
GOOD! AT LEAST YOU ACCOMPLISHED WHAT YOU SET OUT TO... YOU DISCOVERED WHERE THEY'RE STAYING.
BUT TELL ME HOW YOU GOT YOURSELF DRENCHED WITH PERFUME. YOU SMELL LIKE A WHOLE COUNTER OF BEAUTY PREPARATIONS.
I SAW THREE BIG BOTTLES SETTING ON A TABLE.
I PURPOSELY STUMBLED AGAINST THE TABLE AND KNOCKED A BOTTLE OVER ON ME.
BENSON, HAND ME THAT VACUUM BOTTLE SITTING ON MY DESK— THE ONE WE PICKED UP IN THE GIRLS' FIRST APARTMENT!
THE ODORS ARE IDENTICAL.
YES, THIS IS MR. JURGENS, PERFUME BUYER FOR MARSHALL HITES COMPANY.
MR. JURGENS, WE'D LIKE YOU TO COME TO HEADQUARTERS AND IDENTIFY A PERFUME FROM SOME SAMPLES WE HAVE. CAN YOU DO THAT?
I'LL TRY.
IF HE CAN TELL US THE NAME OF THE PERFUME, WE CAN CHECK TO SEE IF THAT'S THE KIND THAT'S BEEN STOLEN FROM THEIR SHOPS LATELY. THEN WE'LL HAVE A CASE.
MEANWHILE
OH— COME IN, MADAME.
WE HAVE A VERY FINE BATCH FOR YOU TODAY —THERE'S TWENTY-TWO OUNCES OF "FLOWER-OF-NIGHT." YOU CAN HAVE IT FOR 500 DOLLARS.
FIVE HUNDRED DOLLARS? LISTEN, MY DEAR, YOU'VE GOT A SWEET RACKET —BUT THERE'S SUCH A THING AS OVERDOING IT.
I'LL GIVE YOU EXACTLY 20 DOLLARS AN OUNCE— BUT I MUST DO MY OWN MEASURING.
HM-M! 440 DOLLARS. OKAY, WE'LL TAKE IT— HERE'S THE GRADUATE.

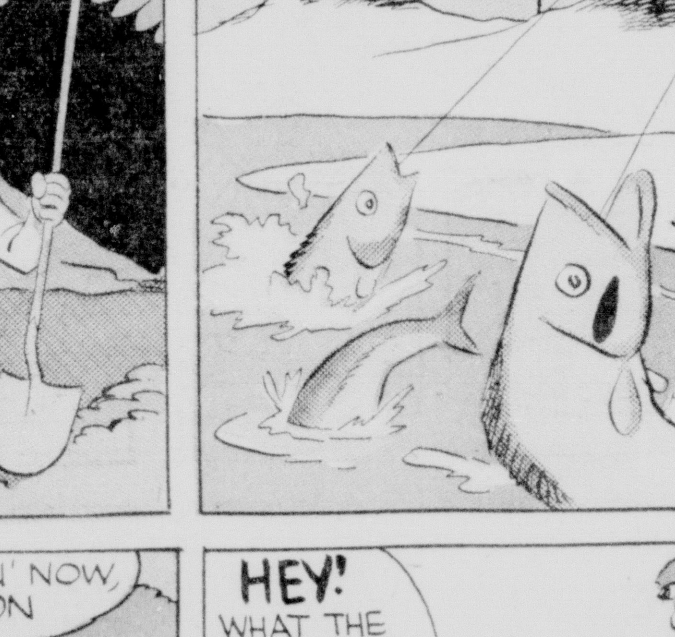
HOURLY, citizens of Prague gather before the Town Hall tower to watch its enormous ornate clock announce the time. The 12 apostles file in and out of niches, preceding the image of Christ, Death tugs at the bell cord, a merchant clutches his money bags, a priest gives his blessing, a scholar bows and a rooster crows long and loud. The pageant and other unusual features make this the world's most remarkable timepiece.

Prague's city fathers, in 1490, when the clock was completed, took pride in the masterpiece and were jealous of it. They feared the man who built it would duplicate it in a rival city. So, to prevent this, they burned out the artisan's eyes.



The blind clockmaker planned revenge. One day he asked a city elder for permission to visit the clock. He wanted to correct an imperfection. Permission was granted and a boy led the man to his cherished accomplishment.

From beneath his cloak the artisan drew an iron bar and hurled it into the sensitive mechanism. The clock stopped. For 400 years it stood still, for no one in all Europe could repair the damage. Finally, about 1890, the clock was started again. But a slight error has remained. The marvelous pageant on the clock tower no longer appears exactly on the hour.

The scene of this remarkable legend appears on two stamps of Czechoslovakia showing the Old City Hall Square at Prague.
